Sectional Plan Set

Mail Schedules Will Be Changed Effective Oct. 1

A drastic change in mail schedules to provide next day delivery anywhere in Ohio will be inaugurated here Oct. 1 as the Ohio sectional center plan goes into effect, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

The new plan will change the time the mail arrives and leaves East Liverpool and also will eliminate five "star routes" now serving the city. All city mail now will pass through Steubenville, one of 20 centers throughout the state in which mail handling will be concentrated, he explained.

THE SECTIONAL centers will provide the principal mail supply to all post offices within their area, simplifying the distribution of mail by postal clerks and providing faster and more direct routing between post offices, the postmaster continued.

For example, Steubenville will be the mail handling center for mail from post offices in Columbiana County south of West Pont, while mail from West Point north will go to Youngstown for distribution.

"Star routes" between East Liverpool and Salem, Pittsburgh, Weirton, Rochester and Steubenville will be eliminated under the plan. Here are the new time schedules:

From Mondays through Saturdays, all mail coming into East Liverpool will come from Steubenville, with trucks arriving at 6 and 8:35 a. m. and at 3:10 p. m.

THE MORNING mail will include the quantity which arrives each morning from the five present "star routes." It will be processed to city carriers before they leave the post office for deliveries, Brown said.

Mail arriving at 3:10 p. m. and destined for patrons with post office boxes will be in the boxes by 4:15 p. m., he continued.

To replace the trucks taking mail from East Liverpool to the other cities, which now leave between 8 and 8:20 a. m. Mondays through Saturdays, one truck will leave for Steubenville at 9:30 a. m.

$77,600 Set As Goal For Fund Drive

Allocations Fixed For 6 Agencies In Annual Campaign

A goal of $77,600 was announced today for the Community Fund drive which will be held in October.

The figure was established Monday night by the association's Board of Trustees at a meeting in headquarters in the YMCA following recommendations of the Budget Committee.

Richard R. Emmerling, campaign chairman, reported the proposed allocation of funds to the six participating agencies as follows: Boy Scouts, $13,500; Girl Scouts, $10,500; YMCA, $30,500; Salvation Army, $11,500; Recreation Council, $7,500, and USO, $100.

Association directors also set aside $4,000 to cover campaign expenses, a customary practice in such campaigns, Emmerling said.

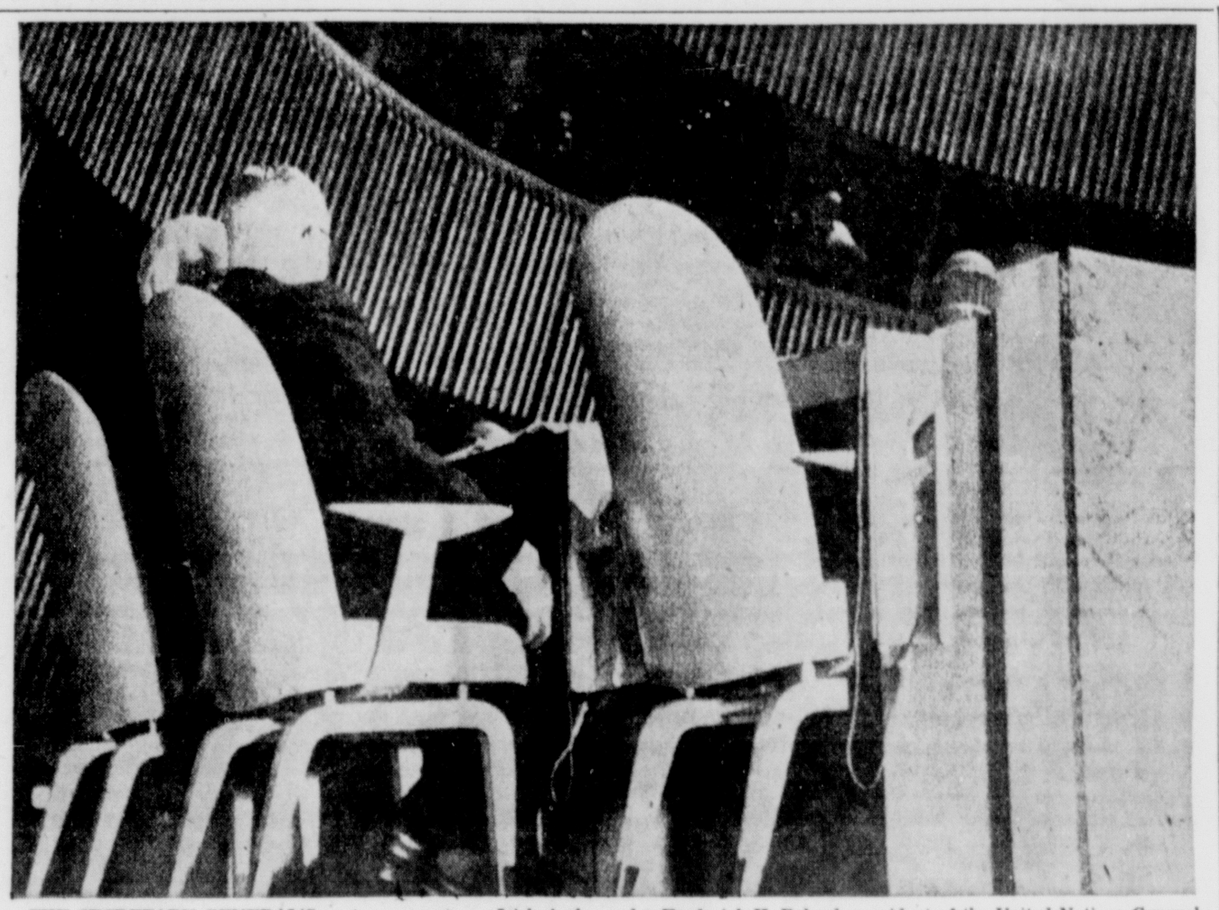

During the board meeting, a financial report of last fall's campaign was read by Carl Werner, executive secretary of the association.

The campaign, which was headed by William A. Black, brought in pledges totaling $79,400—better than 96 per cent of the goal of $82,368. Approximately $73,460 of the pledges have been paid leaving nearly $6,000 outstanding.

It also was reported that thus far during the association's fiscal year the six participating agencies have received payments averaging 83 per cent of their allocations from the 1960 campaign. In the period, a total cash outlay of more than $63,000 has been made by the association to the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army, YMCA, Recreation Council and USO, plus campaign expenditures.

In discussing the 1961 campaign goal, Emmerling emphasized that the "amount was essential. . .operating records of each participating agency have been carefully studied, all non-essential items eliminated. If each campaign worker will make just a little extra effort and contact more prospective donors, we have ev

Deadly Blow Now Feared As Certain

Hurricane Slaps At North Carolina With 33-Ft. Waves

NEW YORK (AP)—The sprawling metropolitan areas of the Northeast girded today for a battering by winds and floods wrought by vicious Hurricane Esther. Thousands already have fled coastal areas in the path of the storm.

Esther slapped the North Carolina coast with 33-foot waves and high winds during the predawn hours as she plodded on a course that could send her inland anywhere from the Virginia coast on up.

Regardless of where she lands her deadly punch, the nation's most densely populated area appears certain to take a beating.

City, civil defense and military officials in the New York, New Jersey, Connecticut metropolitan area of some 16 million people—almost one-tenth of the nation's population—urged citizens to prepare for a possible emergency.

New York City's Mayor Robert F. Wagner called an emergency meeting of a host of city agencies.

Civil defense officials in the city had cots, blankets and food in readiness, and 35 schools were designated as temporary shelters.

Two Texas Towers off New England have been evacuated by the Air Force, mindful of the disastrous collapse of a similar radar warning structure in a storm last January off New Jersey.

Aircraft at air force bases throughout the threatened area were sent flying to safety at bases far inland—some going as far as Wright-Patterson and Lockbourne Air Force bases in Ohio.

In exposed sections of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Delaware, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, residents were hastening the battening-down procedure amid warnings that gale winds and tidal floods would smack their shores today.

Isolated communities on the lower New Jersey coast were battered by waves that lashed across sea walls and flooded roads. Officials worked during the predawn hours surveying roads to determine those that would remain above water longest.

Preparations on Long Island were described by one oldtimer as the most extensive for a storm in his memory. Residents of the 125-mile strip of land east of New York City vividly recalled their brush in 1955 with Hurricane Hazel.

Residents of Fire Island, a sand spit south of Long Island, were urged to evacuate the area, used almost exclusively as a summer resort.

Gas Company Cuts Request For New Rate

Average Increase Set At 16 Per Cent In Alternate Plans

The Ohio Valley Gas Co. is willing to settle for rate increases averaging out to 16 per cent instead of the boost of 20½ per cent it requested in June, Harold Sneddon, local manager of the utility, told Council Tuesday night.

But Council's reception was cool. The members said they will study Ohio Valley's latest proposal and advise Sneddon when they are ready for another conference.

Following through on a pledge he made at the meeting Sept. 5, Sneddon presented Council last night with four new alternative rate schedules. He said Ohio Valley will settle for any of the four.

Each of the alternates calls for a minimum rate of $3.17 monthly, covering the first 1,000 cubic feet of gas. The same minimum was provided for in the company's initial proposition. The present minimum is $2.65. In each case, the utility asked a four-year agreement.

Sneddon's first alternate calls for: A $3.17 minimum; a rate of 90 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for the next 299,000 feet and 70 cents per 1,000 for all gas consumed over 100,000 cubic feet.

His second alternate, also with the $3.17 minimum, provides a rate of $1, per 1,000 for the next 4,000 cubic feet; 88 cents per 1,000 for the next 295,000, and 70 cents per 1,000 for the balance.

The third alternate, in addition to the $3.17 minimum, would fix a rate of $1.38 per 1,000 for the next 4,000 cubic feet; 77½ cents

Revised Gas Rate Offered At Wellsville

Council Will Study Utility's Proposal Reducing Request

A revised proposal for a rate increase was presented Wellsville City Council by the Ohio Valley Gas Co. Tuesday night. It was taken under consideration and Council promised to make a counter-offer.

The new proposal calls for a lesser charge on the first 2,000 cubic feet used by the consumer. But, it calls for a slightly higher rate for any further amount up to 298,000 cubic feet.

The proposal calls for a charge of 30 cents per 100 cubic feet for the first 1,500 feet; 8.3 cents per 100 for the next 298,000 cubic feet and 7 cents per 100 for all over 300,000 cubic feet.

The new schedule was presented by Harold Sneddon, local manager for the utility. The first offer made called for 30 cents per 100 feet for the first 2,000; 78 cents per 1,000 for the next 298,000, and 70 cents per 1,000 for more than 300,000.

This was a general increase of $2.58 for the first 2,000 cubic feet. The present rate is $2.65 for the first 1,000 and 77 cents for each 1,000 thereafter.

Under the second proposal offered last night, the first 2,000 feet would cost $4.96½. This would be $4.50 for the first 1,500 and 46½ cents for the next 500.

On a motion by Councilman Paul Nelson, Council agreed to study the figures and prepare a counter-proposal for the utility at the next meeting Oct. 3.

Mrs. Mary Rahter, Council president, said she preferred to

Withdrawal Demanded Of U.N. Troops

Katanga President Snags Truce Talks; To Quit Conference

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — Katanga President Moise Tshombe today demanded the immediate withdrawal of U.N. troops from his secessionist province.

Tshombe said he would leave this Northern Rhodesian conference center tonight to return to Elisabethville, his capital.

The Katanga leader, battling U.N. efforts to force his mineral-rich land under the rule of the Congo's central government, laid a wreath of white lilies before the coffin of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold as it lay in state.

He went to the church directly from a morning session with the U.N. delegation trying to arrange a Katanga cease-fire.

"We have made counter propositions which the U.N. side has transmitted to New York," Tshombe said. "Now we await their reply."

Tshombe met for more than five hours Tuesday with a U.N. delegation headed by Mahmoud Khiari, a Tunisian diplomat who is chief of U.N. civilian operations in the Congo.

There was a second round today of the talks, to which Hammarskjold was heading when he and 14 of his 15 companions were killed in a plane crash.

For Temporary Chief

BULLETIN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U.N. General Assembly quickly elected Tunisian delegate Mongi Slim as its president today, but no agreement was in sight on the critical problem of choosing a successor to Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The Soviet Union threatened today to torpedo a proposal for a temporary secretary-general who would succeed Dag Hammarskjold and keep the U.N. executive machinery in action.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko indicated Moscow will settle for nothing less than a three-man secretariat to control the world organization.

Under the stop-gap plan, the U.N. General Assembly would name an interim secretary-general to fill the position left vacant by Hammarskjold's death. The West and many neutrals rallied to the support of the proposal.

Soviet opposition heightened fears that the entire question of selecting a new secretary-general would wind up in an East-West deadlock, leaving the U.N. administration without a leader.

This latest crisis was added to the agenda of talks between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Gromyko, who agreed to open conferences Thursday. They originally had planned to discuss the Berlin crisis.

Today it elects Tunisia's Mongi Slim as president and chooses other officers. The rest of the session was set aside for eulogies of Hammarskjold, who perished in an African plane crash Monday.

The battle lines were drawn Tuesday night when Gromyko told newsmen his government would not agree to any one man serving as secretary-general even in an interim capacity.

"Any one person would not be good. We must have three secretaries-general," Gromyko said, harking back to the plan proposed by Premier Khrushchev at last year's General Assembly.

GM, Union Racing Clock For Accord

No Hint Is Given When Agreement Might Be Reached

BULLETIN

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors and the United Auto Workers union reached agreement today on a three-year contract covering GM's 350,000 hourly rated employes.

DETROIT (AP) — Racing the clock toward their third deadline in three weeks, negotiators from General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union stretched continuous new contract bargaining beyond the 18th hour today.

There was no indication this morning when agreement might come, but company and union representatives emerging occasionally from the bargaining room gave every indication they anticipated a settlement, not a stalemate.

At-the-plant working agreements, which supplement the national contract, have stymied national-level bargaining since Sept. 11, when the UAW authorized local unions to walk out in support of their local-level demands.

Grand Jury's Quiz Set In Number Raid

A criminal charge against the Lisbon Salesbook Co. under the new Ohio anti - gambling laws will be one of four cases to be presented to the recalled Columbiana County Grand Jury Thursday at Lisbon.

A representative of the Ohio attorney general's office is expected to present evidence against the Lisbon firm which was raided Sept. 6 by state officials who found quantities of numbers slips books at the plant, said to be the third largest such printer in the nation.

Prosecutor G. William Brokaw said the panel will report sometime Thursday.

Other cases include Herbert McCullough of Pleasant Heights, Lisbon, charged with assault on Charlesetta Wilson, also of Pleasant Heights.

Clarence Jones, 28, of 8th Ave., LaCroft, charged with assault with intent to rape a 20-year-old woman who is a relative by marriage.

Howard Cusick, 17, of Lisbon R. D. 2, formerly of Cleveland, charged with larceny of a car in Cleveland and which he wrecked south of Lisbon on the Old Steubenville Rd. Aug. 21.

Cecil Harvey of East Palestine is foreman.

Terminal Set To Resume

Wellsville Officials Halt Lime Plant To Stop Dust

The Mississippi Lime Co. terminal operation at Wellsville, closed Tuesday by Mayor William J. Shoub on the heels of numerous complaints of dust in the neighborhood, was to resume normal operations today after a clarification of plans and operations with Wellsville City Council Tuesday night.

Officials of the firm, with headquarters at Sainte Genevieve, Mo., appeared before Council, promising to halt the dust and outlining plans for erection of a new plant. They said they would work in close co-operation with the mayor to see that the dust nuisance remains abated.

During the summer, Council was swamped with complaints from residents in the vicinity of the terminal on the Ohio River at 16th St. Residents said the lime dust flying from the large shovel being used to unload it from barges was damaging their homes and creating a health hazard.

Council investigated and was told that a new system was to be installed. At the time, Council was informed the work would be done in 60 days. Later Council directed the mayor to close the operation, terming it a nuisance.

The action finally came yesterday. Mayor Shoub ordered operations halted until all phases of the problem were clarified. He allowed three trucks at the terminal to be loaded and move out and granted permission that two trucks en route from other cities be loaded also. But, no other work was to take place.

Court Fight Looms

Write-In Election Slated For Merged School Posts

A write-in election for five members of a Board of Education in the newly-merged Southern Local and Franklin Local school districts is slated Nov. 7, following appointment of an interim board Tuesday night by the Columbiana Board of Education.

However, a court action against the consolidation may be filed by Franklin Local residents, jeopardizing the status of the merger, the board was told at last night's meeting at Lisbon.

The board again appointed J. B. Fergason and Martin Adams of Salineville, John Ewing of Wayne, Jack Stewart of Yellow Creek and Jack Dangelo of Franklin Township to the board of the new district.

The five had been appointed at the August meeting, but it was subsequently learned they could not be named until the new district was officially merged — 30 days after the consolidation was authorized by the county.

The 30-day period, in which a remonstrance petition could be filed against the merger, ended Sept. 14, and the only petition submitted was one bearing 307 names of Franklin residents seeking a merger with Carroll County districts.

The county board was to have delayed until the October meeting appointment of the new school board, planning to ask Prosecutor William Brokaw about the validity and effect of the Franklin Local petition.

Atty. Donald Elliott, board member, said last night the prosecutor has been busy with the

Gas Rate

per 1,000 for the next 295,000 and 70 cents per 1,000 for any additional consumption.

The fourth alternate, providing a minimum of 3.17 cents per 100 cubic feet for the first 1,500 feet, also calls for a rate of 82½ cents per 1,000 for the next 298,500 and 70 cents per 1,000 for any additional service.

Sneddon said he made some quick computations that indicate his first alternate proposition would be the best from the standpoint both of the householder and the large consumer.

Based on 12 months' service, it would cost the householder $168.33 under the existing rates, he said. On the first proposition the company made in June, the charge for the same service would be $204, he said.

Under the first alternate, the charge for the same service would total $196.98 Under the second alternate, it would total $199.68. Under the third proposal, the charge would be $200.24. He had not computed the rate under the fourth alternate.

Under the company's proposal advanced in June, the minimum would have been set at $6.34 monthly, covering 2,000 cubic feet of gas. The charge for the next 298,000 would be 78 cents per 1,000.

Under the rate now in effect, the minimum charge is $2.65, covering the first 1,000 cubic feet. After that, the gas costs 77 cents per 1,000.

In proposing the alternative rates last night, Sneddon told Council he recognizes that the June proposal has been rejected. The utilities executive and Council have held a series of conferences over the rate request without making any progress.

All the rates proposed last night "are predicated on the amount we pay Manufacturers Light & Heat Co." for the gas it supplies Ohio Valley, Sneddon emphasized. He said the new proposals are based on a wholesale rate 3 cents per 1,000 cubic feet under the amount used to compute the original proposal.

Immediately after Sneddon finished his presentation, Councilman John Kelly remarked: "I can't go along with a 16 per cent increase."

Sneddon asserted his company operated at a loss last year. Council President Charles N. Edwards said he recognizes a public utility cannot be expected to operate at a loss, but he said he does not believe the public should be asked to pay a higher rate in 1961 to overcome a loss the company claims in 1960.

Counciman Norman Bucher said he has heard that extension of service to new suburban areas is one of the factors that has boosted Ohio Valley's operating costs. Sneddon pointed out that would have no direct effect on the local rate, because it covers only the city proper.

Councilman Robert Laughlin said he is anxious for Ohio Valley to reply to a proposal he made about a month ago under which consumers would get credit on their bills for months in which they paid for 1,000 cubic feet without actually using that much gas.

Under his proposal, a customer who used only 500 feet, for instance, during a summer month and was billed for 1,000 would get credit for the unconsumed 500 feet on his billings during cold weather.

Sneddon said the company has taken no action on the suggestion.

Attorney, Wellsville Man Held In Perjury

Bond was set at $1,000 for Mike Provanzano, 38, of 1208 Commerce St., Wellsville, who is slated to file a plea at arraignment Monday.

Thieves Take Hubcaps From 2 Parked Autos

Vaughn Rose of Ephriam St. reported two hubcaps were stolen from his 1956 model auto while it was parked on Harvey Ave. between 10 p. m. Tuesday and 1:15 a. m. today.

Jerry Burke, 809 St. Clair Ave., told police Tuesday four hubcaps were taken from his auto while it was parked on Rigby St. Two outside mirrors also were broken off the car, he said.

Grand Jury and had not had much time to study the petition, although he had advised the board verbally he doubted if anything but a remonstrance petition would have any effect upon the merger.

A remonstrance petition requires 35 per cent of the voters of both districts, whereas the petiton submitted had only about 10 per cent of such registration.

Atty. Elliott said he had checked upon the law relating to such petitions, and said he believes the only way the merger could be changed would be through a remonstrance petition.

The Franklin petition was too late, lacked sufficient signatures and the board would be justified in accepting it but was legally within its rights by not acting upon it, he said.

Fred Johnson of Summitville, who submitted the petition, said he thought the petition should be considered by the board, and an election held on the jointure with Carroll County. "The board should let the people decide where they want their district to go," he said.

He said legal action will be taken to halt the merger with Southern Local.

Gene Snyder of East School District in Carroll County discussed the new Carroll district which Franklin seeks to join. About 30 Franklin Local residents attended the meeting.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, Election Board clerk, said the board will order work started today on the printing of ballots for write - in election of a five-member board on the November ballot.

Three will be named to four-year terms and two will be elected for two-year terms. The ballot will be in two sections, with three blank spaces under the heading indicating the four-year term and two blank spots under the heading relating to two-year terms.

Election by the write-in method was necessary because the deadline for formal filing of candidates for the November election passed early in August.

On the same combination ballot will appear the names of candidates for the State Board of Education and the County Board of Education.

O'Hanlon said it has not been determined finally if the write-in board will take office as soon as the members are elected and qualified or whether they will wait until Jan. 1 to assume their duties.

He said it is most likely the interim board appointed by the County Board will serve through Dec. 31 and the write-in board will assume office the first of the new year.

Come, Let Us Negotiate

This is the time, if ever, that the Soviet Union must prove it is willing to negotiate about difficult problems like Berlin.

"Negotiate" used to mean to confer regarding a basis of agreement. But that is not what it means to Communists when they negotiate.

That isn't what it will mean if they agree to negotiate about Berlin.

To a Communist negotiator, the trick is to grab everything that isn't nailed down, then negotiate for the rest. It is not a conference about a basis of agreement but a lull in the confiscation while the Kremlin decides what is going to be done about the things not already confiscated.

It is like a spider negotiating with a fly about which part of the fly should be eaten next.

It is like the burglar who already has taken the family silver negotiating with the owner of the house over the key to the vault where valuable papers are kept.

It is like a holdup victim being given a chance to negotiate over where he can keep his empty billfold after the robber has taken all the money.

COMMUNISTS always are willing to negotiate about things they want but never about things the other side wants. They will negotiate about West Berlin because they want West Berlin. But they will not negotiate about East Berlin because they already have East Berlin.

Sometimes, to get away from the idea of negotiation, diplomats say they are "exchanging views." This is presumably what Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko will be doing during the early days of the United Nations General Assembly — exchanging views.

This, too, is one thing for the Russians, something else for Americans. When a Russian exchanges a view, he tells what he expects the other party to turn over to him without delay, on pain of being rubbed off the face of the earth if he dares to get tough about it.

What the other party may try to say in a spirit of sweet reasonableness is the other part of the exchange. President Kennedy is supposed to have made this shattering discovery at Vienna last spring when he exchanged views with Nikita Khrushchev. It disenchanted him, his intimates say.

THE YOUNG President came home with an impression that the head Russian Communist had told him the dire things that would happen if the United States didn't knuckle under and that this constituted an "exchange of views."

Yet if these things are mentioned aloud, there is a plaintive complaint by Russian "negotiators" and "view exchangers" that they are being pushed around by capitalist warmongers and so-and-so imperialists.

What would happen if sometimes instead of pleading for one more go at it, the United States would turn stone deaf when negotiations and views were mentioned and inquire, "What negotiations? What views?"

A Mousetrapped Bear

The experts agree. The poor United Nations was in trouble over Russian resistance, and the tragic death of Dag Hammarskjold could be its death blow.

Only Hammarskjold as secretary-general was holding the United Nations together. With him out of the way, the Kremlin can do anything it wants to do and probably will want to scuttle the United Nations.

Beware of experts when they agree. Or rather, beware of the proposition on which they agree, because it must have been too obvious.

The United Nations was meeting Russian resistance to Hammarskjold; that is beyond dispute. It needed a good outcome of its frustrating efforts to pacify the Congo to strengthen the hand of its secretary-general at the outset of another session of the General Assembly.

THE UNITED NATIONS was under severe criticism for letting Hammarskjold involve it in what looked like civil war in the Congo. Mr. Hammarskjold himself was under relentless pressure by the Soviet Union because of his unpopular and so far unsuccessful Congo policy.

He was the prime target for opposition from many points besides the Kremlin.

But for the Kremlin he was a personal target. The quarrel was with him as an individual, not with the United Nations.

It had turned into a showdown between Dag Hammarskjold and the mighty Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

And what happened?

Dag Hammarskjold suddenly wasn't there. He had lost his life in an airplane crash. The Soviet Union, which had been meeting fierce resistance, was without any opponent in front of it.

In football this is called a "mousetrap."

A player overcommits himself to do one specific thing, then suddenly finds himself without opposition to the thing he was trying to do. By the time he recovers, the play has developed in another direction and he is out of it.

The Kremlin had been trying to destroy Dag Hammarskjold. He was the personal target for its savage retribution because he had kept it from dominating the Congo.

But now Dag Hammarskjold is gone. The target isn't there. The Soviet Union must pull itself together and find a new antagonist. True, the United Nations will miss Hammarskjold almost as much as it would miss the United States money that holds it together. But mostly the Soviet Union will miss Hammarskjold, its whipping boy.

It has been mousetrapped by fate. Too bad the Russkies don't play football so they'd know what gives them that all-gone feeling.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

President Kennedy: Greetings and you are welcome even if I don't get you.

Sukarno: Thanks, but I am a little disappointed that there are not more photographers here.

President: Did Tito send any message?

Surkarno: He just said it was too bad Khrushchev resumed bomb tests but not bad enough to get disturbed.

Q: How about Nehru?

A: He is so upset he could almost say so.

Q: Just what do the uncommitted nations want me to do?

A: We think you should negotiate.

Q: How can I negotiate with a negotiator who never admits he could be wrong about anything and makes atomic bomb tests between peace talks?

A: That's your problem. Remember we are uncommitted.

Q: Haven't you heard louder protests against a man for violating a non-parking sign than Belgrade expressed against Khrushchev breaking a pledge not to resume atomic tests?

A: Yes, but who's afraid of a parking law violator?

Q: Suppose a neighbor who has promised to stop heaving torches through your windows begins throwing the house, garage and hayloft. Do you negotiate with him over the issue of who is the arsonist?

A: Let us not get too technical.

Q: Do you neutralists not admit there is a right and wrong side to every question?

A: But there is also a safe side and a danger side.

Q: Don't you think neutrals should take a firm attitude for something besides softer upholstery on rail-fences?

A: Well, those rail-fences are rough if you straddle them for long periods. We neutrals are so stalwart as the safety rules permit.

Q: How can you explain such an attitude?

A: I can explain anything if my smile holds out. There must be a summit peace conference.

Q: Even if it promotes war?

A: We must all keep trying. Where there is life there is hope.

Q: Whose life?

Q: Have you ever heard of America at any time in history threatening to bury any nation, desolate the earth by fire and perhaps wipe out civilization?

A: No, but I must abstain from saying any more about it.

Q: Do you bring me any message favorable to the free world?

A: Yes. Always remember we neutrals are with you to your last drop of blood!

HOME AT 83 BEALE ST., Brookline, where President Kennedy was born, is being painted for preservation as a tourist attraction. Plaque might read "This is dwelling where parents expressed hope John F. Kennedy would become President, not realizing the terrible burdens."

"The whole thing is affecting me and also my family," complains Jack Paar of disapproval of his Berlin border TV show. Yeah, but a trigger happy service man on either side might have brought on something affecting millions of families for keeps.

Swiss have changed national anthem from "Hail to Thee, Switzerland." Maybe new one is easier to yodel.

New York is decorating civilians who come to assistance of cops attacked by hoodlums, punks and popoffs. It's a great idea. There was time when civilians made swift rush to side of anybody attacked in streets. It seemed an American instinct, and few were too timid to display it. Today the general tendency of a bystander or passerby in case of vicious beating of even an old man or kid is to play it safe. The fellow who wades in with a helping hand is a standout.

THE WORD "AIN'T" has been admitted to new dictionary. This offends us as a purist. We think it degrades good English and "don't do nobody no good. We was always told 'ain't' was not of no benefit in speaking or writing, irrespective of what some people done.

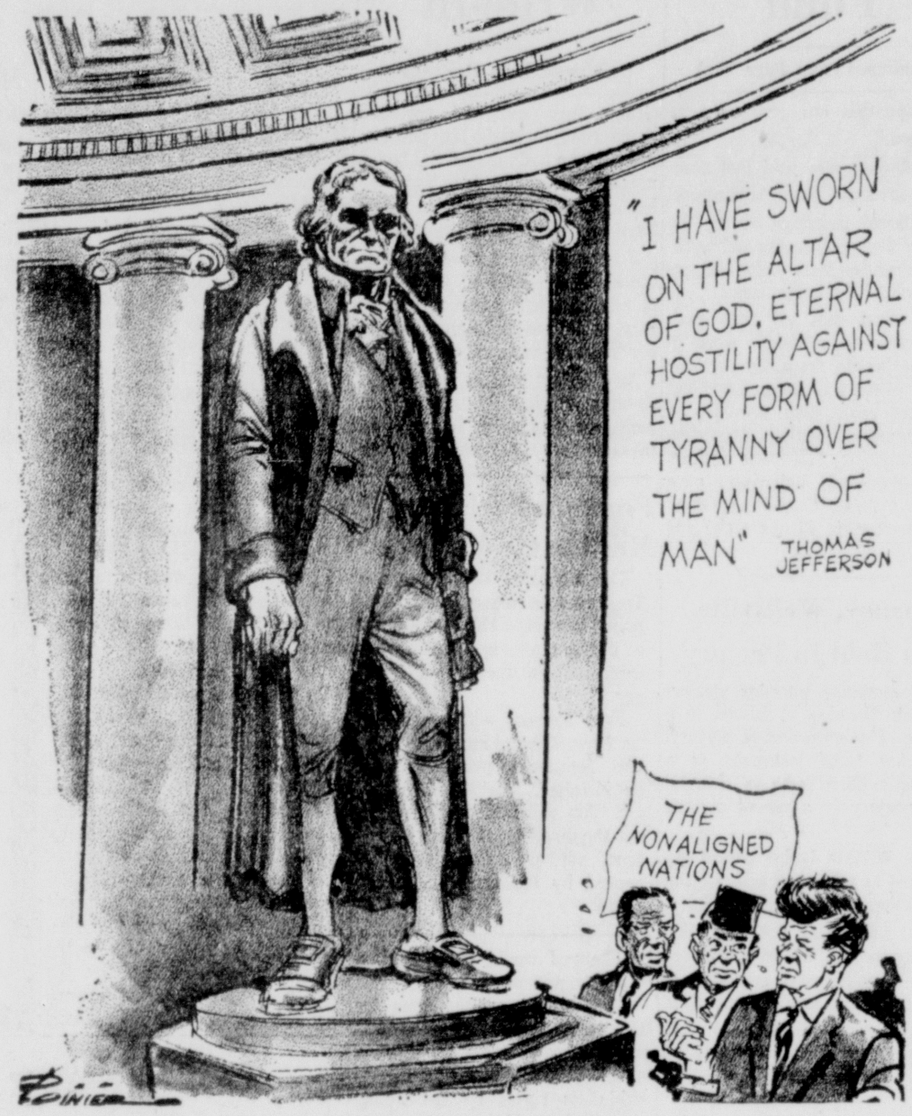

"Keep English pure. Too many people has took every means to give class to decent language and it ain't right to give them no rough deal."

THE NEUTRAL VIEW

We're uncommitted nations,
We sound the neutral call
Against the side that's working
To save us one and all
When life or death's the issue
And master bombs the key
To all the earth's survival
How NEUTRAL WE CAN BE! ! !

Postage stamps for the mailing of letters were used by three other nations before the United States began licking them — by Great Britain, Brazil and Switzerland.

Can Anyone Afford To Be Neutral About Freedom?

Red Labor Slates 'Big Push'

By Victor Riesel

On the London Docks, some weeks ago, I first heard from British intelligence men, that N. S. Khrushchev plans to stagger the outside world with a series of hit and run mass strikes, riots and factory and transportation sabotage some time in October.

Victor Riesel

I appeared to have the Limehouse blues as we walked along the wharves and streets where once 30,000 Orientals had supplied the grim grist for a hundred novels.

Now there were some 200 Chinese left. Few of their restaurants remained. Even the famed old police station was new—all the old quarters having been wiped out by Nazi bombs.

My companion grinned. No, there were no longer any opium dens. But if it was intrigue I sought, there was a little building farther up the East End. It was a tiny cog in the Russians' global sabotage machine.

I was startled. For understatement to my friend is what sliced orange is to the duck du jour at Maxims, Paris.

WE WALKED to the building. There, I was told, is where John Williamson operates quietly as a lowly placed dockhand on the vital London waterfront.

John Williamson, of course, once was labor secretary of the Communist party, U.S.A. We deported him to his native England. The international Soviet apparat then assigned him to creating Communist cells on the London wharves.

These Communist operatives and "sleepers" have been waiting a long time—in the "vehicle producing industries," the electrical and electronic fields, radar, mining, and shipping. Scores of them are strategically placed shop stewards.

They began infiltrating as early as May 1951. At that time the Soviets' World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU) called their key people together from throughout the Western world.

They were then briefed on disrupting the defense and the export industries of the NATO countries. From that session the trained organizers fanned out over Europe—and even back into the United States.

TEN YEARS is a long time. But it is the nature of the Soviet strategists directing these political and industrial guerrillas to think ahead a bit.

Now apparently N. S. Khrushchev is about to swing that industrial sabotage network into mass action, across our free world.

In Germany last month, I learned that the high command of the WFTU was meeeting in East Berlin. I put in some calls, which had to go from West Berlin to Frankfurt in free Germany, across to Keipzig, then up to East Berlin, just half a mile from my hotel.

The executive committee of the WFTU was meeting all right. There were general secretary, Louis Saillant, Viktor Grishin, Chairman of the Soviet All-Union Central Council of Trade Unions, Bonoit Franchon, head of the French C.G.T.; Herbert Warnke, of the East German "unions"; Lombardo Toledano, of Mexico City, head of the Confederation of Latin American Workers; Liu Chang-sheng, vice president of the All-China Trade Union Federation, and Odon Alvarez de la Campa, speaking for the Cuba labor federation.

THEY WERE TOLD to return home and spread word the time had come for mass action. The Russians talked to the others for two days. Then they decided to run "an international trade union conference in East Berlin between Sept. 22 and 24."

When word went out, the message included the words, ". . .This will serve the international trade union movement as a beginning for a new, more extensive mass struggle to safeguard peace."

What the Soviet global labor politburo was saying, in effect, was: Come to Berlin for the final briefing and for a call for mass strikes and demonstrations in the streets of the non-Communist countries.

There is before me now a 16-page, 128-point call for action, passed on to all pro-Communist labor chiefs. Point 36 says: "In their struggle to safeguard peace, the workers are successfully developing their action and are using all forms of mass action in close liaison with other sections of the people."

The document is filled with directives to end production of weapons and their transportation. If my friends on the London docks are correct, we'll soon see unofficial strikes, transport sabotage and wild political demonostrations across the lands of the free.

My friends' prediction is that this will coincide with Khrushchev's final push on the Berlin holocaust.

Russians—The Spoilers

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Guerrilla wars used to be fought by toughs in jungles while diplomacy was the province of well-dressed and solemn gentlemen who discoursed on a high level and issued opaque communiques.

Then the Russians, as usual, had to come along and spoil things. Now Premier Khrushchev is using guerrilla tactics for diplomacy and diplomacy for guerrilla tactics.

It's simple, too. Guerrillas hit and run, do some damage, bewilder the opposition which does not know what to expect next, disappear for a while, and strike again somewhere else.

At times this seemed too simple for Western statesmen, who for years have acted like villagers huddled in a rain forest, wondering what next but too used to their old ways to try new ways of their own to strike back.

Khrushchev would belt them with an unadorned blackjack and then, just to confuse them, belt them with a blackjack dressed in Christmas wrappings. One minute he'd be the bad guy talking war, the next the good boy yearning for peace.

Stalin used guerrilla tactics, too. Khrushchev has gone beyond him and added a public relations touch that makes Madison Avenue look as old-fashioned as a pitchman at a circus.

For instance: in the midst of all his rumpus about Berlin—perhaps because of it—in the past few months he has given three distinguished and widely read American newspapermen lengthy, separate interviews.

They reported what he said in great detail, and much length. So he reached millions of Americans repeatedly with his views on a host of issues.

It seems that almost daily—this is an exaggeration, but not much—he has something to say on war, peace, disarmament, or nuclear testing.

All of this not only gets duly reported over the air and in the press of America but in Western Europe and around the world. In short, he has made top news with whatever tactic he wanted to use for months.

By contrast the Western leaders have seemed hush-mouthed. President Kennedy, for instance, could but didn't make broad use of TV to talk to the people. He falls far short of making maximum use of other news media either to answer Khrushchev or turn the tables on him by putting him on the defensive.

What Khrushchev has been doing apparently finally sank in on the Kennedy administration. Last week the White House revealed Kennedy has set up a group of advisers on psychological and political warfare. It has met eight times.

Tragedy In The Congo

By David Lawrence

Hammarskjold Seen Mistaking U. N. Aims

The tragedy of Dag Hammarskjold's death is not just the loss of a man dedicated to the cause of world peace but the failure of the United Nations to confine itself to its true function instead of meddling in the internal affairs of countries aspiring in their own evolutionary way to achieve independence.

David Lawrence

The secretary general, who was killed in an airplane crash, conceived it to be his duty to impose peace in the Congo. He would not have sought to do the same inside the two Germanies or inside Hungary but he saw the United Nations as a kind of superstate and felt that, when the U.N. passed a resolution and sent him to a troubled area, this would be enough to cause the warring factions to lay down their arms.

Noble as was his purpose, the fact remains that the right of a people to rebel against their own rulers and to determine their own destiny has long been imbedded in international law as a basic principle.

THE LONDON TIMES a few days ago put its finger on the root of the difficulty in the Congo.

First it quoted from the resolution of July 14, 1960, when the United Nations authorized the secretary general to consult with the government in the Congo and provide it "with such military assistance as may be necessary until . . .the national security forces may be able, in the opinion of the government, to meet fully their tasks." Then the Times says:

"Katanga bears most of the marks of a state as understood in international law . . . By traditional standards Katanga seemed a viable state when the rest of the Congo was a vacuum, and a legitimate successor state to Belgian sovereignty has not emerged. . . .

"But if there is danger of an attack by the Leopoldville government of Katanga, it seems odd to attack Katanga to prevent civil war. The argument is, presumably, that for the legal government to march against a dissident province is not civil war, but for the province to resist is . . .

"The United Nations action in Katanga looks more like the enforcement of a settlement of Congolese political differences than a simple averting of strife."

So it is apparent that the late secretary general interpreted in his own way the meaning of the resolution passed by the U.N. Security Council. His purpose was to bring peace by personal negotiation but he ran up against the bitter opposition of those inside the Congo who simply would not lay down before the Communists.

THE CONGOLESE government is today suspect. Sen. Dodd, D-Conn., in an impressive speech in the Senate last Saturday pointed to the Communist leaders inside the Congo cabinet and warned against the so-called coalition government which the Communists sooner or later are expected to take over.

He gave name after name of Communists who are cabinet ministers in the Congo government today.

Small wonder that in Katanga Province, where the last stand of the anti - Communists is being made in the Congo, they have felt hostile to Secretary General Hammarskjold and the U.N. troops.

Since many millions of dollars of valuable property are involved —the mines in the Congo are fabulously rich — there was bound to be a countermove in which, as reported from Katanga, many "white mercenaries" participated.

Doubtless these are some former Belgain officers who were acquainted intimately with the Congo and who are risking their lives to back President Tshombe of Katanga.

The United Nations didn't concern itself with the theft of property from owners who had developed the mines with borrowed capital. The U.N. seems to be swayed by the emotional outbursts about "colonialism" which unhappily takes no account of the lack of training of half-civilized peoples to set up a government that will protect individual rights.

IT NOW LOOKS as if the U.N. will have to take a second look at recent events.

Is it to be a superstate? If so, the Communists are prepared to take control of the whole U.N. organization. They've for the last few years infiltrated Africa and have managed to corral a lot of the votes of the African states recently admitted to the U.N. which call themselves "non-aligned."

It is a sad period for the Western governments which not only believe in but practice democracy, and this means they respect property rights as well as human rights.

The Congo mess is the result of a failure to adhere to basic principles — to insist that self-government shall not be granted to colonies that are unable to govern themselves, and to make sure that when colonialism is abolished there is a real regard for property as well as human rights.

The Congo isn't ready as yet for selfgovernment, but inasmuch as the Belgian government has withdrawn of its own accord, it is up to the Congolese to fight their own battles.

If the U.N. has any function there, it is to keep meddling foreigners out — including the Communists.

The Mourners

By Truman Twill

Hard-heads will waste no time mourning Dag Hammarskjold. They won't let his death or the deaths of the dedicated people who died with him in a plane crash in Africa slow up their hate rate.

The crying will be done by us soft-heads. It always is.

We're the only ones who want people like Dag Hammarskjold to succeed. Hard-heads are too cagey and crusty to be fooled by anything as silly as a man who works as hard to keep the peace as they work to break it.

The odds against such a fellow are fantastic. Simply fantastic. And they should be fantastic, according to the hard-heads, because everybody knows that in this world the peacemaker is a patsy. He never wins.

This is because he doesn't know the score, the hard-heads explain. He hasn't tumbled to the way the world is; he is a dreamer, an idealist, a daisy-picker in a sock-eroo society.

The best he can hope for is that realists who know how things are and intend to keep 'em that way if it kills everybody on earth will be polite to him, the way they are polite to blind people. He cannot hope to convert the realists.

Dag Hammarskjold must have known as much as anybody in his era about how things are and how the realists intend to keep them. It was his business to find out. In his own way, he was more of a realist than the self-proclaimed realists.

He had grasped all there was of reality—the soft-headed part as well as the hard-headed part. Those who had watched him work and knew his thoughts considered him to be the precursor of the ultimate "man of the world," who will have risen above all hate, prejudice, fear and narrow nationalism.

They thought of him as the real realist and of the self-styled realists as fools hastening their own destruction with dirty schemes for destroying others. Perhaps they overdid their appreciation of Dag Hammarskjold, but it's a fact he had reached that most-high level of poise that made it possible for him to forgive his enemies. The little man had stature.

His enemies were numerous. They ranged from the savagery of Kremlinites who wanted his blood for thwarting them in the Congo to character assassins in the American hinterlands who smeared him with these grisly misgivings of disloyalty that ooze from them whenever anyone suggests there may be a better way than bloodshed for coming to grips with the squirming dilemma of the moment.

What could be more soft-headed than to believe men's common interests in survival is stronger than their separate interests in killing and destroying one another? How soft can a head get?

Yet, by working at this idea Dag Hammarskjold attained such stature among soft-heads that his destruction had become imperative for the hardest of all hard-heads—the Kremlinites.

They aimed to destroy him as an impediment to their designs, though it is not suggested they thought of destroying him physically or had any connection with the incident that cost him and his companions their lives.

They were concerned with destroying his status as the chief soft-head among all people with a bellyfull of the hate rate that hard-heads insist is realism. It was their aim to destroy him politically.

No other mail will leave East Liverpool until 6 p. m. when one truck again will replace the five previous routes, going directly to Steubenville. It will carry the bulk of the day's accumulation. Mail must be in the office by 5 p. m. to insure processing and dispatching.

Brown urged industries, business places and residents to cooperate by mailing often and early so that all mail can be handled in the speediest manner.

A final cleanup of daily mail on Mondays through Saturdays will leave East Liverpool at 8:45 p. m. It will take the place of the Cleveland "hot-shot" express which stops here nightly at 9:45 p. m. en route to Pittsburgh.

In order to process the mail for the 8:45 truck to Steubenville, it must be in the office by 8 p. m., Brown said.

WITH THE change in dispatch times, the lobby doors of the main post office will be locked at 9 p. m. daily instead of at 10 p. m. as at present.

All Sunday and holiday mail will arrive in East Liverpool by 11:30 a. m. and will leave here at 5 p. m. Mail to be dispatched on Sundays and holidays must be in the post office by 4:15 p. m.

Effective also on Oct. 1, the lobby doors at the main post office will be closed at 5 p. m. rather than at 6.

Interchange of mail among the 20 sectional centers will be made at night by trains, trailers, fast trucks, highway post offices and passenger buses.

Regional officials explained, for example, that mail which leaves Toledo at 9:05 p. m. or Cleveland at 11:55 p. m. will arrive in East Liverpool on the 6 a. m. truck the following morning.

Commenting on the setup, Brown said, "Our dispatchers will have lots of work because of our location. Since we are located on the border of other states, they also will be responsible for breaking down the Pennsylvania metropolitan mail, which is in the Philadelphia region. Most other towns in the state will not have this problem."

Some "bugs" remain to be worked out of the system, Brown continued. "I've been asked how a letter will go that is addressed to Chester, Newell or Midland. At present, all I know is it will go to Steubenville and even regional officials are not certain after that."

THE POSTMASTER said he has suggested the East Liverpool office send a truck to deliver and pick up mail at the Chester and Newell offices, and regional officials are considering the idea.

Experience shows a great amount of the mail is for an area within 150 miles of the office. "Next day delivery is our goal and if the public cooperates by mailing early to take away the strain from the 3:30 to 5:50 p. m. rush, we can reach it," the postmaster said.

Regional officials also assured Brown that changes will be made as necessary in any schedules.

Because of the city's location and size of the post office, East Liverpool could become a sectional center, Brown said, but the chief deterrent is lack of space in existing buildings.

A new office, often mentioned but never constructed, would speed the system immeasurably and provide better service, he pointed out.

Although the Election Board has issued a series of reminders on the registration deadline in the last few weeks, response has been "apathetic," O'Hanlon said. The total number of qualified voters stands today at an estimated 10,483, about 2,000 short of the potential.

Revised Gas Rate Studied

have the increases presented on a percentage basis.

Mrs. Margaret Baldwin, clerk, read a letter from the Federal Power Commission at Washington in reply to a protest on the proposed gas increase. The letter said the FPC does not govern retail sales but only wholesale prices. It said this comes under the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. Reference was made to a previous protest filed by the city on a gas rate increase. Some of the councilmen felt the FPC spokesman was confused over protests filed when Ohio Valley received an increase over a year ago.

In other business, the question of a new Post Office was raised again. By a 4-3 vote, Council agreed to request that an architect meet in a caucus to discuss the proper procedures and possible costs for obtaining plans for construction of a combination Post Office and city building.

Council was informed by postal authorities that this could be done. Under consideration is a proposal to raze the present City Hall and construct the multiple building. Council was told it must take the first step if it desires such a plan. If such a building is constructed, rent from the Post Office section would be used to help pay off the bonds.

Favoring the move to obtain an opinion from an architect were Councilmen Aguin Bowling, Paul Nelson, George Mackall and William Stroble. Opposing the move were Councilmen Robert Taggart, Clarence Cartwright and Donald Miller.

A bid of $100 was received from Eugene Chevront of New Cumberland R. D. 1 for plowing ground along Main St. between 12th and 18th Sts. preparatory to planting multiflora roses as a beautification program. One other bid of $140 has been received.

After a long discussion of finances, Council voted to receive bids for another week and then award a contract if the money is available.

Pete Amato spoke from the audience and suggested the area be opened for parking.

Cartwright suggested the city purchase portable scales for weighing trucks to catch overload violators. Mayor William J. Shoub said it could be done but urged Council to keep in mind that more police would be needed to operate the scales. Safety-Service Director William S. Robinson said stationary scales would cost approximately $5,000. He said portable scales break down and the upkeep is high.

Council ordered legislation authorizing Robinson to advertise for bids for a 1962 police cruiser, with and without a trade-in of an old city vehicle.

Nelson, refuse chairman, reported the five requirements set by the Columbiana County Board of Health have been met at the city dump off Route 39. The city now has a full-time caretaker at the site to prevent fires.

Nelson said he had received numerous complaints of the rough handling of garbage cans by city trash collectors. Robinson said he has already talked to the men about the problem. He said it is sometimes necessary to beat the cans to dislodge garbage when packed in.

Council authorized Robinson to hire a bulldozer, if funds are available, to open a street in Arcadia Addition so Sam Malone can proceed with construction of a new home.

Bertram Wakefield of the Ohio Power Co. informed Council by letter that new street lights had been installed in one section of Arcadia Addition. A new light also will be installed on lower Riverside Ave.

County Auditor Kenneth Bell said in a letter that the tax valuation of property in the addition is $33,740. Stroble said the section has been part of Wellsville since 1926 and the installation of lights is the first service residents there have received.

Taggart, water and sewage chairman, reported on negotiations with a resident of Highland Ave. for parking equipment on the property to reach the standpipe on the hillside which is to be repaired. Robinson and the water committee will continue negotiations. The owner wants $50 a day for parking trucks and other equipment.

Stroble said the street and light committee and Police Chief John Hephner investigated further a complaint of a traffic and parking problem on Broadway near 4th St. The committee recommended no changes be made.

Stroble also reported he had met with the county commissioners at Lisbon on proposed work on Wells Hollow Rd. A section is in the city limits. The commissioners will have an engineer check the road, he said.

He added the commissioners said they would aid in a program to blacktop lower Clark Ave. if and when the city undertakes the project.

Stroble also reported on other street work completed or planned.

Miller, finance chairman, said that in over 9 months, the city has collected $9,400 from the parking meters, not counting the amount received from fines. Mrs. Rahter pointed out the deadline is nearing an end on the year's "trial" of meters.

Solicitor William Bush reported legislation is not needed to authorize Robinson to sell an old city truck which is not being used because its value is less than $1,000. Legislation had been ordered.

The Rev. Arden Beck gave the opening prayer.

Wellsville

The officials then came to Wellsville for conferences with the mayor and were told to also check with Council.

The firm has leased a site from the Georgetti River-Rail Terminal. Appearing before Council last night were R. W. Caputo, head engineer; Atty. V. L. McMahon, legal counsel; E. H. Crum, sales manager, and Brian Graves, terminal supervisor and salesman.

McMahon explained that the lime is brought to Wellsville by river barge and then transferred to trucks for delivery to customers in Ohio. He said that several years ago the firm shipped all lime by rail, but the increased rates cut down its market.

This operation is an attempt to serve the old customers, he said.

The principal problem was the fact that a supervisor was not on duty full-time, he said. It was agreed that Graves will remain at the terminal constantly to see that the crane operator handles the lime properly.

McMahon said he feels the lime terminal will attract other industries to the area. This is the first venture of this type for the firm, he explained.

He then explained that many delays came about because of changes in plans for the new installation and in obtaining a contractor.

Caputo displayed drawings showing the terminal will consist of four large hoppers. The lime will be unloaded from the barges by a clamshovel, which will place it on an enclosed conveyor belt, which in turn takes it to the hoppers.

McMahon said the firm was not aware the city had been told the operation was to be completed in 60 days. Caputo said it would take about six months to complete construction.

They also said they would attempt to have Wellsville derive the benefit of fees from the license plates for trucks operating from the terminal.

County Judge Quits Post At Richmond

STEUBENVILLE — Jefferson County Court Judge C. B. McCann of Richmond has submitted his resignation to Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, citing pressure of other business.

An attorney and paint store owner, Judge McCann served a one - year interim term on the Richmond district court before being elected to a four-year term in 1958.

His resignation is effective Oct. 1. The term would have expired Dec. 31, 1962.

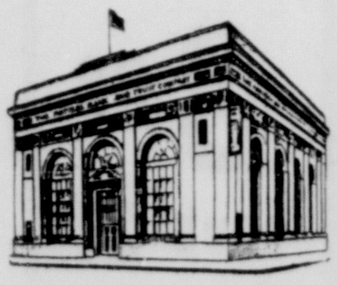

This past summer Judge McCann faced a drunk and disorderly conduct charge filed by the Wintersville State Highway Patrol. He pleaded no contest and paid a $10 fine.

Galli-Migliore Ceremony Held In Church At Midland

The Midland Presentation Catholic Church was the scene of the wedding ceremony at 11 o'clock the morning of Sept. 9 at which Miss Elizabeth (Dolly) Migliore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Migliore of Penn Ave., Midland, became the bride of Norman Galli, son of Mrs. Angelina Galli of Beaver Falls and the late Paul Galli.

Fr. John Corbett officiated for the double - ring rites performed before an altar decorated with green ferns and cibotium. White satin bows marked the family pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and appeared in a white floor - length gown of silk designed especially for her by Mrs. James Barbarine, a cousin. The pearl - edged neckline provided a fashionable overtone for the sweep of the chapel train. The gown also featured simulated pearls on the Alencon lace. A blossom - type wreath held her pouf veil of silk blush illusion in place, and was designed to match her gown.

She carried a prayer book showered with rosebuds, stephanotis and ivy streamers. Her only jewelry was a cultured pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom. The bride observed the familiar traditions and for something old she carried a missal belonging to Miss Dorothy Shevenaugh; something new, a handkerchief from Debbie Migliore, a cousin; something borrowed, a satin missal cover from Mrs. Ray Colaber, a sister, and something blue, a garter, a gift from Mrs. James Brenzo. Miss Stella Paich gave the bride a foreign coin to wear in her shoe.

Miss Joann Martinetti, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and was attired in an emerald green ballerina - length taffeta gown styled with a high neckline, V-back and a bouffant skirt. Her headdress was a Jackie Kennedy style hat of green velveteen with flowers. She carried a harvest-time ring of brown chrysanthemums and yellow pompoms with croton leaves.

The bride's mother wore an aquamarine sleeveless dress of chiffon with black accessories and a corsage of baby orchids. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a beige dress with green accessories and wore a corsage of gardenias.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained members of the immediate families at a dinner in the St. Anthony Club home.

The bride was graduated from Midland High School and has been a receptionist for Dr. F. J. Benedict, a Midland dentist. Her husband is a graduate of Beaver Falls High School and is employed at the Babcock & Wilcox Tube Co. in Beaver Falls.

$16,611 Fund Shift Cleared For Year-End

Council Tuesday night approved an amended appropriation ordinance providing for $16,611 in fund transfers — essentially a bookkeeping transaction to square accounts for the last three months of the year.

No "new" money is involved in the sense of newly-acquired income. The ordinance provides for shift of money from one department to another or from one fund to another within departments.

Such formal action by Council is necessary before money appropriated for one purpose at the beginning of the year can be spent for any other function.

The biggest item involved in last night's ordinance is a $10,000 transfer from the sewer revenue fund to the street maintenance and repair fund. The transfer is to reimburse the street department for payroll expenses when its employes were assigned to cleaning sanitary sewers — the responsibility of the sewer department.

Since the sewer department does not have a line - cleaning crew, the street department performs the work, subject to reimbursement.

The ordinance was approved, 6-1, with Councilman Robert Laughlin dissenting. He said he objected to transferring $460 from a "police cruiser fund" to the general fund to be reappropriated. In response to a question, Councilman John Melvin, finance committee chairman, said the $460 represents the balance left over after the department's most recent cruiser purchase. As acquisition of the cruiser did not require the full amount appropriated, it was available for other use, he explained.

Total appropriations for the general fund are $1,883. It provides sums ranging from $35 for dog warden's incidental expenses to $711 for purchase of stationery and supplies for Municipal Court.

The water department was allocated $3,288, including $1,000 for filtration plant operations and $2,000 for supplies in the distribution department.

The appropriation also provides an additional $217 for purchase of a resuscitator for the fire department, supplementing a previous allocation of $400.

Three other pieces of routine legislation were approved unanimously.

An ordinance was enacted accepting the plat of a 10-foot-wide strip of ground for use as a right-of-way in installing a new sanitary sewer to serve sections of N. Surrey Rd. and S. Surrey Rd., Fisher Park.

Using the easement allowed by property - owners will allow the city to install part of the line at a more shallow depth than would have been possible if it had been laid in the street, thereby reducing the overall cost of the project.

The new line will flow into the Pleasant Heights trunk line, which feeds into the Carpenters Run trunk line in California Hollow.

Council approved a resolution authorizing the city to affiliate itself with a countywide Civil Defense organization. Councilman Donald Hancock pointed out the action will not mean additional expense to the city, as it already operates a local CD agency.

Another resolution was approved authorizing Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff to become a member of the National Association of Municipal Judges. The $25 membership fee will be paid out of court funds, the legislation provides.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Reading To Child Helps Him Learn

Blessed is the child, on entering school, who has been read to at home from the time he was two or three. More blessed is he still if his parents keep on, indefinitely, reading to him while he is in school; if also they read later to each other; if, indeed, he takes turns often reading aloud in the family's midst. If you had been reading to your child for several years before he entered the first grade, you may now be reading to him from factual and fictional materials of third, fourth, or fifth grade level. True, his primer and first reader may seem pretty babyish to him then; yet this fact need not necessarily hamper his interest in learning to read. With so much enjoyment from listening to stories read from books, he has a powerful urge to learn to read them himself.

AS YOU KEEP reading to the school child, see how his vocabularly grows and how he improves in ease of verbal expression. Also, consider how much more he has to think about and talk about.

A new reason arises for reading to and with a child when, in the middle and higher elementary grades, even in junior high, he must read from textbooks to get ideas and knowledge, as in history, elementary science or the social sciences.

Often the textbook may be hard for him to read. See how you can help him by reading it with him, helping him turn each paragraph into a few words of his own.

LET US REMEMBER that the child who lags or fails in such subjects is really failing in reading. The longer he is in school the more trouble he will have, unless he is helped as he studies from textbooks of content subjects or unless he has effective help at learning to read better from any printed page.

If your child is in the fourth, sixth, or twelfth grade finds his textbooks hard to read, not only should you read with him, but also you should win his willingness to read for 10 or 20 minutes a day from interesting materials with a vocabularly two, three, four or more grades below where he is.

Unless you can succeed in this direction yourself, you should try to find a skillful teacher or a reading clinic to help him.

Kiwanis Told Shelter Cost

Chester residents can build atomic fallout shelters in the basements of their homes for $150 to $200, Police Chief Harold Davis, Chester Civil Defense director, told members of the Kiwanis Club Tuesday night.

Chief Davis, who screened a film, "Your Civil Defense," said shelters should be stocked with enough food for two weeks, along with a battery-operated radio and a first aid kit.

He pointed out President John Kennedy has advocated public construction of fallout shelters to provide protection in event of atomic war.

He discussed the national Civil Defense plans, home protection exercises and said a pamphlet describing construction of a shelter is available from CD officials.

Chief Davis was introduced by Robert Smith.

New Lighting Pact Cleared

Council cleared the way Tuesday night for the administration to sign a new 10-year street lighting contract with the Ohio Power Co., effective Dec. 1.

A resolution was enacted unanimously authorizing Safety-Service Director Robert Owen to sign the agreement, based on specifications worked out by Council and the utility in a series of conferences in July and August.

The contract will provide for increasing 271 lights from 100 to 250-candlepower and permit installation of 12 of the 250-candlepower units to replace eight of the 600-candlepower lights removed from the W. 8th St. area because of the freeway construction.

Under the terms of the new agreement, the cost to the city will be $2,960 a month, an increase of $157 over the $2,803 it pays now. The entire increase will be for upgrading.

Although Ohio Power is the only possible bidder, state law requires the city to advertise for bids just as in the case of any contract involving expenditure of $1,000 or more. The contract will run to Nov. 30, 1971, the legislation provides.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband talks in his sleep regularly. He started this about three years ago when he changed jobs. He speaks distinctly and I can understand every word he says.

Usually he is talking to the girls in his office, calling them by name and asking them to bring out certain files. Sometimes he dictates complete letters.

Some mornings he wakes up tired and I say it's no wonder — he has done a day's work between midnight and 7 a.m.

Do sleep talkers get a good night's rest? Sometimes I worry about him. Thanks for any information you can give me. EMILY.

Dear Emily: It sounds as if your husband is getting more rest than you are. Sleep talkers get as good a night's rest as the silent ones, so don't worry about him.

Be grateful that he speaks distinctly. Some women who write tell me that their husbands mumble — and it drives them crasy.

The Triangle Again

Dear Ann: I'm a mature woman, 26, and it's humiliating to have to write away for help.

For a year a certain Mr. X and I have been keeping steady company. He's attractive, a solid citizen and I thought reasonably sensible.

Three weeks ago he asked if he could bring an old school buddy along on a dinner date. I said, "Fine." The buddy turned out to be an attractive redhead who moved here from Cincinnati and "doesn't know anyone."

He has brought her along on every date since and I'm ready to crack up. She doesn't play up to him, just keeps thanking me for being sweet about her tagging along. I'm so annoyed that one word from you and I'd drop him.

But wouldn't that be playing into her hands? Should I keep my mouth shut and outsmart her? — SIXPENCE.

Dear Six: Your friend is having a whale of a good time at your expense. Tell him his behavior indicates a need for more company than you can provide and that he'd better find another hypotenuse for the triangle.

Ungrateful Tennants

Dear Ann: I am heartsick. Some people we've known for years were down on their luck. My husband and I rented them a house to live in because they lost their own lovely home.

We are in the real estate business and offered them a house until they got on their feet. We didn't want to insult them by giving it to them rent-free, so we asked for just enough to cover the taxes.

They seemed grateful and paid the rent for two months. For the next four months no payments came in. Last week we dropped by to see them and were shocked to find that they had moved out. Further checking revealed that they had skipped town and left no forwarding address.

I am hurt. My husband is angry. He wants to track them down no matter what the cost. What is your opinion? —VIKING.

Dear Viking: Why throw good money after bad — and waste time and energy as well? People who behave in an unconscionable manner pay a high price for their low standards. They'll get theirs. Forget it.

Confidentially

TO GOLDEN GREEK: It's not the work but the worry that kills 'em. I think your friend needs some diversion from the diversion.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Discovery Of Body Parts Seen As Rumor

Rumors of the discovery of parts of a body of a woman in the Old Irondale Rd. area were nipped Tuesday by Sheriff Russell VanFossan, who said the reports could not be verified.

The department checked out a story concerning the discovery of human hair and a report of a dog carrying an arm with fingers.

Sheriff VanFossan said the human hair came from a dump in the area where a beauty operator disposed of cuttings from her shop.

Board Given Operation Of Sewer Plant

Administration of the municipal sewage disposal system will pass to the Board of Public Utilities Nov. 1 from Safety - Service Director Robert Owen under an ordinance enacted by Council Tuesday night.

The legislation was approved, 6-1, with Councilman Robert Laughlin dissenting.

Laughlin did not explain the reason for his "no" vote on the floor but, queried after the session, he asserted:

"I don't think we should turn the sewage plant over to these people. I feel Council is giving up its authority over the sewage department."

But he added that he does not "have anything personal against any member of the utility board."

The unsalaried three - member board has been operating the city water works department since 1952. It was created specifically at that time to take over administration of the water department, which formerly had been operated by the director.

Since the disposal system went into operation in 1958, it technically has been the responsibility of the director's office. However, the water department has handled such administrative details as collection of quarterly bills because both sewage charges and water bills are based on water meter readings.

The legislative change means a shift of other responsibilities, including the handling of personnel and purchase of supplies.

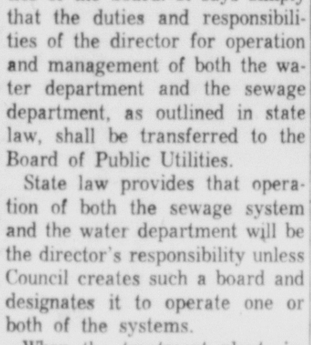

The change was made by amending a seven-line section in the City Code outlining the duties of the board. It says simply that the duties and responsibilities of the director for operation and management of both the water department and the sewage department, as outlined in state law, shall be transferred to the Board of Public Utilities.

State law provides that operation of both the sewage system and the water department will be the director's responsibility unless Council creates such a board and designates it to operate one or both of the systems.

When the treatment plant, interceptor sewers and lift stations were under construction, city officials said at that time that the system ultimately would be shifted to the utilities board. W. O. Schneider is chairman of the board.

Farmers Get Wheat Data

LISBON — Letters are being mailed this week to Columbiana County wheat producers explaining payment rates for each farm under the special 1962 wheat stabilization program, according to L. E. Lora, manager of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office here.

Up to half of the payment wheat producers may earn under the special program will be made at signup time, Lora said.

Producers who participate must reduce the wheat acreage at least 10 per cent below their allotment. The payment for the first 10 per cent diverted will be equal to the basic county support rate for No. 1 wheat multiplied by 45 per cent of the adjusted yield per acre for the farm.

Producers can earn further payments by reducing their wheat acreage up to an additional 30 per cent of the farm allotment. The payment for this additional diversion would be based on 60 per cent of the adjusted yield per acre.

Farmers who have planted less than 13½ acres in any of the years, 1959-1960-1961, should check with the county ASC office to determine the permitted acreage, if they do not understand the notice they received.

Growers will be eligible for price support for wheat in addition to payments for diverted acreage.

Producers who do not co-operate with the diverted acreage program still will be eligible for a marketing card permitting sale on the open wheat market if they harvest within their permitted acreage. Penalties for excess wheat have increased to a point which exceeds the value of the crop.

Signup for diverting wheat acreage will probably start about Oct. 1 or as soon as forms have been received at the county office.

Final signup date will be Nov. 15 and Lora suggested that farmers contact the ASC office for details.

Rotarians Told Scouting Benefits 'Beyond Count'

"Scouting is relatively unimportant when measured in dollars and cents, but the things that really count can't be counted," the deputy regional Boy Scout executive of Region 4 told the Rotary Club Tuesday.

Howard Knepper of Cincinnati, who guides the activities of 300,000 Boy Scouts in Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia, said that the youth movement seems unimportant when compared to the dollar sign, bigness or material things.

"But like the love for a son or daughter, or the power of a woman's tear, the things that count can't be counted," Knepper said.

Citing the crisis faced by America today, Knepper declared that "we have never needed more than now the kind of men that scouting seeks to produce."

The movement works hand-in-hand with the churches in teaching manhood and building the individual qualities of the men who make up the nation, Knepper asserted.

"To write the full story of scouting, we must write that it is the story of a boy who stood up for a better way of life around his nation in the struggle for men's minds," he said.

"Scouting starts in the right direction the 8-to-15-year-old boys in the impressionable years when many things are crying for attention in their minds," he said.

Knepper, 51, who has been connected with scouting for 42 years, asserted that Americans are taking lightly the principles of life —"cheating just a little in many things."

"We need to be greatly concerned about this problem of 'cheating just a little'," he added.

"China felt secure behind its great wall. But they forgot something — that the gatekeeper could be bribed," Knepper said.

"The Boy Scout movement is dedicated to the best of its abilities to teach youth to become worthy gatekeepers, not subject to small or big buys," the regional director continued.

"The help of the public is needed to make it so," he added.

He said scouting's budget seems small when compared to the amount spent for liquor on one day; so small that it would keep the government operating for only a few minutes, or just enough to get a few bombers off the ground.

"But the measuring of material things so prevalant today tends to make us aware of our other responsibilities," he said. He also called for a movement to emphasize patriotism in the nation.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Writer Gives Viewers A Jolt

Hal Humphrey

He loves TV's unique ability, when it is unfettered, for translating an author's work.

"Where else could I have done 'The Lincoln Murder Case' so effectively?" Dale asks. "It's true that the sponsor didn't allow certain things in it, but I still got to say what I wanted to say — at least enough of it."

"The Lincoln Murder Case" was on CBS' "Show of the Week" last February, and in it Dale advanced the theory that Secretary of War Edwin M. Stanton engineered President Lincoln's assassination.

"DURING the research for that one," recalls Dale, "I dug up some marvelous material on Vice President Andrew Johnson, who always claimed he never knew John Wilkes Booth.

"But he did. They were drinking pals, and shared two sisters as mistresses. I also found that Booth left a note at Johnson's hotel the day of the assassination, and that afterward Johnson went on a drunken spree."

Dale had this Johnson episode in his original script, but the sponsor decided this was a little too rough. As it was, "The Lincoln Murder Case" kicked up considerable controversy.

"STUDENTS WROTE IN to ask where they could find out more about this theory of Lincoln's murder, but oldsters generally attacked the show," Dale reports. "Most of them," he adds, "began their letters with, 'How dare you . . . ' ".

No matter how exacting Dale's painstaking research is for these projects, they sometimes never get on the air because insurance is unobtainable. The networks insist on being insured against lawsuits from relatives or others involved in such stories and still living.

After Dale did "The Eichmann Story" and it was aired on Circle Theater last season, CBS was hit by a suit from Otto Skorzeny, who was Hitler's righthand SS man. He claimed that Dale's account was a defamation of his (Otto's) character, and he retained lawyers in New York to handle the litigation.

"THE SUIT finally was dropped," says Dale, "when some dialogue and a picture poster of Otto Skorzeny were removed from the tape replay of the show this summer."

Producer David Suskind has commissioned Dale to do three plays for a series of specials tentatively titled "Crimes of the Century." At the moment Dale is in Los Angeles researching for "The Bombing of the Los Angeles Times," which was the violent climax in 1910 of a bitter management - labor struggle.

After that Dale goes to work on "Murder of Leon Trotzky" which took place in Mexico in 1940. Both of these documentary dramas are to be telecast sometime next year, probably over CBS-TV.

DALE'S MOST RECENT labor was a hurry-up job of adapting Graham Greene's "The Power and the Glory," which was taped last June with Laurence Olivier and several other top stars, and is set for an Oct. 29 showing on CBS-TV.

Olivier got $100,000 for his role, and the two-hour production cost an over-all $800,000. Paramount and Susskind, the coproducers, are releasing it as a movie in England to insure getting their money from it.

"I had to do 180 pages in just one week," says Dale, "because it was the only play Olivier was interested in doing, and he had to be back in England within a couple of weeks. I would never do it again. I almost collapsed."

"I became fascinated with TV and tired of interpreting someone else's work," says Dale. "I saw that the writer had the best opportunity of creating the whole work."

He became intrigued with documentary drama when he discovered as in "The Lincoln Murder Case," the facts do not always add up to the truth.

Lisbon PTA Opens Term

LISBON — The McKinley Parent-Teacher Association held its initial meeting of the term Monday night with Mrs. Eddie James, president, presiding for business. Over 100 attended.

During the program, Miss Della Wetzel, principal, introduced the teachers and gave character sketches of each. Miss Nettie McPherson, first grade teacher, has taught here since 1920. Her pupils include two of the present school board members and the high school principal.

Officers and committee chairmen were introduced by the president and in turn Mrs. Glen Ward, vice president, introduced the room mothers. Other officers are Mrs. Jack Hall, secretary, and Mrs. Edgar Chapman, treasurer.

Supt. Russell Armitage, discussing the crowded condition of the school, said the combined second grade plan is not working satisfactorily. He suggested that the logical move would be the kindergarten, and that school officials hope to announce later in the week the location.

Williams announced the program Oct. 16 will feature a discussion and question - and - answer period on the school bond issue.

Junior PTA was held at the same time with a large attendance under the direction of the first grade room mothers and Girl Scout Troop 14, which will assist during the term.

Lunch and a hospitality hour followed.

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro today accused "fascist" priests of plotting with the United States to overthrow his revolutionary government.

He said the clergy was working with the U.S. State Department and the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency to promote internal disorders and organize an international campaign against Cuba.

Castro cited the antigovernment demonstration that began as a religious procession in front of Havana's Roman Catholic Church of Charity Sept. 10.

Despite the fact that one man was killed, he said the clergy went ahead and organized another hostile demonstration last Sunday in Regla, on the outskirts of Havana.

Warning that if this happens again the government will not issue permits for religious processions, he said: "When we launch the masses into the streets we will crush the government's enemies."

Last Sunday the government deported 136 Cuban and foreign-born priests. The prime minister said those expelled for counterrevolutionary activities will lose their rights as Cuban citizens.

Bond Need Told To PTA

The need for additional classrooms to meet pupil increases in Beaver Local School District was outlined by George VanHorne, executive head, at a meeting of the Calcutta Parent-Teacher Association Monday night.

VanHorne urged passage of a proposed $253,000 bond issue for school additions on which residents will vote in the Nov. 7 general election.

He described the influx of population into the school district in the past five years, and said that steady rise in enrollment must be met by additional classrooms.

"You are getting your money's worth when you consider the quality of subjects we are now offering, but when you cut down on classroom, you hurt the program," he said.

John Duffy, president, introduced officers and committees. VanHorne introduced Patrick Julius, new principal, who in turn presented the faculty.

Mrs. Helen Ward's third grade class won the attendance prize.

Mrs. Grace Paul, chairman of the student aid program, said clothing, toys and dolls are needed for the Christmas welfare project. Donations are being collected at boxes at the school.

Refreshments were served 65 by the Mothers Club. Next meeting is Oct. 16.

County Board Acts On Shift Of Property

LISBON — The Columbiana County Board of Education Tuesday night approved one property transfer between school districts, rejected another and delayed action on a third.

The board approved shift of the Edwin Copeland farm of 125 acres from Franklin Local School District into United School District. This action was discussed at previous meetings.

A proposed transfer of 10 acres of Mr. and Mrs. John Reese of Lisbon R. D., seeking to transfer from United into the Lisbon district, was rejected. The family said it wanted a youngster to attend Lisbon kindergarten since United has none.

A petition from Walter Burkey of Metz Rd. in the Fairfield - Waterfield District to transfer into the Columbiana School District was held for study.

Supt. James McBride reported a county education workshop will be held Oct. 2 at the new Crestview School at which Phineas Engleman of Washington, executive secretary of the National Association of School Administrators, will speak. County schools will suspend that day.

A transportation workshop for county bus drivers will be held at the Crestview School either Oct. 25 or Oct. 26.

McBride reported the fall attendance at county schools is 5,751. There are 70 in kindergarten, down four from 1960; 4,291 in elementary schools, up 150, and 1,390 in high schools, up 125.

Atty. Donald Elliott, president, will attend a meeting of the Northeast Ohio School Boards Association Friday at Kent, and Mrs. Elizabeth Strabley will attend the Ohio School Boards Association meeting at Columbus Nov. 14-16. Next meeting is Oct. 16.

End Kevin Ward and fullback Bob Bisacre, two year veterans on the University of Wyoming football team, both hail from Wakefield, Mass.

Reds Act To Halt East Berliners' Escape To West

BERLIN (AP) — Communist authorities dispatched trucks, men and armored cars today to clear out border apartment houses where East Berliners have been leaping from windows or sliding down ropes from buildings into West Berlin.

Nine successful jumps were reported Tuesday night.

Along several miles of the 25-mile border between East and West Berlin, houses on one side of the street belong to the East and the street to the West. The Communists have bricked up ground floor doors and windows, but upper stories are mostly open.

Episcopalians Near Test On Merger Plan

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

DETROIT (AP)—A crucial test neared today on a monumental proposal for uniting four major Christian denominations into a single church "truly catholic, truly reformed and truly evangelical."

The House of Bishops at the triennial General Convention of the Episcopal Church set a full day of sessions for action on the matter.

"We're in for considerable debate on it," said Bishop Henry I. Louttit, of Orlando, Fla., chairman of the House's Committee for Dispatch of Business.

Before the church-governing conclave is a recommendation by its unity commission to approve merger negotiations with the United Presbyterians, Methodists and the United Church of Christ. Altogether, they have nearly 20 million members.

Moves also were afoot to include the Polish National Catholic Church.

Whether the historic plan actually gets under way hinges heavily on action by the Episcopal Church, which clings to ancient catholic concepts not found in the other strictly Protestant bodies.

Anglo-Catholic "high church" forces have mounted a full-scale assault on the plan, saying it would mean "sacrifice of essential principle," concerning the church's sacraments and historic succession.

Many top Episcopal leaders, including the presiding bishop, the Rt. Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, have urged launching of the merger negotiations, expressing hope the difficulties could be overcome.

The United Presbyterian Church initiated the proposal officially last spring, at the suggestion of its chief officer, the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake.

His plan also called for including any other churches besides the four that were willing to enter the broad-scale reunion effort.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I prevent the usual splintering of the bottom side of a board when boring a hole through it?

A. As soon as you see the point of your drill appear on the reverse side of your board, withdraw the bit — then turn the board over and finish the hole from the other side.

Q. Is it all right to paint matting and window shades?

A. This usually works out very well. The secret of success in this project is to apply two or three very thin coats of paint, rather than a single heavy one.

Q. How can I remove the stickiness from my hands after I've been handling pitch-filled green wood or freshly - cut branches?

A. You can clean your hands very easily by wetting them and applying some baking soda.

Acting House Speaker Says No Postal Hike

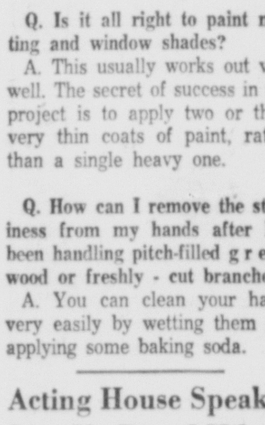

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said Tuesday there will be no postal rate increase bill in this session of Congress.

Postal rates will not come up for House action until next year, McCormack told newsmen.

He said President Kennedy had been informed at a White House meeting yesterday morning that there is no chance for the increase Kennedy had requested to reduce the postal deficit.

Pleasant And Unpleasant

Inflation Wears Guises

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—All the angry words today about the stage being set for another raid on the value of the dollar may confuse as many persons as it enlightens.

Inflation wears many guises. It may be a pleasant rise in wage scales for labor—in other words, an unpleasant hike in costs for the boss. It may be a pleasant increase in prices and dollar profits for those who have something to sell, be it goods or services—that is, a jolt to those who have to pay more out of their weekly earnings—a cruel blow to those trying to get by on fixed incomes, such as pensions.

Or inflation may be what the orthodox economist sees—a pumping up of the supply of money until it loses part, maybe all, of its purchasing value.

The classic example in this century is Germany after World War I. The government printed more and more paper currency, until finally it took a billion or more of paper marks to get what one metal mark did before the war. Savings disappeared, no one wanted money, only tangible goods. Germany's financial structure collapsed.

After World War II the United States had classic inflation, but in a milder form. There was too much money chasing too few goods—the popular definition.

There was too much money because the supply of paper money and bank credit had been swelled during the war so that the government could buy the military hardware it needed and pay other costs. This swollen supply was in the hands of the banks, of business, of consumers.

There were too few goods because during the war consumer goods production was held down. At the end of the war there was a great backlog of demand for scarce consumer goods of all types; lots of money with which to bid for them; and therefore a big rise in prices because consumers were willing to pay high to get what producers could offer.

By the time of the 1949 recession it took $172 to buy what $100 would have before the war.

The Korean War, and the easy money policy that helped finance it, sent the prices on another, if milder, whirl. By the time of the 1954 recession it took $192 to buy what $100 would before World War I.

Since then the supply of money and credit has been increased now and then in periods of government deficit financing. But the other factor—too few goods—has rarely been a problem. There have been fewer and fewer shortages, and now there's a potential capacity to produce too many goods.

In late years, therefore, two other explanations for the rise in the cost of living have been advanced.

One is the cost-push theory. Put simply, this is: Wages have gone on rising each year under union pressure. Added to this greater labor cost are all the other factors: Higher transportation, distribution, repair, servicing charges. These steadily rising costs have pushed prices higher.

This has been offset to a debatable degree by a rise in productivity, which means the use of machinese and automatic controls to get more goods from fewer man hours. Labor insists that productivity has risen as fast as or faster than operating costs. Management contends it's the other way around.

Another explanation for the rise in the cost of living is the price-pull theory, sometimes called administered prices. The charge is that industry has hiked prices deliberately and by agreement among competitors by keeping production in check. The aim has been higher profits from which more dividends can be paid and more funds put into expansion.

These are the three charges being argued with increasing heat today: Government monetary inflation through over-spending and artificially easy money; greedy wage demands by labor; greedy pricing policies by business.

CG Inspects Oil Pollution

A Coast Guard investigator made an inspection of the riverfront areas in East Liverpool and Wellsville Tuesday, following through on a request from Rep. Wayne L. Hays for an on-the-spot check to find the source of oil pollution that has plagued the district intermittently for most of the summer.

The lieutenant, stationed with the Pittsburgh detachment, first toured the River Rd. area with Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi as a guide. Then he went to Wellsville to make a similar inspection. The officer said he also intended to talk with members of the Wellsville Boat Club, which filed complaints and damage claims for alleged oil scum on boats and club property.

Chief Radeschi said at the time of the inspection about noon yesterday there was no sign of any pollution in the river off East Liverpool.

The officer suggested in the future when pollution is found in the river a sample should be secured and sent to the Coast Guard station in Pittsburgh, the chief said. In that way, the nature of the foreign material can be determined through chemical analysis, aiding in locating the source, Chief Radeschi related.

Vice Adm. J. A. Hirshfield of the Coast Guard in Washington promised Rep. Hays last week the agency would make an investigation of the pollution and submit a report, sending a copy to the congressman.

The admiral also suggested that Rep. Hays notify the Army Engineers Corps of the pollution because many of the administrative details relating to navigable inland waters are under its jurisdiction.

The first sever case of river pollution was noted here about July 1. It was reported to be an oil scum.

Peace Corps Tests Set At Steubenville

An examination for persons interested in joining the Peace Corps will be held at Steubenville Oct. 7, in the third-round of tests scheduled throughout the nation.

The examinations will begin at 8:30 a. m. in the Post Office at Steubenville and will last six hours with an hour out for lunch. There will be two tests — one for men and women interested in positions of secondary school or college teachers and the other for everyone else desiring to serve in the corps, the Washington headquarters said.

Applicants may report to the person in charge of the Civil Service Commission testing center on the morning of the day of the exam. The tests also will be held at Pittsburgh, on the first floor of the Victory Building at 9th St. and Liberty Ave.

Jury May Study Auto Theft Case

LISBON — A car theft case against Howard Cusick, 17, of Cleveland, formerly of Lisbon R.D. 2, has been referred to Prosecutor G. William Brokaw by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin following examination of the defendant at Woodside Receiving Hospital in Youngstown.

The youth is accused of stealing an auto in Cleveland in mid-August and driving it to the Lisbon area, where it overturned on the Old Steubenville Rd., south of the village. Then the youth returned to the village afoot and smashed a pane of glass in the front door of the Courthouse, where he was taken into custody the police and the State Highway Patrol.

At a preliminary hearing in Juvenile Court shortly afterward, Cusick was referred to Woodside Hospital for examination. With receipt of a report from the hospital Monday, Judge Tobin referred the case to the prosecutor. Cusick's $2,000 bond was continued. If the case is presented to the Grand Jury, it will be at the next term of court. Authorities said Cusick now is on probation in a Cuyahoga County auto larceny case.

Detour Is Arranged

Road Work Will Close Section Of Lisbon St.

Because of freeway construction, lower Lisbon St. will be closed to traffic within a few days and travel to and from Pleasant Heights will be detoured by way of former Chestnut St. and W. 9th St., Safety-Service Director Robert Owen told Council Tuesday night.

The director made the disclosure after Councilman Robert Laughlin asked installation of a temporary light on W. 9th St. at the point where Chestnut St. formerly intersected. He said the pavement is covered with earth and sometimes flooded with water after a rain, but there is no street light to make the hazard easily discernible to motorists.

THE DIRECTOR replied that the complaint "will be taken care of in a few days" in connection with the traffic re-routing. The former Chestnut St. right-of-way, now a smooth stretch of earth but minus pavement, will be used as the link between W. 8th St. and W. 9th St.

W. 9th St. joins Lisbon St. at a point near the street department barns, a few hundred yards upgrade from W. 8th St. Owen said the freeway contractors have promised to provide a suitable surface, "almost as smooth as a city street," for the temporary link between W. 8th and W. 9th Sts.

In another question related to the freeway construction, Harold Simms of May St. said residents of his neighborhood were promised by school authorities that a temporary walk would be provided for children going from May St. to Westgate School. But no walk has been provided, he complained.

Councilman John Melvin pointed out a meeting was held a few weeks ago between city, state and school officials to work out routes for West End youngsters to follow on their way to and from school.

"I thought all these situations had been taken care of, but since this one has not, I suggest the street department and the director investigate," he said.

THE STREET committee was asked to investigate a suggestion from Councilman Donald Smith to widen angle parking spots on the west side of Washington St. between E. 5th and E. 6th Sts.

Smith said he has received "many complaints" that the spaces are too narrow to maneuver a car easily or to enter or leave a parked auto. He suggested eliminating two parking spots and allocating the extra space to widen the remaining spots.

The street committee also was given a complaint from Laughlin that residents of W. 3rd St. have no place to park in front of their homes since the brick pavement has been torn up in preparation for installation of a new blacktop surface. W. 3rd St. will form a link between Route 30 and the east end of the freeway at Monroe St.

Laughlin also complained that ends of Market, Washington and Jackson Sts. are closed to traffic, although they never have been vacated formally by Council. He directed the complaint to Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, who said that "the streets never have been closed officially to my knowledge."

Mrs. John Garey of Hill Blvd. and Curry St., formerly of E. 6th St., appeared to reiterate a proposal that Council enact legislation requiring proper venting of gas space heaters and hot water tanks to guard against fatalities from noxious fumes.

She said she was a member of a committee which conferred with Council on the problem in early August. At that time, Council said it lacked funds to hire an inspector to enforce such a regulation, she said.

Mrs. Garey last night urged Council to enact legislation regardless of the availability of an inspector. In that way, a tenant in a house or apartment with improperly vented heaters could use the ordinance as a club to force the landlord to see that the conditions were corrected, she said.

Although there's no local law, firemen already have started inspecting buildings for improperly vented gas appliances and recommending changes, where needed, as a safety measure, Owen told Mrs. Garey.

Councilman Donald Hancock said Council feels a gas appliance ordinance should be part of a general regulation on building codes and zoning.

"We recognize the problem but it can't be taken care of overnight," he told Mrs. Garey.

OWEN TOLD Council he will work with a committee which is investigating a request to ban truck traffic from Grove Alley, just east of Walnut St. The committee was appointed after complaints were received at the Sept. 5 meeting that heavy trucks using the narrow alley have caused damage to several homes.

Councilman John Kelly said several parked autos have been tagged recently in Grove Alley. He thanked Owen for a fog line recently painted on Avondale St.

Owen remarked that a street department crew went to Boyce St. Monday morning to paint street lines, but the fog was so thick the men could not work because of danger from traffic. He also remarked he has observed motorists unwilling to pass another vehicle along the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." because of a solid white center line.

Passing is not prohibited, he said. In Ohio, only a solid yellow line denotes a no-passing stretch, he reminded.

Owen said he has been in touch with the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. on a complaint filed by Council two weeks ago that the crossing at W. 2nd and Jefferson St. has been closed for a year. Owen said he expects to get action soon.

"They've been letting it hang fire because nobody made an issue of it," he remarked.

The claims committee was given an $88 bill from the Standard Oil Co. service station on Dresden Ave. A city worker was putting air in the tire of a wheelbarrow when the wheel broke and a piece of the metal smashed a section of glass in the front of the station, the claim alleged.

Man Draws Prison Term

A Taylor County man was sentenced to concurrent terms of 1-to-10 years in state prison on each of four indictments charging forgery Monday in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland.

Judge Ralph E. Pryor sent George Breedlove, 61, of Grafton to Moundsville State Prison.

Breedlove was indicted last week by the September Grand Jury and admitted forgery of four checks in Weirton in August.

In other action, an Ellwood City man was placed on probation for five years and arraignment was deferred for a Weirton man until he receives a mental examination.

Mike Italia of Ellwood City was sentenced to terms of 1-to-5 years in prison on two indictments charging theft of money from J. William Davis.

Italia was placed on probation for five years after pleading guilty. Atty. Edwin Flowers filed a plea for probation.

The arraignment of Earl H. Caldwell, 28, of Weirton was deferred until he receives physical and mental examinations. Caldwell was indicted on a charge of felonious and malicious stabbing of Rachel Mintdrop June 24. Caldwell remains in County Jail.

Curtis Lee Young, 18, of Weirton was placed on a year's probation on an indictment charging breaking and entering. He was indicted in January. He will be arraigned later on a second indictment.

If you use espresso-type coffee (instant style) to serve after dinner in small cups you can vary it by adding a dollop of sweetened cream dusted with cinnamon instead of serving it black with a twist of lemon peel.

Chester Workers Set To Air Fund Drive

Tax Rejected At Weirton

WEIRTON — City voters Tuesday flatly rejected by a 4-1 majority a proposed service fee ordinance in a referendum.

The hotly - contested ordinance was proposed to shore up by $276,000 the city's annual budget of $760,000.

The proposal was rejected by a vote of 7,581 against to 2,019 for.

If approved, the city would have assessed every person over 21 a $5 fee, and would have imposed a property tax of twenty-one-hundredths of one per cent.

The "Citizens of Weirton" organization circulated petitions requiring the referendum and then proceeded to stage a campaign opposing enactment of the package capitation-property tax measure.

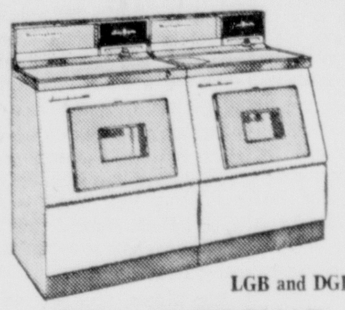

Council was supported by an organization of "Friends of Weirton" that staged a vigorous campaign for enactment of the ordinance on the basis of civic urgency.

Council is reported now considering adoption of a utility tax of 4 per cent on electrical companies and 3 per cent on gas companies in the city.

There was an extra heavy turnout of voters, with 9,600 of the city's 14,990 registered voters going to the polls.

Maris Faces Near Impossible Task With 1 Game To Go

Held To Single As Yanks Split, Clinch Flag Tie

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roger Maris was held to an infield single Tuesday night as the New York Yankees clinched at least a tie for the American League pennant by splitting a doubleheader with Baltimore.

Maris must hit two home runs tonight to officially tie Babe Ruth's home run record.

If he doesn't, he'll have eight more regularly scheduled games in which to tie or surpass the Bambino's 60-homer record of 1927, but will have to take the asterisk along with any record under the edict handed down by Commissioner Ford Frick.

That's the prospect facing Maris, who has 58 homers after failing to connect in nine tries against the Orioles' sharp pitchers, as he prepares to take his final official shots against right-hander Milt Pappas (12-8) if Hurricane Esther doesn't intervene.

The honor of clinching the tie for the Yankees' 26th pennant, their 11th in 13 years and the first under rookie manager Ralph Houk, went to left-hander Bud Daley who beat the Orioles 3-1 in the nightcap with a five-hitter.

Steve Barber won the opener for the Birds 1-0 with a four-hit job for his eighth shutout, tops in the majors. Maris walked in the first, then failed to get a hit in three other at-bats.

In the second game, Maris fouled out in the first, got an infield single in the third, grounded out in the fourth, hit a long foul in the seventh before flying out to center and struck out in the ninth for a 3-for-36 performance at Baltimore this season.

Bill Skowron took up the homer slack for the Yankees, cracking his 27th, with one on in the fourth, for a 3-1 New York lead that stood up and reduced their magic number to one over the second-place Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers, who play an afternoon game against Los Angeles today, maintained a mathematical chance to tie for the pennant by beating the Angels 6-2 Tuesday.

Cleveland and Kansas City split the A's winning the opener 6-0 and the Indians taking the nightcap 6-2. Chicago whipped Boston 5-1 and Minnesota defeated Washington 3-1.

Skowron's homer, with Elston Howard on base against Baltimore starter Skinny Brown (10-6), gave Daley his 12th win against 17 defeats. The lone Baltimore run came on Ron Hansen's homer leading off the third.

In the opener, Barber (17-11) had the Yankees completely in control while Baltimore's first inning run stood up and made Whitey Ford (24-4) the loser. The Orioles scored when Brooks Robinson singled, reached second as the ball got by Hec Lopez and scored on Jerry Adair's double.

The Tigers scored four in the first inning on singles by Billy Bruton and Norm Cash, doubles by Al Kaline and Rocky Colavito plus two wild pitches by Ken McBride (12-14) and an error. That was enough for Don Mossi (15-7), although he was tagged for homers by Eddie Yost and Steve Bilko in a four-hit pitching performance.

Reds' Magic Number Hits 5

Pirates Blasted, LA Falls

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

They're playing taps for the Dodgers in Los Angeles while Cincinnati's rambunctious Reds ride their pennant-bound express to their first National League flag in 21 years.

The Reds, a patchwork outfit that includes a host of youngsters and a batch of castoffs, ballooned their lead to five games over the Dodgers Tuesday night by walloping the Pittsburgh Pirates 10-1 for their seventh victory in the last eight games.

The triumph, coupled with Los Angeles' second straight loss to the seventh-place Chicago Cubs, 7-3, reduced the Reds' magic number to five. Any combination of five Cincinnati victories or Dodger defeats will give the Reds their first pennant since 1940.

It was a typical story for the Reds as trade acquisition Gene Freese smacked two homers, including a key three-run shot in a seven-run fourth-inning rally, and 24-year-old Jim O'Toole won his sixth in a row bringing his pitching record to 17-9.

San Francisco and Milwaukee players hammered four homers each before Ed Bailey's ninth-inning single drove in the winning run for the Giants' 11-10 victory. St. Louis blanked Philadelphia 3-0 as Curt Simmons five-hit his former teammates.

O'Toole stopped the Pirates on seven hits, allowing their only run in the fifth on Hal Smith's single, a double by Bill Mazeroski and an infield out. The Reds laced Pittsburgh starter Bob Friend (14-18) for seven runs in the fourth. Freese's solo shot in the seventh, his 26th homer, ended the scoring for the Reds, who pounded Friend and three successors for 15 hits.

Bob Anderson (7-9), who hadn't completed a game in 10 previous starts, went the route for the Cubs and knocked in the winning runs with a two-run homer in the fourth.

Bailey's single settled a homer battle. Willie Mays, who smashed a grand slam, Orlando Cepeda, Jim Davenport and Bailey connected for the Giants. Joe Adcock Roy McMillan, Ed Mathews and Frank Bolling homered for the Braves. Reliever Stu Miller (14-4) won it with the loss charged to Carl Willey (5-12). Warren Spahn was sent to the showers in the second inning without victory No. 20.

County Grid Officials Will Meet Tonight

The Columbiana County Football Officials Association will meet tonight at 7 in Room 204 at East Liverpool High School.

HARRY CRAFT gets a big kiss from his wife Tuesday night in Houston after he was named manager of Houston's entry in the National League. Craft is currently manager of the minor league Houston Buffs and he is shown with his wife just outside the Buff dugout before an American Association playoff game with Louisville. Colt general manager, Paul Richards, made the announcement. (UPI Telephoto)

Craft Named Manager Of Houston Club

HOUSTON (AP) — Harry Craft, Houston's last minor league baseball manager, will lead the city into the major leagues.

Craft, 46, signed a two-year contract Tuesday as field manager of the Houston Colts, a 1962 National League entry.

Terms of the contract were not announced.

Craft was summoned from the "brain trust" of Chicago Cubs coaches in mid-season to manage the American Association Houston Buffs.

He managed the Kansas City Athletics from the middle of 1957 until the end of the 1959 season, finishing seventh each year.

The Buffs were in fifth place in the association when Craft arrived July 16. They won 32 of their last 54 games to squeeze into fourth place and the league playoffs.

Craft started his major league career in 1937 with the Cincinnati Reds and completed his playing days in 1948.

Buffalo Evens Series With Rochester In IL

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The Buffalo Bisons, all even with Rochester after snapping the Red Wings' five-game playoff winning streak, move into Rochester tonight for the third game of the International League playoff final.

Buffalo squared the series at one game apiece Tuesday night, winning 9-2. The Bisons clobbered four Red Wing pitchers for 12 hits, including two home runs by Don Micher.

Mets Are Ready To Join Majors

CHICAGO (AP) — The fact-finding committee has all but completed its job for the New York Mets who hope their debut in the National League next season will be nothing short of successful.

Rogers Hornsby, the Mets' chief scout in the Chicago area, has gone about his job as diligently as he did when he was winning batting championships and earning his way into baseball's Hall of Fame.

Hornsby has scouted both National League American League teams and feels the Mets will come up with a team better than the 1961 American League entries of Washington and Los Angeles.

"Those two teams did real well," says Hornsby. "A lot of people figured they'd be lucky to win 100 games between them. They fooled all those people and we hope to do even better.

"I don't know for sure," said Hornsby, "but I have a pretty good idea of the players we'll get a chance to draft.

"I can't reveal any names but when I turn in my reports I indicate which players will be a bigger help to us in the Polo Grounds. That's where we'll start playing our games."

The Mets have scouts like Hornsby in nearly all the major league areas. Their reports are being submitted to General Manager George Weiss in New York.

From these reports, the Mets will decide which players are worth taking once the other clubs in the league reveal what players they are willing to let go.

Former Potter Leads BG

Potts, Ex-WVU Gridder, Back To Haunt Marshall

By DICK LEONARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

HUNTINGTON (AP) — A former West Virginia University football player is coming back to haunt Marshall University in its Saturday night game here with Bowling Green.

He's former WVU frosh quarterback Jim Potts of East Liverpool, Ohio, now a regular signal-caller for Bowling Green. Potts dropped out of WVU after suffering a shoulder injury and transferred to BG.

As Bowling Green's regular quarterback last year, the 195-pounder completed 44 of 71 passes for 62 per cent. He threw the winning touchdown pass in last year's 14-7 victory over Marshall while completing 8 of 12 tosses for 109 yards.

Potts, now a senior at Bowling Green, is considered the key to the Falcons' 1961 season which opens Saturday night here. Marshall opened the campaign last Saturday with a 33-6 loss to VMI.

This Fairfield Stadium clash will be the first Mid - American Conference game for both teams.

"We'll get beat by Marshall," he predicted. "They already have one game under their belts."

"Yeah, that's true," countered Marshall Coach Charlie Snyder. "But they got a chance to scout us and that means a lot."

"We caught them napping last year. But that won't happen this time."

FIELD AND STREAM

By R. L. LIDE

Within the last 10 years, opening morning of squirrel season was a looked forward to event.

Many hunters "hit the sack" as soon as the sun went down and set the alarm to rise and shine at 4 a. m.

Some lunch counters were packed with hunters getting their coffee, hot cakes or ham and eggs, all in high spirits and eager to get into the woods before daybreak, then sit quietly and concealed waiting for the first limb to shake, revealing the movements of the bushy tails, and go home with the limit by the time the sun was high in the sky.

Times have certainly changed within the last few years. If the coffee shops in this locality, depended on the hunter trade they would soon be out of business.

SO MANY people used to enjoy fried squirrel, squirrel stew or baked in the oven. Old-timers like myself used to skin the squirrels in a way that fewer hairs had to be picked. And preparing the squirrel for cooking was an art within itself.

Even the top portion of the head was cleaned and the brains in the upper half of the skull were included in the stew, something that might be repulsive by present-day tenderfoots.

Last Friday morning when the squirrel season opened I cannot help but believe there were far more squirrels in the woods than hunters.

I passed woods after woods where I know a few squirrels exist and not one hunter's car was seen. In former years there were so many hunters that several cars were parked along the roadway at any patch of woods that existed. And with that kind of hunting pressure, I was actually cautious about entering the woods not knowing when one of these "movement" shooters might take a pot at me.

One hunter I approached about 9 a. m. was walking down the road near Dungannon. I asked him how he made out and he told me he hadn't found a place to hunt yet as his favorite woods had been destroyed by strip mining, something he didn't know until he walked back in. Others said their favorite squirrel woods had been cut over by the sawmills.

THAT SEEMS to be the answer to squirrel hunting 1961, practically no place to hunt. So many of the spots with sizable white oaks and other big timber are heavily posted with "No Hunting" signs that mean exactly what is spelled out.

A good population of local hunters took off for the southern Ohio hills, where they know some farmer who has woods and squirrels, while others hit Shawnee Forest, or other state - owned lands where squirrels exist.

From what I can gather this is one reason why the hunting pressure has dropped in Columbiana County to an all-time low. I intend to check with some of the biggest hunting license agencies in this county and see if there is any decline in the normal sale of licenses.

Anymore, hunting is like fishing, the nimrods will drive a couple of hundred miles where they think hunting or fishing is better and think nothing of it.

Penn State Picked Over Navy In Saturday Headliner

Has 4 Or 5 Shots Left

Roger Homerless In Nine Trips As 'Jinx' Holds Up

By JOE REICHLER

BALTIMORE (AP)—Tonight is zero hour for Roger Maris. Or is it?

The crew-cut slugging star of the New York Yankees has just one game—four or five at bats—in which to slam the three home runs he still needs to eclipse Babe Ruth's home run record of 60 in a season.

The 27-year-old right fielder's bat was almost completely muffled Tuesday night as the Yankees assured themselves of at least a tie for the American League pennant with a double-header split against Baltimore. New York won the second game 3-1 after Steve Barber of the Orioles had outpitched Whitey Ford 1-0 in the opener.

Maris, with 58 homers in the bank, came to bat nine times. The closest he came to hitting a home run was a long drive into the right field bleachers — foul by some 20 feet—in the seventh inning of the nightcap. His only safety was an infield single in his sixth time at bat. In his other tries, he walked, fouled out twice, grounded out twice, flied out twice and struck out.

"Well, I've got to be a Houdini now to do it in 154 games," Maris said.

"I had a bad night," he admitted, "and when I'm bad, I'm really lousy. I've got nobody to blame but myself. I was overanxious. I had some good pitches to hit at but I also swung at some bad ones. Those pitchers (Steve Barber, Skinny Brown and Hoyt Wilhelm) had me swinging at their pitch. I should have waited them out a little more and forced them to come in with my pitch, but I was too anxious."

Commissioner Ford Frick has decreed that if Ruth's hallowed homer mark is equalled or broken, it must be done in 154 decisions. That was the number of games which constituted a season in 1927, when the Babe set his record. The current American League seasons runs 162 games.

"As far as Mr. Frick is concerned," Maris told reporters Tuesday night, "I've got only one more game. But physically, as far as my body is concerned, I've got nine more to play."

A crowd of 31,317, unheeding warning signals sent ahead by Hurricane Esther, came out to see whether Maris could break the Memorial Stadium jinx which has held him homerless in six previous games. The turbulent lady, true to her gender, was late but there was enough wind blowing in from right field to make Roger's job tougher. Roger, a left-hander hitter, was able to hit only two balls out of the infield all night.

Coliseum May See Last Ball Game Tonight

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barring a National League playoff series here— and the only thing less likely to be held here is the Florida State Fair — this will be the Coliseum's last night as a major league baseball park.

The Dodgers, fading from the 1961 National League picture along with their vast stadium, play their final home game tonight against the Chicago Cubs, who beat them 7-3 Tuesday night. The loss dropped the Dodgers five games behind league-leading Cincinnati.

The Coliseum, largest park in the majors, is hardly as rich in baseball history as the Dodgers' previous home in Brooklyn. But, in four seasons, it has had a few moments that will not be forgotten.

The Coliseum also is the home of one of the greatest curiosities in baseball history—the left-field screen. In four seasons, 741 home runs have been hit at the Coliseum, and something like 80 or 85 per cent of them have gone to left field, sailing over or near the screen.

The home run records expected to be set here never materialized. But, because a 275-foot fly ball could drive in as many as four runs, the screen did invest each game with an extra element of suspense.

Perhaps one of the most exciting games was the final playoff of 1959, when the Dodgers took the National League pennant in a 12-inning thriller.

Earlier in the same season, on May 7, a crowd of 93,103 watched the Dodgers and Yankees play a benefit game for Roy Campanella, the paralyzed Dodger catcher. It was the largest turnout in U.S. baseball history.

The most curious baseball innovation introduced here, besides the screen, was the bugle call. Dozens of fans started bringing horns to the park. When the Dodgers came to bat, they blew cavalry calls and the crowd yelled: "Charge!"

Tuesday night, however, a different call was intoned by a musician in the left-field stands. In the top of the fifth inning, while the Dodgers were changing pitchers, the man with the horn played "Taps."

Perhaps he feels the same way about the Coliseum as Dodger Manager Walt Alston, who recently remarked:

Spahn Fails Again In Bid For 20th Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Southpaw ace Warren Spahn, blasted in his last two starts, wants another shot, as soon as possible, at his 20th victory.

He had allowed just one homer in 77 innings when he took the mound against the Giants here Tuesday, but left before a batter was out in the fourth inning, trailing 7-2 on four San Francisco home runs.

The 40-year-old left-hander seeking his 12th season of 20 victories, had won 10 straight games and has a 19-12 record before last Friday. Then he lasted only into the second inning at Los Angeles before leaving with his 13th defeat.

Here Tuesday, the Braves went ahead 9-7 before losing 11-10, so no decision went on Spahn's record.

It was windless in Candlestick Park when Spahn pitched and he commented, "That ball really hops out of here when there's no wind. But don't make any excuses for me, please."

Eight homers in the game were the most ever hit out of usually blustery Candlestick since it opened at the start of the 1960 season.

Broken Y. Overtakes Favorites At Beulah

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Broken Y. overtook favored Turf Course in the stretch at Beulah Park Tuesday to win the $1,200 six furlong race for 3-and-4-year-olds and return a healthy $22.20. The winner covered the distance in 1:11 4-5.

Etcheverry Seen Cards' Hope In Tilt With Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry, veteran quarterback, is the big hope of the St. Louis Cardinals and could be a problem to the Cleveland Browns in the latter's home opener Sunday.

Etcheverry, new to the National Football League, survived his first test last Sunday against the usually sturdy defense of the New York Giants.

Despite a sore arm that kept him from throwing long passes, Etcheverry clicked on 10 of 23 passes for 97 yards and one touchdown.

The 5-foot-11, 185-pounder was a standout in Canadian pro circles. Etcheverry was a star quarterback with the Montreal Alouettes for nine seasons.

Etcheverry, 31, led the Skyline Conference in total offense in his junior and senior years at the University of Denver.

World Trot Record Broken At Delaware

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — A world record was shattered and another one tied Tuesday at the second day of the Grand Circuit harness meeting at Delaware Fairgrounds.

Spry Rodney turned in miles of 2:05 and 2:04 to win the Walnut Hall Farm Filly Stakes for 2-year-old trotters. The combined times bettered the previous mark for 2-year-olds over a half-mile track by two seconds, and the second heat time of 2:04 tied the world mark in that department.

Ritzy Hanover won the pacing division of the Walnut Hall Stakes with straight-heat victories in 2:04 and 2:02 4-5.

Songin's 4 TD Flips Is Top Performance

DALLAS (AP) — Al Dorow of New York held onto his lead in American Football League passing last week but the sensation of the circuit was 37-year-old Butch Songin of Boston.

Songin came off the bench against Denver and whipped out four touchdown passes to lead the Patriots to a 45-17 victory. The four scoring tosses gave Songin a share of the one-game league record.

In all Songin hit 13 of 26 passes for 250 yards, allowing no interceptions, and jumped from nowhere to the No. 2 spot in passing behind Dorow.

Dorow has completed 39 of 70 passes for 464 yards and leads the passers under the six-point system that includes interceptions and touchdown passes in arriving at the efficiency points. He has 47 points to 40 for Songin.

Paul Lowe of San Diego moved into the lead in rushing with a 72-yard day against Oakland for a two-game total of 172 yards. First-week leader Jack Spikes of Dallas was idle and slipped to fourth. Lowe's mate, Bo Roberson, is second with 146 yards.

Young Urges Efforts Be Pushed To Disarm

WASHINGTON (AP)—By limiting its nuclear tests to underground explosions, while the Soviets are testing with blasts in the atmosphere, the United States is showing far more concern for its world neighbors, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, says.

Young called for continued efforts toward disarmament. He added that public resumption of nuclear tests by the Soviet government is forcing the United States to play "a deadly game of Russian roulette."

Rep. Feighan Raps Russia As UN Member

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia should not be allowed to retain membership in the United Nations while "working overtime on a global basis to destroy its very purposes," Rep. Michael E. Feighan, D-Ohio, says.

Calling for U.S. leadership in reorganizing the U.N. in the wake of the death of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, Feighan declared Russia must be forced to conform to the letter and spirit of the U.N. charter.

Tarkenton Hit In Pro Debut

Rookie Leads NFL Passers

A week ago Francis Tarkenton was just a guy showing a lot of promise with the brand new Minnesota Vikings. Today he leads the league in individual passing figures released by NFL headquarters.

Rookie Tarkenton threw four touchdown passes and scored six points himself Sunday in Minnesota's debut, a 37-13 victory over the Chicago Bears.

And the kid from Georgia proved he was a take-charge fellow in the process. Once during the game, old pro Hugh McElhenny said in huddle:

"I'm tired."

After the game, McElhenny said:

Tarkenton piled up 250 yards with his passing and wound up the NFL's first week of play with a completion percentage of 73.9, tops in the 14-team circuit. San Francisco's John Brodie wasn't far behind with a 72.7 percentage.

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Nineteen of the nation's top 3-year-old pacers will swing in behind the starting gate Thursday for the 16th Little Brown Jug over Delaware Fairground's half - mile track.

Lang Hanover, Ohio's chief hope in the $70,000 classic, drew pole position. The colt, owned by Samuel Huttenbauer of Cincinnati, holds the season's best time for sophomore pacers—1:57.8.

Another Ohio entry, Speedy Time, owned by the Byron Kuth Stables of Cleveland, drew the rail in the second division.

The first five horses in each division will come back for a raceoff. In the event a third horse wins that dash, the thee heat winners will race alone for the big prize.

Danger Of Radioactivity Seen As Exaggerated

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A frequent prediction about nuclear war is that radioactivity would poison the earth and all forms of life.

"This is certainly not true," say Dr. Edward Teller, one of the world's most prominent nuclear physicists.

"The danger of radioactivity has been grossly exaggerated.

"We must do everything possible to avoid war. But if, despite that, war does come, unreasonable fear of radioactivity could lead to panic and to widespread, needless loss of life.

"For example, popular writings have even suggested that radiation sickness can be transmitted from persons to person, like a contagious disease.

"If there were a war, this means a person who had been exposed to radiation might be denied admission to a shelter from fear of him.

"Instead, the humane thing would be to try to save his life. His contaminated clothing should be removed, and treatment started for radiation sickness. Care should be taken to dispose safely of his radioactive body wastes. But that victim could not really harm others in the shelter."

Radiation is the new—and to most people mysterious—element in nuclear weapons.

More insidiously, the bomb releases a cloud of radioactivity which is carried away by winds, then falls to earth. It forms a heavy pattern on the ground near the explosion, then rapidly decreases in intensity.

But for years, radioactivity can rain down around the earth in the form of long-lasting radioactive atoms, such as strontium-90.

This fallout generated a violent political and scientific controversy as to the danger only from tests, and the moral question of spreading contamination in order to test weapons.

Everyone agrees humans have always lived in a constant small sea of radiation from natural sources such as cosmic rays and radioactive rocks.

All agree the further radioactivity from fallout has added—thus far—only about 2 per cent more to the natural radioactivity.

At this point, even the scientists split.

Some hold the added radioactivity means hundreds to thousands of babies will be born deformed, or stillborn, and that elements such as strontium-90 will cause or are causing more human cancer.

Other scientists including Dr. Teller insist there has been no damage yet, or that the added risk is to tiny to measure. The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission takes this official view.

"The present amounts of radioactivity are so small that animal experiments show no effects," Dr. Teller says.

"We are scared about very small amounts, such as the strontium-90 found in milk. But we could take 100 times more, and still consume it safely.

"If it were 1,000 times more, we would drink the milk or eat vegetables, if we were hungry, even though it might give us a slightly greater chance, say, of getting cancer later in life.

"But if it were 10,000 times more, then we should consider carefully how the intake of radioactivity can be reduced."

All-out war would vastly increase the radioactive fallout.

But Dr. Teller says the lethal and damaging genetic effects — should this happen—have been exaggerated also.

"And we are just beginning to learn how to combat the effects of radiation, to remove it from food or water, or remove radioactivity from the body, and to devise antidotes," he notes.

Radioactive atoms on the ground might be plowed under, he said. Or research may find means of breeding crops which selectively removed radioactivity (and were themselves thrown away on harvest) or crops which take up little of the dangerous types of atoms.

"The point is that overdrawn fear of radioactivity could paralyze us, and lead to foolish action if the tragedy of war came upon us," Dr. Teller contends.

Lack of adequate civil defense in the United States, he suggested, constitutes in effect an invitation to attack, and he added: "We should start right now, without further delay."

Ironton Firm Due Loan By U.S. Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — The largest loan to be granted since much of Ohio's 10th Congressional District was declared a substantial unemployment area will be made to Ford Brothers Trucking Co. Inc. of Ironton, Ohio.

Rep. Walter H. Moeller, D-Ohio, said the Small Business Administration approved the $350,000 loan at 4 per cent interest under provisions of the Area Redevelopment Act.

OSU Running Game Takes Over Spotlight

The ground offensive tactics don't mean Coach Woody Hayes is deserting an aerial attack. The reason is the Buck's top quarterback and passer, Bill Mrukowski, is hospitalized, recuperating from a seige of virus.

Mrukowski and halfback Ed Ulmer joined end Chuck Bryant in University Hospital Tuesday. All are trying to regain their strength after being hit by the virus.

Waistline Needed For New Fall Styles

"S for shape" is the fashion decree for fall. The new lines, variously termed "the oblique" "the zigzag" and "the spiral" are all designed to create — shape. To meet the designers halfway, milady will need to slim excess padding off the waist and midsection.

Ida Jean Kain

The slim waist is always fashion's darling for when extra calories settle at the equator, other curves are crowded out. It's easy to see that a widening at the waist squares off the short figure and gives a heavy - set look to the large - frame girl. It even makes a botch of the near-normal weight's figure.

Slimming this middle measurement can be a fast process if exercise is directed to the right muscles. This resistance exercise restores tone to muscles at sides of waist. . .

Movement: Pull up strongly with the lower abdominal muscles and hold hips tucked under. Slowly pull away from the door frame and bend to ther side. Keep it up until a strong pull is felt along the waistline region.

Come back to position and repeat three times. Change sides and bend to the other side. Later the exercise can be repeated a dozen times on each side with a pause for relaxing between each half dozen counts.

The loss of tone in the waistline extends from the abdominal girdle muscles. To put the snap back into the bias muscles and streamline the frontline as well as the waist, try this exercise. Since it involves a twisting movement, however, it should not be attempted by those who have anything wrong with the lower back.

Movement: Keep knees together and twist slowly and strongly at the waist, lower thighs to floor on one side, then on the other. This exercise is not difficult for anyone with a normally strong back and can be continued for 10 counts.

Movement: Flex the straight leg to chest and swing arms up and back on floor overhead and add a strong stretch through the middle of the figure. Return to position and perform with the same leg 12 counts; rest, and repeat with other leg. Keeping one leg flexed with sole of foot on floor eliminates strain.

You can keep your figure young if you refuse to let the waist slip its moorings.

Sectional Plan Set

Mail Schedules Will Be Changed Effective Oct. 1

A drastic change in mail schedules to provide next day delivery anywhere in Ohio will be inaugurated here Oct. 1 as the Ohio sectional center plan goes into effect, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

The new plan will change the time the mail arrives and leaves East Liverpool and also will eliminate five "star routes" now serving the city. All city mail now will pass through Steubenville, one of 20 centers throughout the state in which mail handling will be concentrated, he explained.

For example, Steubenville will be the mail handling center for mail from post offices in Columbiana County south of West Pont, while mail from West Point north will go to Youngstown for distribution.

"Star routes" between East Liverpool and Salem, Pittsburgh, Weirton, Rochester and Steubenville will be eliminated under the plan. Here are the new time schedules:

From Mondays through Saturdays, all mail coming into East Liverpool will come from Steubenville, with trucks arriving at 6 and 8:35 a. m. and at 3:10 p. m.

THE MORNING mail will include the quantity which arrives each morning from the five present "star routes." It will be processed to city carriers before they leave the post office for deliveries, Brown said.

Mail arriving at 3:10 p. m. and destined for patrons with post office boxes will be in the boxes by 4:15 p. m., he continued.

To replace the trucks taking mail from East Liverpool to the other cities, which now leave between 8 and 8:20 a. m. Mondays through Saturdays, one truck will leave for Steubenville at 9:30 a. m.

$77,600 Set As Goal For Fund Drive

Allocations Fixed For 6 Agencies In Annual Campaign

A goal of $77,600 was announced today for the Community Fund drive which will be held in October.

The figure was established Monday night by the association's Board of Trustees at a meeting in headquarters in the YMCA following recommendations of the Budget Committee.

Richard R. Emmerling, campaign chairman, reported the proposed allocation of funds to the six participating agencies as follows: Boy Scouts, $13,500; Girl Scouts, $10,500; YMCA, $30,500; Salvation Army, $11,500; Recreation Council, $7,500, and USO, $100.

Association directors also set aside $4,000 to cover campaign expenses, a customary practice in such campaigns, Emmerling said.

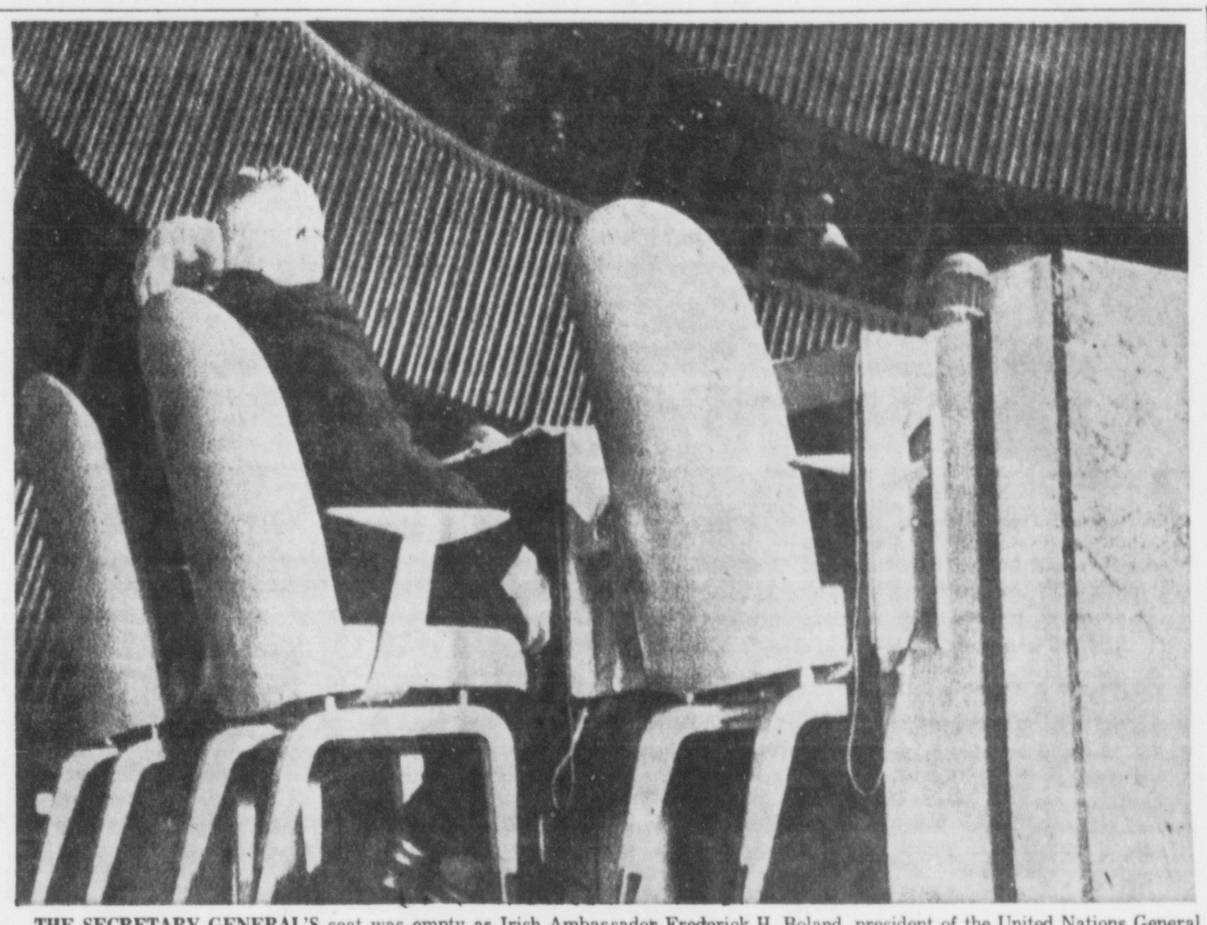

During the board meeting, a financial report of last fall's campaign was read by Carl Werner, executive secretary of the association.

The campaign, which was headed by William A. Black, brought in pledges totaling $79,400—better than 96 per cent of the goal of $82,368. Approximately $73,460 of the pledges have been paid leaving nearly $6,000 outstanding.

It also was reported that thus far during the association's fiscal year the six participating agencies have received payments averaging 83 per cent of their allocations from the 1960 campaign. In the period, a total cash outlay of more than $63,000 has been made by the association to the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army, YMCA, Recreation Council and USO, plus campaign expenditures.

In discussing the 1961 campaign goal, Emmerling emphasized that the "amount was essential. . .operating records of each participating agency have been carefully studied, all non-essential items eliminated. If each campaign worker will make just a little extra effort and contact more prospective donors, we have ev

Deadly Blow Now Feared As Certain

NEW YORK (AP)—The sprawling metropolitan areas of the Northeast girded today for a battering by winds and floods wrought by vicious Hurricane Esther. Thousands already have fled coastal areas in the path of the storm.

Esther slapped the North Carolina coast with 33-foot waves and high winds during the predawn hours as she plodded on a course that could send her inland anywhere from the Virginia coast on up.

Regardless of where she lands her deadly punch, the nation's most densely populated area appears certain to take a beating.

City, civil defense and military officials in the New York, New Jersey, Connecticut metropolitan area of some 16 million people—almost one-tenth of the nation's population—urged citizens to prepare for a possible emergency.

New York City's Mayor Robert F. Wagner called an emergency meeting of a host of city agencies.

Civil defense officials in the city had cots, blankets and food in readiness, and 35 schools were designated as temporary shelters.

Two Texas Towers off New England have been evacuated by the Air Force, mindful of the disastrous collapse of a similar radar warning structure in a storm last January off New Jersey.

Aircraft at air force bases throughout the threatened area were sent flying to safety at bases far inland—some going as far as Wright-Patterson and Lockbourne Air Force bases in Ohio.

In exposed sections of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Delaware, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, residents were hastening the battening-down procedure amid warnings that gale winds and tidal floods would smack their shores today.

Isolated communities on the lower New Jersey coast were battered by waves that lashed across sea walls and flooded roads. Officials worked during the predawn hours surveying roads to determine those that would remain above water longest.

Preparations on Long Island were described by one oldtimer as the most extensive for a storm in his memory. Residents of the 125-mile strip of land east of New York City vividly recalled their brush in 1955 with Hurricane Hazel.

Residents of Fire Island, a sand spit south of Long Island, were urged to evacuate the area, used almost exclusively as a summer resort.

Gas Company Cuts Request For New Rate

Average Increase Set At 16 Per Cent In Alternate Plans

The Ohio Valley Gas Co. is willing to settle for rate increases averaging out to 16 per cent instead of the boost of 20½ per cent it requested in June, Harold Sneddon, local manager of the utility, told Council Tuesday night.

But Council's reception was cool. The members said they will study Ohio Valley's latest proposal and advise Sneddon when they are ready for another conference.

Following through on a pledge he made at the meeting Sept. 5, Sneddon presented Council last night with four new alternative rate schedules. He said Ohio Valley will settle for any of the four.

Each of the alternates calls for a minimum rate of $3.17 monthly, covering the first 1,000 cubic feet of gas. The same minimum was provided for in the company's initial proposition. The present minimum is $2.65. In each case, the utility asked a four-year agreement.

Sneddon's first alternate calls for: A $3.17 minimum; a rate of 90 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for the next 299,000 feet and 70 cents per 1,000 for all gas consumed over 100,000 cubic feet.

His second alternate, also with the $3.17 minimum, provides a rate of $1, per 1,000 for the next 4,000 cubic feet; 88 cents per 1,000 for the next 295,000, and 70 cents per 1,000 for the balance.

The third alternate, in addition to the $3.17 minimum, would fix a rate of $1.38 per 1,000 for the next 4,000 cubic feet; 77½ cents

Revised Gas Rate Offered At Wellsville

Council Will Study Utility's Proposal Reducing Request

A revised proposal for a rate increase was presented Wellsville City Council by the Ohio Valley Gas Co. Tuesday night. It was taken under consideration and Council promised to make a counter-offer.

The new proposal calls for a lesser charge on the first 2,000 cubic feet used by the consumer. But, it calls for a slightly higher rate for any further amount up to 298,000 cubic feet.

The proposal calls for a charge of 30 cents per 100 cubic feet for the first 1,500 feet; 8.3 cents per 100 for the next 298,000 cubic feet and 7 cents per 100 for all over 300,000 cubic feet.

The new schedule was presented by Harold Sneddon, local manager for the utility. The first offer made called for 30 cents per 100 feet for the first 2,000; 78 cents per 1,000 for the next 298,000, and 70 cents per 1,000 for more than 300,000.

This was a general increase of $2.58 for the first 2,000 cubic feet. The present rate is $2.65 for the first 1,000 and 77 cents for each 1,000 thereafter.

Under the second proposal offered last night, the first 2,000 feet would cost $4.96½. This would be $4.50 for the first 1,500 and 46½ cents for the next 500.

On a motion by Councilman Paul Nelson, Council agreed to study the figures and prepare a counter-proposal for the utility at the next meeting Oct. 3.

Mrs. Mary Rahter, Council president, said she preferred to

Tshombe said he would leave this Northern Rhodesian conference center tonight to return to Elisabethville, his capital.

The Katanga leader, battling U.N. efforts to force his mineral-rich land under the rule of the Congo's central government, laid a wreath of white lilies before the coffin of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold as it lay in state.

He went to the church directly from a morning session with the U.N. delegation trying to arrange a Katanga cease-fire.

"We have made counter propositions which the U.N. side has transmitted to New York," Tshombe said. "Now we await their reply."

Tshombe met for more than five hours Tuesday with a U.N. delegation headed by Mahmoud Khiari, a Tunisian diplomat who is chief of U.N. civilian operations in the Congo.

There was a second round today of the talks, to which Hammarskjold was heading when he and 14 of his 15 companions were killed in a plane crash.

For Temporary Chief

BULLETIN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly quickly elected Tunisian delegate Mongi Slim as its president today, but no agreement was in sight on the critical problem of choosing a successor to Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The Soviet Union threatened today to torpedo a proposal for a temporary secretary-general who would succeed Dag Hammarskjold and keep the U.N. executive machinery in action.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko indicated Moscow will settle for nothing less than a three-man secretariat to control the world organization.

Under the stop-gap plan, the U.N. General Assembly would name an interim secretary-general to fill the position left vacant by Hammarskjold's death. The West and many neutrals rallied to the support of the proposal.

Soviet opposition heightened fears that the entire question of selecting a new secretary-general would wind up in an East-West deadlock, leaving the U.N. administration without a leader.

This latest crisis was added to the agenda of talks between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Gromyko, who agreed to open conferences Thursday. They originally had planned to discuss the Berlin crisis.

Today it elects Tunisia's Mongi Slim as president and chooses other officers. The rest of the session was set aside for eulogies of Hammarskjold, who perished in an African plane crash Monday.

The battle lines were drawn Tuesday night when Gromyko told newsmen his government would not agree to any one man serving as secretary-general even in an interim capacity.

"Any one person would not be good. We must have three secretaries-general," Gromyko said, harking back to the plan proposed by Premier Khrushchev at last year's General Assembly.

GM, Union Racing Clock For Accord

No Hint Is Given When Agreement Might Be Reached

BULLETIN

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors and the United Auto Workers union reached agreement today on a three-year contract covering GM's 350,000 hourly rated employes.

DETROIT (AP) — Racing the clock toward their third deadline in three weeks, negotiators from General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union stretched continuous new contract bargaining beyond the 18th hour today.

There was no indication this morning when agreement might come, but company and union representatives emerging occasionally from the bargaining room gave every indication they anticipated a settlement, not a stalemate.

At-the-plant working agreements, which supplement the national contract, have stymied national-level bargaining since Sept. 11, when the UAW authorized local unions to walk out in support of their local-level demands.

Grand Jury's Quiz Set In Number Raid

A criminal charge against the Lisbon Salesbook Co. under the new Ohio anti - gambling laws will be one of four cases to be presented to the recalled Columbiana County Grand Jury Thursday at Lisbon.

A representative of the Ohio attorney general's office is expected to present evidence against the Lisbon firm which was raided Sept. 6 by state officials who found quantities of numbers slips books at the plant, said to be the third largest such printer in the nation.

Prosecutor G. William Brokaw said the panel will report sometime Thursday.

Other cases include Herbert McCullough of Pleasant Heights, Lisbon, charged with assault on Charlesetta Wilson, also of Pleasant Heights.

Clarence Jones, 28, of 8th Ave., LaCroft, charged with assault with intent to rape a 20-year-old woman who is a relative by marriage.

Howard Cusick, 17, of Lisbon R. D. 2, formerly of Cleveland, charged with larceny of a car in Cleveland and which he wrecked south of Lisbon on the Old Steubenville Rd. Aug. 21.

Cecil Harvey of East Palestine is foreman.

Voter Signup Push Planned

Election Board Set Extended Schedule

Three branch offices will be established and Election Board hours will be extended in an 11th-hour effort to sign unqualified East Liverpool voters for the Nov. 7 general election before the deadline Sept. 27.

Terminal Set To Resume

Wellsville Officials Halt Lime Plant To Stop Dust

The Mississippi Lime Co. terminal operation at Wellsville, closed Tuesday by Mayor William J. Shoub on the heels of numerous complaints of dust in the neighborhood, was to resume normal operations today after a clarification of plans and operations with Wellsville City Council Tuesday night.

Officials of the firm, with headquarters at Sainte Genevieve, Mo., appeared before Council, promising to halt the dust and outlining plans for erection of a new plant. They said they would work in close co-operation with the mayor to see that the dust nuisance remains abated.

During the summer, Council was swamped with complaints from residents in the vicinity of the terminal on the Ohio River at 16th St. Residents said the lime dust flying from the large shovel being used to unload it from barges was damaging their homes and creating a health hazard.

Council investigated and was told that a new system was to be installed. At the time, Council was informed the work would be done in 60 days. Later Council directed the mayor to close the operation, terming it a nuisance.

The action finally came yesterday. Mayor Shoub ordered operations halted until all phases of the problem were clarified. He allowed three trucks at the terminal to be loaded and move out and granted permission that two trucks en route from other cities be loaded also. But, no other work was to take place.

Court Fight Looms

Write-In Election Slated For Merged School Posts

A write-in election for five members of a Board of Education in the newly-merged Southern Local and Franklin Local school districts is slated Nov. 7, following appointment of an interim board Tuesday night by the Columbiana Board of Education.

However, a court action against the consolidation may be filed by Franklin Local residents, jeopardizing the status of the merger, the board was told at last night's meeting at Lisbon.

The board again appointed J. B. Fergason and Martin Adams of Salineville, John Ewing of Wayne, Jack Stewart of Yellow Creek and Jack Dangelo of Franklin Township to the board of the new district.

The five had been appointed at the August meeting, but it was subsequently learned they could not be named until the new district was officially merged — 30 days after the consolidation was authorized by the county.

The 30-day period, in which a remonstrance petition could be filed against the merger, ended Sept. 14, and the only petition submitted was one bearing 307 names of Franklin residents seeking a merger with Carroll County districts.

The county board was to have delayed until the October meeting appointment of the new school board, planning to ask Prosecutor William Brokaw about the validity and effect of the Franklin Local petition.

Atty. Donald Elliott, board member, said last night the prosecutor has been busy with the per 1,000 for the next 295,000 and 70 cents per 1,000 for any additional consumption.

The fourth alternate, providing a minimum of 3.17 cents per 100 cubic feet for the first 1,500 feet, also calls for a rate of 82½ cents per 1,000 for the next 298,500 and 70 cents per 1,000 for any additional service.

Sneddon said he made some quick computations that indicate his first alternate proposition would be the best from the standpoint both of the householder and the large consumer.

Based on 12 months' service, it would cost the householder $168.33 under the existing rates, he said. On the first proposition the company made in June, the charge for the same service would be $204, he said.

Under the first alternate, the charge for the same service would total $196.98. Under the second alternate, it would total $199.68. Under the third proposal, the charge would be $200.24. He had not computed the rate under the fourth alternate.

Under the company's proposal advanced in June, the minimum would have been set at $6.34 monthly, covering 2,000 cubic feet of gas. The charge for the next 298,000 would be 78 cents per 1,000.

Under the rate now in effect, the minimum charge is $2.65, covering the first 1,000 cubic feet. After that, the gas costs 77 cents per 1,000.

In proposing the alternative rates last night, Sneddon told Council he recognizes that the June proposal has been rejected. The utilities executive and Council have held a series of conferences over the rate request without making any progress.

All the rates proposed last night "are predicated on the amount we pay Manufacturers Light & Heat Co." for the gas it supplies Ohio Valley, Sneddon emphasized. He said the new proposals are based on a wholesale rate 3 cents per 1,000 cubic feet under the amount used to compute the original proposal.

Immediately after Sneddon finished his presentation, Councilman John Kelly remarked: "I can't go along with a 16 per cent increase."

Sneddon asserted his company operated at a loss last year. Council President Charles N. Edwards said he recognizes a public utility cannot be expected to operate at a loss, but he said he does not believe the public should be asked to pay a higher rate in 1961 to overcome a loss the company claims in 1960.

Counciman Norman Bucher said he has heard that extension of service to new suburban areas is one of the factors that has boosted Ohio Valley's operating costs. Sneddon pointed out that would have no direct effect on the local rate, because it covers only the city proper.

Councilman Robert Laughlin said he is anxious for Ohio Valley to reply to a proposal he made about a month ago under which consumers would get credit on their bills for months in which they paid for 1,000 cubic feet without actually using that much gas.

Under his proposal, a customer who used only 500 feet, for instance, during a summer month and was billed for 1,000 would get credit for the unconsumed 500 feet on his billings during cold weather.

Sneddon said the company has taken no action on the suggestion.

Emmerling also said that campaign divisions were holding organizational meetings during the next 10 days and quotas and working schedules were being set up for each of the 10 divisions.

He urged that all area residents who do volunteer work in or who benefit from the services of any of the six Community Fund agencies offer their services in the coming campaign. According to Emmerling, some 800 workers will be needed. Volunteers are asked to phone Community Fund headquarters at FUlton 5-2082 and enroll.

Attorney, Wellsville Man Held In Perjury

A Columbiana attorney pleaded innocent Tuesday at Lisbon to a charge of subornation of perjury, stemming from testimony of a Wellsville client who is charged with perjury in a recent divorce action.

Bond was set at $1,000 for Mike Provanzano, 38, of 1208 Commerce St., Wellsville, who is slated to file a plea at arraignment Monday.

Thieves Take Hubcaps From 2 Parked Autos

Vaughn Rose of Ephriam St. reported two hubcaps were stolen from his 1956 model auto while it was parked on Harvey Ave. between 10 p. m. Tuesday and 1:15 a. m. today.

Jerry Burke, 809 St. Clair Ave., told police Tuesday four hubcaps were taken from his auto while it was parked on Rigby St. Two outside mirrors also were broken off the car, he said.

Write-In

Grand Jury and had not had much time to study the petition, although he had advised the board verbally he doubted if anything but a remonstrance petition would have any effect upon the merger.

A remonstrance petition requires 35 per cent of the voters of both districts, whereas the petiton submitted had only about 10 per cent of such registration.

Atty. Elliott said he had checked upon the law relating to such petitions, and said he believes the only way the merger could be changed would be through a remonstrance petition.

The Franklin petition was too late, lacked sufficient signatures and the board would be justified in accepting it but was legally within its rights by not acting upon it, he said.

Fred Johnson of Summitville, who submitted the petition, said he thought the petition should be considered by the board, and an election held on the jointure with Carroll County. "The board should let the people decide where they want their district to go," he said.

He said legal action will be taken to halt the merger with Southern Local.

Gene Snyder of East School District in Carroll County discussed the new Carroll district which Franklin seeks to join. About 30 Franklin Local residents attended the meeting.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, Election Board clerk, said the board will order work started today on the printing of ballots for write - in election of a five-member board on the November ballot.

Three will be named to four-year terms and two will be elected for two-year terms. The ballot will be in two sections, with three blank spaces under the heading indicating the four-year term and two blank spots under the heading relating to two-year terms.

Election by the write-in method was necessary because the deadline for formal filing of candidates for the November election passed early in August.

On the same combination ballot will appear the names of candidates for the State Board of Education and the County Board of Education.

O'Hanlon said it has not been determined finally if the write-in board will take office as soon as the members are elected and qualified or whether they will wait until Jan. 1 to assume their duties.

He said it is most likely the interim board appointed by the County Board will serve through Dec. 31 and the write-in board will assume office the first of the new year.

Franklin PTA Sets Meeting On Merger

The Franklin Local Parent-Teacher Association will hold a public meeting Friday at 8 p.m. at the Summitville School for a discussion of the school merger.

Fred Johnson will be speaker. New officers, including Forrest Thompson, president, will be installed. The Franklin Jr. 4-H Club will furnish music under the direction of Edwin Copeland, advisor. Lunch will be served by the executive committee.

Guilty Plea Entered In Trial On Murder

He is accused of shooting his daughter Mrs. Louise Marie Dorsch, 42, in the back yard of the Dorsch home in New Galilee July 11.

Judge Robert E. McCreary will now fix the degree of the chage, whether first or second or voluntary manslaughter, and the sentence.

Come, Let Us Negotiate

This is the time, if ever, that the Soviet Union must prove it is willing to negotiate about difficult problems like Berlin.

"Negotiate" used to mean to confer regarding a basis of agreement. But that is not what it means to Communists when they negotiate.

That isn't what it will mean if they agree to negotiate about Berlin.

To a Communist negotiator, the trick is to grab everything that isn't nailed down, then negotiate for the rest. It is not a conference about a basis of agreement but a lull in the confiscation while the Kremlin decides what is going to be done about the things not already confiscated.

It is like a spider negotiating with a fly about which part of the fly should be eaten next.

It is like the burglar who already has taken the family silver negotiating with the owner of the house over the key to the vault where valuable papers are kept.

It is like a holdup victim being given a chance to negotiate over where he can keep his empty billfold after the robber has taken all the money.

COMMUNISTS always are willing to negotiate about things they want but never about things the other side wants. They will negotiate about West Berlin because they want West Berlin. But they will not negotiate about East Berlin because they already have East Berlin.

Sometimes, to get away from the idea of negotiation, diplomats say they are "exchanging views." This is presumably what Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko will be doing during the early days of the United Nations General Assembly — exchanging views.

This, too, is one thing for the Russians, something else for Americans. When a Russian exchanges a view, he tells what he expects the other party to turn over to him without delay, on pain of being rubbed off the face of the earth if he dares to get tough about it.

What the other party may try to say in a spirit of sweet reasonableness is the other part of the exchange. President Kennedy is supposed to have made this shattering discovery at Vienna last spring when he exchanged views with Nikita Khrushchev. It disenchanted him, his intimates say.

THE YOUNG President came home with an impression that the head Russian Communist had told him the dire things that would happen if the United States didn't knuckle under and that this constituted an "exchange of views."

Yet if these things are mentioned aloud, there is a plaintive complaint by Russian "negotiators" and "view exchangers" that they are being pushed around by capitalist warmongers and so-and-so imperialists.

What would happen if sometimes instead of pleading for one more go at it, the United States would turn stone deaf when negotiations and views were mentioned and inquire, "What negotiations? What views?"

A Mousetrapped Bear

The experts agree. The poor United Nations was in trouble over Russian resistance, and the tragic death of Dag Hammarskjold could be its death blow.

Only Hammarskjold as secretary-general was holding the United Nations together. With him out of the way, the Kremlin can do anything it wants to do and probably will want to scuttle the United Nations.

Beware of experts when they agree. Or rather, beware of the proposition on which they agree, because it must have been too obvious.

The United Nations was meeting Russian resistance to Hammarskjold; that is beyond dispute. It needed a good outcome of its frustrating efforts to pacify the Congo to strengthen the hand of its secretary-general at the outset of another session of the General Assembly.

THE UNITED NATIONS was under severe criticism for letting Hammarskjold involve it in what looked like civil war in the Congo. Mr. Hammarskjold himself was under relentless pressure by the Soviet Union because of his unpopular and so far unsuccessful Congo policy.

He was the prime target for opposition from many points besides the Kremlin.

But for the Kremlin he was a personal target. The quarrel was with him as an individual, not with the United Nations.

It had turned into a showdown between Dag Hammarskjold and the mighty Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

And what happened?

Dag Hammarskjold suddenly wasn't there. He had lost his life in an airplane crash. The Soviet Union, which had been meeting fierce resistance, was without any opponent in front of it.

In football this is called a "mousetrap."

A player overcommits himself to do one specific thing, then suddenly finds himself without opposition to the thing he was trying to do. By the time he recovers, the play has developed in another direction and he is out of it.

The Kremlin had been trying to destroy Dag Hammarskjold. He was the personal target for its savage retribution because he had kept it from dominating the Congo.

But now Dag Hammarskjold is gone. The target isn't there. The Soviet Union must pull itself together and find a new antagonist. True, the United Nations will miss Hammarskjold almost as much as it would miss the United States money that holds it together. But mostly the Soviet Union will miss Hammarskjold, its whipping boy.

It has been mousetrapped by fate. Too bad the Russkies don't play football so they'd know what gives them that all-gone feeling.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

President Kennedy: Greetings and you are welcome even if I don't get you.

Sukarno: Thanks, but I am a little disappointed that there are not more photographers here.

President: Did Tito send any message?

Surkarno: He just said it was too bad Khrushchev resumed bomb tests but not bad enough to get disturbed.

Q: How about Nehru?

A: He is so upset he could almost say so.

Q: Just what do the uncommitted nations want me to do?

A: We think you should negotiate.

Q: How can I negotiate with a negotiator who never admits he could be wrong about anything and makes atomic bomb tests between peace talks?

A: That's your problem. Remember we are uncommitted.

Q: Haven't you heard louder protests against a man for violating a non-parking sign than Belgrade expressed against Khrushchev breaking a pledge not to resume atomic tests?

A: Yes, but who's afraid of a parking law violator?

Q: Suppose a neighbor who has promised to stop heaving torches through your windows begins throwing the house, garage and hayloft. Do you negotiate with him over the issue of who is the arsonist?

A: Let us not get too technical.

Q: Do you neutralists not admit there is a right and wrong side to every question?

A: But there is also a safe side and a danger side.

Q: Don't you think neutrals should take a firm attitude for something besides softer upholstery on rail-fences?

A: Well, those rail-fences are rough if you straddle them for long periods. We neutrals are so stalwart as the safety rules permit.

Q: How can you explain such an attitude?

A: I can explain anything if my smile holds out. There must be a summit peace conference.

Q: Even if it promotes war?

A: We must all keep trying. Where there is life there is hope.

Q: Whose life?

Q: Have you ever heard of America at any time in history threatening to bury any nation, desolate the earth by fire and perhaps wipe out civilization?

A: No, but I must abstain from saying any more about it.

Q: Do you bring me any message favorable to the free world?

A: Yes. Always remember we neutrals are with you to your last drop of blood!

HOME AT 83 BEALE ST., Brookline, where President Kennedy was born, is being painted for preservation as a tourist attraction. Plaque might read "This is dwelling where parents expressed hope John F. Kennedy would become President, not realizing the terrible burdens."

"The whole thing is affecting me and also my family," complains Jack Paar of disapproval of his Berlin border TV show. Yeah, but a trigger happy service man on either side might have brought on something affecting millions of families for keeps.

Swiss have changed national anthem from "Hail to Thee, Switzerland." Maybe new one is easier to yodel.

New York is decorating civilians who come to assistance of cops attacked by hoodlums, punks and popoffs. It's a great idea. There was time when civilians made swift rush to side of anybody attacked in streets. It seemed an American instinct, and few were too timid to display it. Today the general tendency of a bystander or passerby in case of vicious beating of even an old man or kid is to play it safe. The fellow who wades in with a helping hand is a standout.

THE WORD "AIN'T" has been admitted to new dictionary. This offends us as a purist. We think it degrades good English and "don't do nobody no good. We was always told 'ain't' was not of no benefit in speaking or writing, irrespective of what some people done.

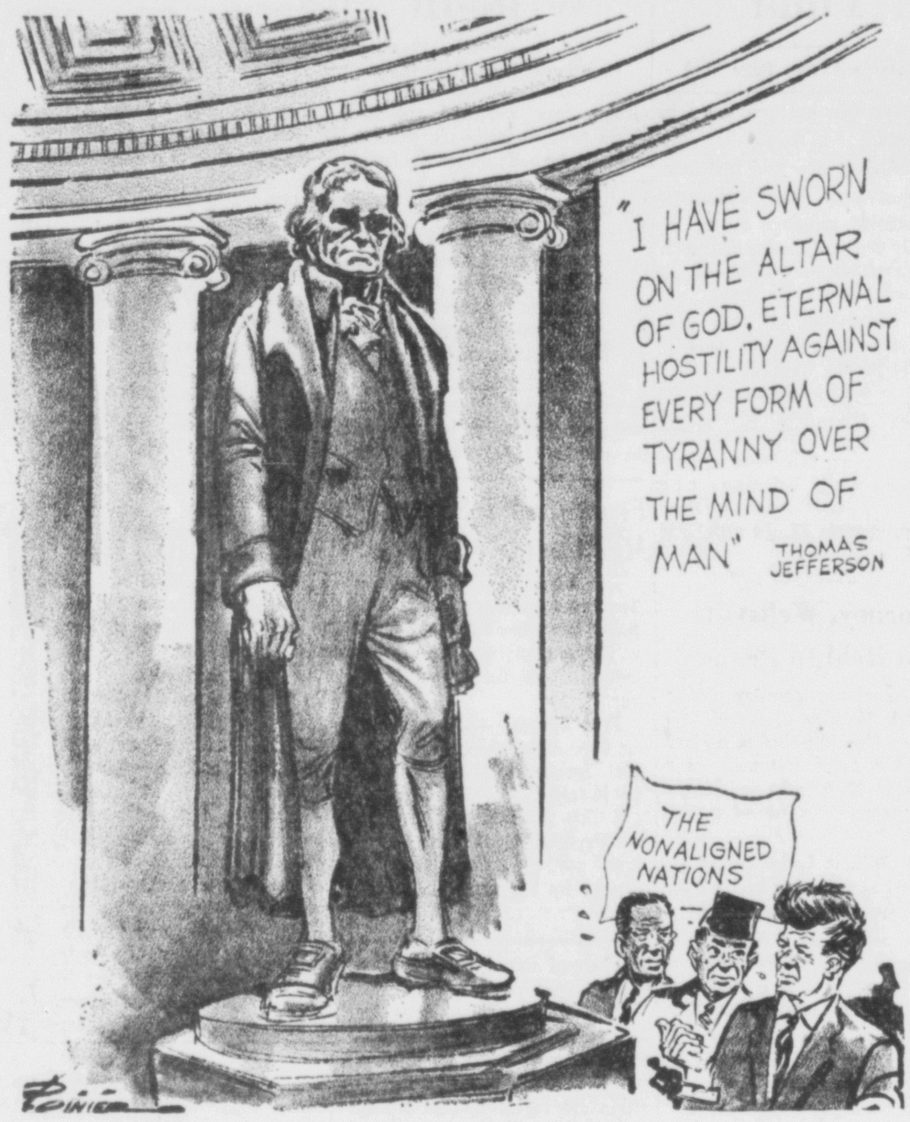

"Keep English pure. Too many people has took every means to give class to decent language and it ain't right to give them no rough deal."

THE NEUTRAL VIEW

We're uncommitted nations,
We sound the neutral call
Against the side that's working
To save us one and all
When life or death's the issue
And master bombs the key
To all the earth's survival
How NEUTRAL WE CAN BE! ! !

Postage stamps for the mailing of letters were used by three other nations before the United States began licking them — by Great Britain, Brazil and Switzerland.

Can Anyone Afford To Be Neutral About Freedom?

By Victor Riesel

On the London Docks, some weeks ago, I first heard from British intelligence men, that N. S. Khrushchev plans to stagger the outside world with a series of hit and run mass strikes, riots and factory and transportation sabotage some time in October.

Victor Riesel

I appeared to have the Limehouse blues as we walked along the wharves and streets where once 30,000 Orientals had supplied the grim grist for a hundred novels.

Now there were some 200 Chinese left. Few of their restaurants remained. Even the famed old police station was new—all the old quarters having been wiped out by Nazi bombs.

My companion grinned. No, there were no longer any opium dens. But if it was intrigue I sought, there was a little building farther up the East End. It was a tiny cog in the Russians' global sabotage machine.

I was startled. For understatement to my friend is what sliced orange is to the duck du jour at Maxims, Paris.

WE WALKED to the building. There, I was told, is where John Williamson operates quietly as a lowly placed dockhand on the vital London waterfront.

John Williamson, of course, once was labor secretary of the Communist party, U.S.A. We deported him to his native England. The international Soviet apparat then assigned him to creating Communist cells on the London wharves.

These Communist operatives and "sleepers" have been waiting a long time—in the "vehicle producing industries," the electrical and electronic fields, radar, mining, and shipping. Scores of them are strategically placed shop stewards.

They began infiltrating as early as May 1951. At that time the Soviets' World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU) called their key people together from throughout the Western world.

They were then briefed on disrupting the defense and the export industries of the NATO countries. From that session the trained organizers fanned out over Europe—and even back into the United States.

TEN YEARS is a long time. But it is the nature of the Soviet strategists directing these political and industrial guerrillas to think ahead a bit.

Now apparently N. S. Khrushchev is about to swing that industrial sabotage network into mass action, across our free world.

In Germany last month, I learned that the high command of the WFTU was meeeting in East Berlin. I put in some calls, which had to go from West Berlin to Frankfurt in free Germany, across to Keipzig, then up to East Berlin, just half a mile from my hotel.

The executive committee of the WFTU was meeting all right. There were general secretary, Louis Saillant, Viktor Grishin, Chairman of the Soviet All-Union Central Council of Trade Unions, Benoit Franchon, head of the French C.G.T.; Herbert Warnke, of the East German "unions"; Lombardo Toledano, of Mexico City, head of the Confederation of Latin American Workers; Liu Chang-sheng, vice president of the All-China Trade Union Federation, and Odon Alvarez de la Campa, speaking for the Cuba labor federation.

THEY WERE TOLD to return home and spread word the time had come for mass action. The Russians talked to the others for two days. Then they decided to run "an international trade union conference in East Berlin between Sept. 22 and 24."

When word went out, the message included the words, ". . .This will serve the international trade union movement as a beginning for a new, more extensive mass struggle to safeguard peace."

What the Soviet global labor politburo was saying, in effect, was: Come to Berlin for the final briefing and for a call for mass strikes and demonstrations in the streets of the non-Communist countries.

There is before me now a 16-page, 128-point call for action, passed on to all pro-Communist labor chiefs. Point 36 says: "In their struggle to safeguard peace, the workers are successfully developing their action and are using all forms of mass action in close liaison with other sections of the people."

The document is filled with directives to end production of weapons and their transportation. If my friends on the London docks are correct, we'll soon see unofficial strikes, transport sabotage and wild political demonostrations across the lands of the free.

My friends' prediction is that this will coincide with Khrushchev's final push on the Berlin holocaust.

Russians—The Spoilers

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Guerrilla wars used to be fought by toughs in jungles while diplomacy was the province of well-dressed and solemn gentlemen who discoursed on a high level and issued opaque communiques.

Then the Russians, as usual, had to come along and spoil things. Now Premier Khrushchev is using guerrilla tactics for diplomacy and diplomacy for guerrilla tactics.

It's simple, too. Guerrillas hit and run, do some damage, bewilder the opposition which does not know what to expect next, disappear for a while, and strike again somewhere else.

At times this seemed too simple for Western statesmen, who for years have acted like villagers huddled in a rain forest, wondering what next but too used to their old ways to try new ways of their own to strike back.

Khrushchev would belt them with an unadorned blackjack and then, just to confuse them, belt them with a blackjack dressed in Christmas wrappings. One minute he'd be the bad guy talking war, the next the good boy yearning for peace.

Stalin used guerrilla tactics, too. Khrushchev has gone beyond him and added a public relations touch that makes Madison Avenue look as old-fashioned as a pitchman at a circus.

For instance: in the midst of all his rumpus about Berlin—perhaps because of it—in the past few months he has given three distinguished and widely read American newspapermen lengthy, separate interviews.

They reported what he said in great detail, and much length. So he reached millions of Americans repeatedly with his views on a host of issues.

It seems that almost daily—this is an exaggeration, but not much—he has something to say on war, peace, disarmament, or nuclear testing.

All of this not only gets duly reported over the air and in the press of America but in Western Europe and around the world. In short, he has made top news with whatever tactic he wanted to use for months.

By contrast the Western leaders have seemed hush-mouthed. President Kennedy, for instance, could but didn't make broad use of TV to talk to the people. He falls far short of making maximum use of other news media either to answer Khrushchev or turn the tables on him by putting him on the defensive.

What Khrushchev has been doing apparently finally sank in on the Kennedy administration. Last week the White House revealed Kennedy has set up a group of advisers on psychological and political warfare. It has met eight times.

Tragedy In The Congo

By David Lawrence

Hammarskjold Seen Mistaking U. N. Aims

The tragedy of Dag Hammarskjold's death is not just the loss of a man dedicated to the cause of world peace but the failure of the United Nations to confine itself to its true function instead of meddling in the internal affairs of countries aspiring in their own evolutionary way to achieve independence.

David Lawrence

The secretary general, who was killed in an airplane crash, conceived it to be his duty to impose peace in the Congo. He would not have sought to do the same inside the two Germanies or inside Hungary but he saw the United Nations as a kind of superstate and felt that, when the U.N. passed a resolution and sent him to a troubled area, this would be enough to cause the warring factions to lay down their arms.

Noble as was his purpose, the fact remains that the right of a people to rebel against their own rulers and to determine their own destiny has long been imbedded in international law as a basic principle.

THE LONDON TIMES a few days ago put its finger on the root of the difficulty in the Congo.

First it quoted from the resolution of July 14, 1960, when the United Nations authorized the secretary general to consult with the government in the Congo and provide it "with such military assistance as may be necessary until . . .the national security forces may be able, in the opinion of the government, to meet fully their tasks." Then the Times says:

"Katanga bears most of the marks of a state as understood in international law . . . By traditional standards Katanga seemed a viable state when the rest of the Congo was a vacuum, and a legitimate successor state to Belgian sovereignty has not emerged. . . .

"But if there is danger of an attack by the Leopoldville government of Katanga, it seems odd to attack Katanga to prevent civil war. The argument is, presumably, that for the legal government to march against a dissident province is not civil war, but for the province to resist is . . .

"The United Nations action in Katanga looks more like the enforcement of a settlement of Congolese political differences than a simple averting of strife."

So it is apparent that the late secretary general interpreted in his own way the meaning of the resolution passed by the U.N. Security Council. His purpose was to bring peace by personal negotiation but he ran up against the bitter opposition of those inside the Congo who simply would not lay down before the Communists.

THE CONGOLESE government is today suspect. Sen. Dodd, D-Conn., in an impressive speech in the Senate last Saturday pointed to the Communist leaders inside the Congo cabinet and warned against the so-called coalition government which the Communists sooner or later are expected to take over.

He gave name after name of Communists who are cabinet ministers in the Congo government today.

Small wonder that in Katanga Province, where the last stand of the anti - Communists is being made in the Congo, they have felt hostile to Secretary General Hammarskjold and the U.N. troops.

Since many millions of dollars of valuable property are involved —the mines in the Congo are fabulously rich — there was bound to be a countermove in which, as reported from Katanga, many "white mercenaries" participated.

Doubtless these are some former Belgain officers who were acquainted intimately with the Congo and who are risking their lives to back President Tshombe of Katanga.

The United Nations didn't concern itself with the theft of property from owners who had developed the mines with borrowed capital. The U.N. seems to be swayed by the emotional outbursts about "colonialism" which unhappily takes no account of the lack of training of half-civilized peoples to set up a government that will protect individual rights.

IT NOW LOOKS as if the U.N. will have to take a second look at recent events.

Is it to be a superstate? If so, the Communists are prepared to take control of the whole U.N. organization. They've for the last few years infiltrated Africa and have managed to corral a lot of the votes of the African states recently admitted to the U.N. which call themselves "non-aligned."

It is a sad period for the Western governments which not only believe in but practice democracy, and this means they respect property rights as well as human rights.

The Congo mess is the result of a failure to adhere to basic principles — to insist that self-government shall not be granted to colonies that are unable to govern themselves, and to make sure that when colonialism is abolished there is a real regard for property as well as human rights.

The Congo isn't ready as yet for selfgovernment, but inasmuch as the Belgian government has withdrawn of its own accord, it is up to the Congolese to fight their own battles.

If the U.N. has any function there, it is to keep meddling foreigners out — including the Communists.

The Mourners

By Truman Twill

Hard-heads will waste no time mourning Dag Hammarskjold. They won't let his death or the deaths of the dedicated people who died with him in a plane crash in Africa slow up their hate rate.

The crying will be done by us soft-heads. It always is.

We're the only ones who want people like Dag Hammarskjold to succeed. Hard-heads are too cagey and crusty to be fooled by anything as silly as a man who works as hard to keep the peace as they work to break it.

The odds against such a fellow are fantastic. Simply fantastic. And they should be fantastic, according to the hard-heads, because everybody knows that in this world the peacemaker is a patsy. He never wins.

This is because he doesn't know the score, the hard-heads explain. He hasn't tumbled to the way the world is; he is a dreamer, an idealist, a daisy-picker in a sock-eroo society.

The best he can hope for is that realists who know how things are and intend to keep 'em that way if it kills everybody on earth will be polite to him, the way they are polite to blind people. He cannot hope to convert the realists.

Dag Hammarskjold must have known as much as anybody in his era about how things are and how the realists intend to keep them. It was his business to find out. In his own way, he was more of a realist than the self-proclaimed realists.

He had grasped all there was of reality—the soft-headed part as well as the hard-headed part. Those who had watched him work and knew his thoughts considered him to be the precursor of the ultimate "man of the world," who will have risen above all hate, prejudice, fear and narrow nationalism.

They thought of him as the real realist and of the self-styled realists as fools hastening their own destruction with dirty schemes for destroying others. Perhaps they overdid their appreciation of Dag Hammarskjold, but it's a fact he had reached that most-high level of poise that made it possible for him to forgive his enemies. The little man had stature.

His enemies were numerous. They ranged from the savagery of Kremlinites who wanted his blood for thwarting them in the Congo to character assassins in the American hinterlands who smeared him with these grisly misgivings of disloyalty that ooze from them whenever anyone suggests there may be a better way than bloodshed for coming to grips with the squirming dilemma of the moment.

What could be more soft-headed than to believe men's common interests in survival is stronger than their separate interests in killing and destroying one another? How soft can a head get?

Yet, by working at this idea Dag Hammarskjold attained such stature among soft-heads that his destruction had become imperative for the hardest of all hard-heads—the Kremlinites.

They aimed to destroy him as an impediment to their designs, though it is not suggested they thought of destroying him physically or had any connection with the incident that cost him and his companions their lives.

They were concerned with destroying his status as the chief soft-head among all people with a bellyfull of the hate rate that hard-heads insist is realism. It was their aim to destroy him politically.

Mail

morning dispatch must be in the post office by 8:30 a. m.

No other mail will leave East Liverpool until 6 p. m. when one truck again will replace the five previous routes, going directly to Steubenville. It will carry the bulk of the day's accumulation. Mail must be in the office by 5 p. m. to insure processing and dispatching.

Brown urged industries, business places and residents to cooperate by mailing often and early so that all mail can be handled in the speediest manner.

A final cleanup of daily mail on Mondays through Saturdays will leave East Liverpool at 8:45 p. m. It will take the place of the Cleveland "hot-shot" express which stops here nightly at 9:45 p. m. en route to Pittsburgh.

In order to process the mail for the 8:45 truck to Steubenville, it must be in the office by 8 p. m., Brown said.

WITH THE change in dispatch times, the lobby doors of the main post office will be locked at 9 p. m. daily instead of at 10 p. m. as at present.

All Sunday and holiday mail will arrive in East Liverpool by 11:30 a. m. and will leave here at 5 p. m. Mail to be dispatched on Sundays and holidays must be in the post office by 4:15 p. m.

Effective also on Oct. 1, the lobby doors at the main post office will be closed at 5 p. m. rather than at 6.

Interchange of mail among the 20 sectional centers will be made at night by trains, trailers, fast trucks, highway post offices and passenger buses.

Regional officials explained, for example, that mail which leaves Toledo at 9:05 p. m. or Cleveland at 11:55 p. m. will arrive in East Liverpool on the 6 a. m. truck the following morning.

Commenting on the setup, Brown said, "Our dispatchers will have lots of work because of our location. Since we are located on the border of other states, they also will be responsible for breaking down the Pennsylvania metropolitan mail, which is in the Philadelphia region. Most other towns in the state will not have this problem."

Some "bugs" remain to be worked out of the system, Brown continued. "I've been asked how a letter will go that is addressed to Chester, Newell or Midland. At present, all I know is it will go to Steubenville and even regional officials are not certain after that."

THE POSTMASTER said he has suggested the East Liverpool office send a truck to deliver and pick up mail at the Chester and Newell offices, and regional officials are considering the idea.

Experience shows a great amount of the mail is for an area within 150 miles of the office. "Next day delivery is our goal and if the public cooperates by mailing early to take away the strain from the 3:30 to 5:50 p. m. rush, we can reach it," the postmaster said.

Regional officials also assured Brown that changes will be made as necessary in any schedules.

Because of the city's location and size of the post office, East Liverpool could become a sectional center, Brown said, but the chief deterrent is lack of space in existing buildings.

A new office, often mentioned but never constructed, would speed the system immeasurably and provide better service, he pointed out.

Although the Election Board has issued a series of reminders on the registration deadline in the last few weeks, response has been "apathetic," O'Hanlon said. The total number of qualified voters stands today at an estimated 10,483, about 2,000 short of the potential.

Revised Gas Rate Studied

have the increases presented on a percentage basis.

Mrs. Margaret Baldwin, clerk, read a letter from the Federal Power Commission at Washington in reply to a protest on the proposed gas increase. The letter said the FPC does not govern retail sales but only wholesale prices. It said this comes under the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. Reference was made to a previous protest filed by the city on a gas rate increase. Some of the councilmen felt the FPC spokesman was confused over protests filed when Ohio Valley received an increase over a year ago.

In other business, the question of a new Post Office was raised again. By a 4-3 vote, Council agreed to request that an architect meet in a caucus to discuss the proper procedures and possible costs for obtaining plans for construction of a combination Post Office and city building.

Council was informed by postal authorities that this could be done. Under consideration is a proposal to raze the present City Hall and construct the multiple building. Council was told it must take the first step if it desires such a plan. If such a building is constructed, rent from the Post Office section would be used to help pay off the bonds.

Favoring the move to obtain an opinion from an architect were Councilmen Aguin Bowling, Paul Nelson, George Mackall and William Stroble. Opposing the move were Councilmen Robert Taggart, Clarence Cartwright and Donald Miller.

A bid of $100 was received from Eugene Chevront of New Cumberland R. D. 1 for plowing ground along Main St. between 12th and 18th Sts. preparatory to planting multiflora roses as a beautification program. One other bid of $140 has been received.

After a long discussion of finances, Council voted to receive bids for another week and then award a contract if the money is available.

Pete Amato spoke from the audience and suggested the area be opened for parking.

Cartwright suggested the city purchase portable scales for weighing trucks to catch overload violators. Mayor William J. Shoub said it could be done but urged Council to keep in mind that more police would be needed to operate the scales. Safety-Service Director William S. Robinson said stationary scales would cost approximately $5,000. He said portable scales break down and the upkeep is high.

Council ordered legislation authorizing Robinson to advertise for bids for a 1962 police cruiser, with and without a trade-in of an old city vehicle.

Nelson, refuse chairman, reported the five requirements set by the Columbiana County Board of Health have been met at the city dump off Route 39. The city now has a full-time caretaker at the site to prevent fires.

Nelson said he had received numerous complaints of the rough handling of garbage cans by city trash collectors. Robinson said he has already talked to the men about the problem. He said it is sometimes necessary to beat the cans to dislodge garbage when packed in.

Council authorized Robinson to hire a bulldozer, if funds are available, to open a street in Arcadia Addition so Sam Malone can proceed with construction of a new home.

Bertram Wakefield of the Ohio Power Co. informed Council by letter that new street lights had been installed in one section of Arcadia Addition. A new light also will be installed on lower Riverside Ave.

County Auditor Kenneth Bell said in a letter that the tax valuation of property in the addition is $33,740. Stroble said the section has been part of Wellsville since 1926 and the installation of lights is the first service residents there have received.

Taggart, water and sewage chairman, reported on negotiations with a resident of Highland Ave. for parking equipment on the property to reach the standpipe on the hillside which is to be repaired. Robinson and the water committee will continue negotiations. The owner wants $50 a day for parking trucks and other equipment.

Stroble said the street and light committee and Police Chief John Hephner investigated further a complaint of a traffic and parking problem on Broadway near 4th St. The committee recommended no changes be made.

Stroble also reported he had met with the county commissioners at Lisbon on proposed work on Wells Hollow Rd. A section is in the city limits. The commissioners will have an engineer check the road, he said.

He added the commissioners said they would aid in a program to blacktop lower Clark Ave. if and when the city undertakes the project.

Stroble also reported on other street work completed or planned.

Miller, finance chairman, said that in over 9 months, the city has collected $9,400 from the parking meters, not counting the amount received from fines. Mrs. Rahter pointed out the deadline is nearing an end on the year's "trial" of meters.

Solicitor William Bush reported legislation is not needed to authorize Robinson to sell an old city truck which is not being used because its value is less than $1,000. Legislation had been ordered.

The Rev. Arden Beck gave the opening prayer.

The officials then came to Wellsville for conferences with the mayor and were told to also check with Council.

The firm has leased a site from the Georgetti River-Rail Terminal. Appearing before Council last night were R. W. Caputo, head engineer; Atty. V. L. McMahon, legal counsel; E. H. Crum, sales manager, and Brian Graves, terminal supervisor and salesman.

McMahon explained that the lime is brought to Wellsville by river barge and then transferred to trucks for delivery to customers in Ohio. He said that several years ago the firm shipped all lime by rail, but the increased rates cut down its market.

This operation is an attempt to serve the old customers, he said.

The principal problem was the fact that a supervisor was not on duty full-time, he said. It was agreed that Graves will remain at the terminal constantly to see that the crane operator handles the lime properly.

McMahon said he feels the lime terminal will attract other industries to the area. This is the first venture of this type for the firm, he explained.

He then explained that many delays came about because of changes in plans for the new installation and in obtaining a contractor.

Caputo displayed drawings showing the terminal will consist of four large hoppers. The lime will be unloaded from the barges by a clamshovel, which will place it on an enclosed conveyor belt, which in turn takes it to the hoppers.

McMahon said the firm was not aware the city had been told the operation was to be completed in 60 days. Caputo said it would take about six months to complete construction.

They also said they would attempt to have Wellsville derive the benefit of fees from the license plates for trucks operating from the terminal.

County Judge Quits Post At Richmond

STEUBENVILLE — Jefferson County Court Judge C. B. McCann of Richmond has submitted his resignation to Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, citing pressure of other business.

An attorney and paint store owner, Judge McCann served a one - year interim term on the Richmond district court before being elected to a four-year term in 1958.

His resignation is effective Oct. 1. The term would have expired Dec. 31, 1962.

This past summer Judge McCann faced a drunk and disorderly conduct charge filed by the Wintersville State Highway Patrol. He pleaded no contest and paid a $10 fine.

Galli-Migliore Ceremony Held In Church At Midland

The Midland Presentation Catholic Church was the scene of the wedding ceremony at 11 o'clock the morning of Sept. 9 at which Miss Elizabeth (Dolly) Migliore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Migliore of Penn Ave., Midland, became the bride of Norman Galli, son of Mrs. Angelina Galli of Beaver Falls and the late Paul Galli.

Fr. John Corbett officiated for the double - ring rites performed before an altar decorated with green ferns and cibotium. White satin bows marked the family pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and appeared in a white floor - length gown of silk designed especially for her by Mrs. James Barbarine, a cousin. The pearl - edged neckline provided a fashionable overtone for the sweep of the chapel train. The gown also featured simulated pearls on the Alencon lace. A blossom - type wreath held her pouf veil of silk blush illusion in place, and was designed to match her gown.

She carried a prayer book showered with rosebuds, stephanotis and ivy streamers. Her only jewelry was a cultured pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom. The bride observed the familiar traditions and for something old she carried a missal belonging to Miss Dorothy Shevenaugh; something new, a handkerchief from Debbie Migliore, a cousin; something borrowed, a satin missal cover from Mrs. Ray Colaber, a sister, and something blue, a garter, a gift from Mrs. James Brenzo. Miss Stella Paich gave the bride a foreign coin to wear in her shoe.

Miss Joann Martinetti, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and was attired in an emerald green ballerina - length taffeta gown styled with a high neckline, V-back and a bouffant skirt. Her headdress was a Jackie Kennedy style hat of green velveteen with flowers. She carried a harvest-time ring of brown chrysanthemums and yellow pompoms with croton leaves.

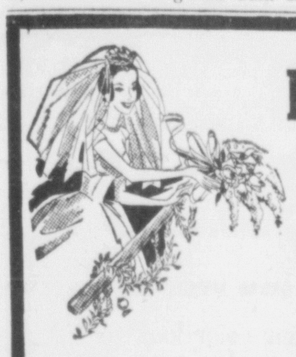

The bride's mother wore an aquamarine sleeveless dress of chiffon with black accessories and a corsage of baby orchids. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a beige dress with green accessories and wore a corsage of gardenias.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained members of the immediate families at a dinner in the St. Anthony Club home.

The bride was graduated from Midland High School and has been a receptionist for Dr. F. J. Benedict, a Midland dentist. Her husband is a graduate of Beaver Falls High School and is employed at the Babcock & Wilcox Tube Co. in Beaver Falls.

Council Tuesday night approved an amended appropriation ordinance providing for $16,611 in fund transfers — essentially a bookkeeping transaction to square accounts for the last three months of the year.

No "new" money is involved in the sense of newly-acquired income. The ordinance provides for shift of money from one department to another or from one fund to another within departments.

Such formal action by Council is necessary before money appropriated for one purpose at the beginning of the year can be spent for any other function.

The biggest item involved in last night's ordinance is a $10,000 transfer from the sewer revenue fund to the street maintenance and repair fund. The transfer is to reimburse the street department for payroll expenses when its employes were assigned to cleaning sanitary sewers — the responsibility of the sewer department.

Since the sewer department does not have a line - cleaning crew, the street department performs the work, subject to reimbursement.

The ordinance was approved, 6-1, with Councilman Robert Laughlin dissenting. He said he objected to transferring $460 from a "police cruiser fund" to the general fund to be reappropriated. In response to a question, Councilman John Melvin, finance committee chairman, said the $460 represents the balance left over after the department's most recent cruiser purchase. As acquisition of the cruiser did not require the full amount appropriated, it was available for other use, he explained.

Total appropriations for the general fund are $1,883. It provides sums ranging from $35 for dog warden's incidental expenses to $711 for purchase of stationery and supplies for Municipal Court.

The water department was allocated $3,288, including $1,000 for filtration plant operations and $2,000 for supplies in the distribution department.

The appropriation also provides an additional $217 for purchase of a resuscitator for the fire department, supplementing a previous allocation of $400.

Three other pieces of routine legislation were approved unanimously.

An ordinance was enacted accepting the plat of a 10-foot-wide strip of ground for use as a right-of-way in installing a new sanitary sewer to serve sections of N. Surrey Rd. and S. Surrey Rd., Fisher Park.

Using the easement allowed by property - owners will allow the city to install part of the line at a more shallow depth than would have been possible if it had been laid in the street, thereby reducing the overall cost of the project.

The new line will flow into the Pleasant Heights trunk line, which feeds into the Carpenters Run trunk line in California Hollow.

Council approved a resolution authorizing the city to affiliate itself with a countywide Civil Defense organization. Councilman Donald Hancock pointed out the action will not mean additional expense to the city, as it already operates a local CD agency.

Another resolution was approved authorizing Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff to become a member of the National Association of Municipal Judges. The $25 membership fee will be paid out of court funds, the legislation provides.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Reading To Child Helps Him Learn

Blessed is the child, on entering school, who has been read to at home from the time he was two or three. More blessed is he still if his parents keep on, indefinitely, reading to him while he is in school; if also they read later to each other; if, indeed, he takes turns often reading aloud in the family's midst. If you had been reading to your child for several years before he entered the first grade, you may now be reading to him from factual and fictional materials of third, fourth, or fifth grade level. True, his primer and first reader may seem pretty babyish to him then; yet this fact need not necessarily hamper his interest in learning to read. With so much enjoyment from listening to stories read from books, he has a powerful urge to learn to read them himself.

AS YOU KEEP reading to the school child, see how his vocabularly grows and how he improves in ease of verbal expression. Also, consider how much more he has to think about and talk about.

A new reason arises for reading to and with a child when, in the middle and higher elementary grades, even in junior high, he must read from textbooks to get ideas and knowledge, as in history, elementary science or the social sciences.

Often the textbook may be hard for him to read. See how you can help him by reading it with him, helping him turn each paragraph into a few words of his own.

LET US REMEMBER that the child who lags or fails in such subjects is really failing in reading. The longer he is in school the more trouble he will have, unless he is helped as he studies from textbooks of content subjects or unless he has effective help at learning to read better from any printed page.

If your child is in the fourth, sixth, or twelfth grade finds his textbooks hard to read, not only should you read with him, but also you should win his willingness to read for 10 or 20 minutes a day from interesting materials with a vocabularly two, three, four or more grades below where he is.

Unless you can succeed in this direction yourself, you should try to find a skillful teacher or a reading clinic to help him.

My bulletins, "Home Helps for Poor Readers I and II," may be had by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Kiwanis Told Shelter Cost

Chester residents can build atomic fallout shelters in the basements of their homes for $150 to $200, Police Chief Harold Davis, Chester Civil Defense director, told members of the Kiwanis Club Tuesday night.

Chief Davis, who screened a film, "Your Civil Defense," said shelters should be stocked with enough food for two weeks, along with a battery-operated radio and a first aid kit.

He pointed out President John Kennedy has advocated public construction of fallout shelters to provide protection in event of atomic war.

He discussed the national Civil Defense plans, home protection exercises and said a pamphlet describing construction of a shelter is available from CD officials.

Chief Davis was introduced by Robert Smith.

New Lighting Pact Cleared

Council cleared the way Tuesday night for the administration to sign a new 10-year street lighting contract with the Ohio Power Co., effective Dec. 1.

A resolution was enacted unanimously authorizing Safety-Service Director Robert Owen to sign the agreement, based on specifications worked out by Council and the utility in a series of conferences in July and August.

The contract will provide for increasing 271 lights from 100 to 250-candlepower and permit installation of 12 of the 250-candlepower units to replace eight of the 600-candlepower lights removed from the W. 8th St. area because of the freeway construction.

Under the terms of the new agreement, the cost to the city will be $2,960 a month, an increase of $157 over the $2,803 it pays now. The entire increase will be for upgrading.

Although Ohio Power is the only possible bidder, state law requires the city to advertise for bids just as in the case of any contract involving expenditure of $1,000 or more. The contract will run to Nov. 30, 1971, the legislation provides.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband talks in his sleep regularly. He started this about three years ago when he changed jobs. He speaks distinctly and I can understand every word he says.

Usually he is talking to the girls in his office, calling them by name and asking them to bring out certain files. Sometimes he dictates complete letters.

Some mornings he wakes up tired and I say it's no wonder — he has done a day's work between midnight and 7 a.m.

Do sleep talkers get a good night's rest? Sometimes I worry about him. Thanks for any information you can give me. EMILY.

Dear Emily: It sounds as if your husband is getting more rest than you are. Sleep talkers get as good a night's rest as the silent ones, so don't worry about him.

Be grateful that he speaks distinctly. Some women who write tell me that their husbands mumble — and it drives them crazy.

The Triangle Again

Dear Ann: I'm a mature woman, 26, and it's humiliating to have to write away for help.

For a year a certain Mr. X and I have been keeping steady company. He's attractive, a solid citizen and I thought reasonably sensible.

Three weeks ago he asked if he could bring an old school buddy along on a dinner date. I said, "Fine." The buddy turned out to be an attractive redhead who moved here from Cincinnati and "doesn't know anyone."

He has brought her along on every date since and I'm ready to crack up. She doesn't play up to him, just keeps thanking me for being sweet about her tagging along. I'm so annoyed that one word from you and I'd drop him.

But wouldn't that be playing into her hands? Should I keep my mouth shut and outsmart her? — SIXPENCE.

Dear Six: Your friend is having a whale of a good time at your expense. Tell him his behavior indicates a need for more company than you can provide and that he'd better find another hypotenuse for the triangle.

Ungrateful Tennants

Dear Ann: I am heartsick. Some people we've known for years were down on their luck. My husband and I rented them a house to live in because they lost their own lovely home.

We are in the real estate business and offered them a house until they got on their feet. We didn't want to insult them by giving it to them rent-free, so we asked for just enough to cover the taxes.

They seemed grateful and paid the rent for two months. For the next four months no payments came in. Last week we dropped by to see them and were shocked to find that they had moved out. Further checking revealed that they had skipped town and left no forwarding address.

I am hurt. My husband is angry. He wants to track them down no matter what the cost. What is your opinion? —VIKING.

Dear Viking: Why throw good money after bad — and waste time and energy as well? People who behave in an unconscionable manner pay a high price for their low standards. They'll get theirs. Forget it.

Confidentially

TO GOLDEN GREEK: It's not the work but the worry that kills 'em. I think your friend needs some diversion from the diversion.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Discovery Of Body Parts Seen As Rumor

Rumors of the discovery of parts of a body of a woman in the Old Irondale Rd. area were nipped Tuesday by Sheriff Russell VanFossan, who said the reports could not be verified.

The department checked out a story concerning the discovery of human hair and a report of a dog carrying an arm with fingers.

Sheriff VanFossan said the human hair came from a dump in the area where a beauty operator disposed of cuttings from her shop.

The program included slides of scenes in Germany screened by Mrs. Shields Mayhew. Miss Jane Herron led devotions.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Houk and Mrs. Mayhew, co-hostess. Next meeting is Oct. 16 with Mrs. Lester Miller of State Route 2.

Board Given Operation Of Sewer Plant

Administration of the municipal sewage disposal system will pass to the Board of Public Utilities Nov. 1 from Safety - Service Director Robert Owen under an ordinance enacted by Council Tuesday night.

The legislation was approved, 6-1, with Councilman Robert Laughlin dissenting.

Laughlin did not explain the reason for his "no" vote on the floor but, queried after the session, he asserted:

"I don't think we should turn the sewage plant over to these people. I feel Council is giving up its authority over the sewage department."

But he added that he does not "have anything personal against any member of the utility board."

The unsalaried three - member board has been operating the city water works department since 1952. It was created specifically at that time to take over administration of the water department, which formerly had been operated by the director.

Since the disposal system went into operation in 1958, it technically has been the responsibility of the director's office. However, the water department has handled such administrative details as collection of quarterly bills because both sewage charges and water bills are based on water meter readings.

The legislative change means a shift of other responsibilities, including the handling of personnel and purchase of supplies.

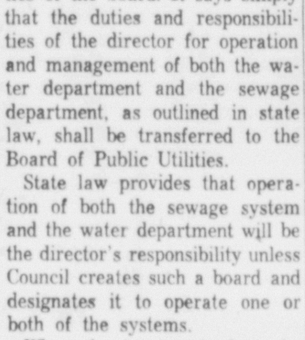

The change was made by amending a seven-line section in the City Code outlining the duties of the board. It says simply that the duties and responsibilities of the director for operation and management of both the water department and the sewage department, as outlined in state law, shall be transferred to the Board of Public Utilities.

State law provides that operation of both the sewage system and the water department will be the director's responsibility unless Council creates such a board and designates it to operate one or both of the systems.

When the treatment plant, interceptor sewers and lift stations were under construction, city officials said at that time that the system ultimately would be shifted to the utilities board. W. O. Schneider is chairman of the board.

Farmers Get Wheat Data

LISBON — Letters are being mailed this week to Columbiana County wheat producers explaining payment rates for each farm under the special 1962 wheat stabilization program, according to L. E. Lora, manager of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office here.

Up to half of the payment wheat producers may earn under the special program will be made at signup time, Lora said.

Producers who participate must reduce the wheat acreage at least 10 per cent below their allotment. The payment for the first 10 per cent diverted will be equal to the basic county support rate for No. 1 wheat multiplied by 45 per cent of the adjusted yield per acre for the farm.

Producers can earn further payments by reducing their wheat acreage up to an additional 30 per cent of the farm allotment. The payment for this additional diversion would be based on 60 per cent of the adjusted yield per acre.

Farmers who have planted less than 13½ acres in any of the years, 1959-1960-1961, should check with the county ASC office to determine the permitted acreage, if they do not understand the notice they received.

Growers will be eligible for price support for wheat in addition to payments for diverted acreage.

Producers who do not co-operate with the diverted acreage program still will be eligible for a marketing card permitting sale on the open wheat market if they harvest within their permitted acreage. Penalties for excess wheat have increased to a point which exceeds the value of the crop.

Signup for diverting wheat acreage will probably start about Oct. 1 or as soon as forms have been received at the county office.

Final signup date will be Nov. 15 and Lora suggested that farmers contact the ASC office for details.

Regional Aide Speaks

Rotarians Told Scouting Benefits 'Beyond Count'

"Scouting is relatively unimportant when measured in dollars and cents, but the things that really count can't be counted," the deputy regional Boy Scout executive of Region 4 told the Rotary Club Tuesday.

Howard Knepper of Cincinnati, who guides the activities of 300,000 Boy Scouts in Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia, said that the youth movement seems unimportant when compared to the dollar sign, bigness or material things.

"But like the love for a son or daughter, or the power of a woman's tear, the things that count can't be counted," Knepper said.

Citing the crisis faced by America today, Knepper declared that "we have never needed more than now the kind of men that scouting seeks to produce."

The movement works hand-in-hand with the churches in teaching manhood and building the individual qualities of the men who make up the nation, Knepper asserted.

"To write the full story of scouting, we must write that it is the story of a boy who stood up for a better way of life around his nation in the struggle for men's minds," he said.

"Scouting starts in the right direction the 8-to-15-year-old boys in the impressionable years when many things are crying for attention in their minds," he said.

Knepper, 51, who has been connected with scouting for 42 years, asserted that Americans are taking lightly the principles of life —"cheating just a little in many things."

"We need to be greatly concerned about this problem of 'cheating just a little'," he added.

"China felt secure behind its great wall. But they forgot something — that the gatekeeper could be bribed," Knepper said.

"The Boy Scout movement is dedicated to the best of its abilities to teach youth to become worthy gatekeepers, not subject to small or big buys," the regional director continued.

"The help of the public is needed to make it so," he added.

He said scouting's budget seems small when compared to the amount spent for liquor on one day; so small that it would keep the government operating for only a few minutes, or just enough to get a few bombers off the ground.

"But the measuring of material things so prevalant today tends to make us aware of our other responsibilities," he said. He also called for a movement to emphasize patriotism in the nation.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Writer Gives Viewers A Jolt

Hal Humphrey

He loves TV's unique ability, when it is unfettered, for translating an author's work.

"Where else could I have done 'The Lincoln Murder Case' so effectively?" Dale asks. "It's true that the sponsor didn't allow certain things in it, but I still got to say what I wanted to say — at least enough of it."

"The Lincoln Murder Case" was on CBS' "Show of the Week" last February, and in it Dale advanced the theory that Secretary of War Edwin M. Stanton engineered President Lincoln's assassination.

"DURING the research for that one," recalls Dale, "I dug up some marvelous material on Vice President Andrew Johnson, who always claimed he never knew John Wilkes Booth.

"But he did. They were drinking pals, and shared two sisters as mistresses. I also found that Booth left a note at Johnson's hotel the day of the assassination, and that afterward Johnson went on a drunken spree."

Dale had this Johnson episode in his original script, but the sponsor decided this was a little too rough. As it was, "The Lincoln Murder Case" kicked up considerable controversy.

"STUDENTS WROTE IN to ask where they could find out more about this theory of Lincoln's murder, but oldsters generally attacked the show," Dale reports. "Most of them," he adds, "began their letters with, 'How dare you . . . ' ".

No matter how exacting Dale's painstaking research is for these projects, they sometimes never get on the air because insurance is unobtainable. The networks insist on being insured against lawsuits from relatives or others involved in such stories and still living.

After Dale did "The Eichmann Story" and it was aired on Circle Theater last season, CBS was hit by a suit from Otto Skorzeny, who was Hitler's righthand SS man. He claimed that Dale's account was a defamation of his (Otto's) character, and he retained lawyers in New York to handle the litigation.

"THE SUIT finally was dropped," says Dale, "when some dialogue and a picture poster of Otto Skorzeny were removed from the tape replay of the show this summer."

Producer David Suskind has commissioned Dale to do three plays for a series of specials tentatively titled "Crimes of the Century." At the moment Dale is in Los Angeles researching for "The Bombing of the Los Angeles Times," which was the violent climax in 1910 of a bitter management - labor struggle.

After that Dale goes to work on "Murder of Leon Trotzky" which took place in Mexico in 1940. Both of these documentary dramas are to be telecast sometime next year, probably over CBS-TV.

DALE'S MOST RECENT labor was a hurry-up job of adapting Graham Greene's "The Power and the Glory," which was taped last June with Laurence Olivier and several other top stars, and is set for an Oct. 29 showing on CBS-TV.

Olivier got $100,000 for his role, and the two-hour production cost an over-all $800,000. Paramount and Susskind, the coproducers, are releasing it as a movie in England to insure getting their money from it.

"I had to do 180 pages in just one week," says Dale, "because it was the only play Olivier was interested in doing, and he had to be back in England within a couple of weeks. I would never do it again. I almost collapsed."

"I became fascinated with TV and tired of interpreting someone else's work," says Dale. "I saw that the writer had the best opportunity of creating the whole work."

He became intrigued with documentary drama when he discovered as in "The Lincoln Murder Case," the facts do not always add up to the truth.

Lisbon PTA Opens Term

LISBON — The McKinley Parent-Teacher Association held its initial meeting of the term Monday night with Mrs. Eddie James, president, presiding for business. Over 100 attended.

During the program, Miss Della Wetzel, principal, introduced the teachers and gave character sketches of each. Miss Nettie McPherson, first grade teacher, has taught here since 1920. Her pupils include two of the present school board members and the high school principal.

Supt. Russell Armitage, discussing the crowded condition of the school, said the combined second grade plan is not working satisfactorily. He suggested that the logical move would be the kindergarten, and that school officials hope to announce later in the week the location.

Williams announced the program Oct. 16 will feature a discussion and question - and - answer period on the school bond issue.

Junior PTA was held at the same time with a large attendance under the direction of the first grade room mothers and Girl Scout Troop 14, which will assist during the term.

Castro Accuses Priests, U.S. Of Overthrow Plot

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro today accused "fascist" priests of plotting with the United States to overthrow his revolutionary government.

He said the clergy was working with the U.S. State Department and the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency to promote internal disorders and organize an international campaign against Cuba.

Castro cited the antigovernment demonstration that began as a religious procession in front of Havana's Roman Catholic Church of Charity Sept. 10.

Despite the fact that one man was killed, he said the clergy went ahead and organized another hostile demonstration last Sunday in Regla, on the outskirts of Havana.

Warning that if this happens again the government will not issue permits for religious processions, he said: "When we launch the masses into the streets we will crush the government's enemies."

Last Sunday the government deported 136 Cuban and foreign-born priests. The prime minister said those expelled for counterrevolutionary activities will lose their rights as Cuban citizens.

Bond Need Told To PTA

The need for additional classrooms to meet pupil increases in Beaver Local School District was outlined by George VanHorne, executive head, at a meeting of the Calcutta Parent-Teacher Association Monday night.

VanHorne urged passage of a proposed $253,000 bond issue for school additions on which residents will vote in the Nov. 7 general election.

He described the influx of population into the school district in the past five years, and said that steady rise in enrollment must be met by additional classrooms.

"You are getting your money's worth when you consider the quality of subjects we are now offering, but when you cut down on classroom, you hurt the program," he said.

John Duffy, president, introduced officers and committees. VanHorne introduced Patrick Julius, new principal, who in turn presented the faculty.

Mrs. Grace Paul, chairman of the student aid program, said clothing, toys and dolls are needed for the Christmas welfare project. Donations are being collected at boxes at the school.

Refreshments were served 65 by the Mothers Club. Next meeting is Oct. 16.

There has been a sharp decrease in the number of cholera cases in the past week. Government statistics show the number of confirmed cases averaged less than one a day in the past seven days.

County Board Acts On Shift Of Property

LISBON — The Columbiana County Board of Education Tuesday night approved one property transfer between school districts, rejected another and delayed action on a third.

The board approved shift of the Edwin Copeland farm of 125 acres from Franklin Local School District into United School District. This action was discussed at previous meetings.

A proposed transfer of 10 acres of Mr. and Mrs. John Reese of Lisbon R. D., seeking to transfer from United into the Lisbon district, was rejected. The family said it wanted a youngster to attend Lisbon kindergarten since United has none.

A petition from Walter Burkey of Metz Rd. in the Fairfield - Waterfield District to transfer into the Columbiana School District was held for study.

Supt. James McBride reported a county education workshop will be held Oct. 2 at the new Crestview School at which Phineas Engleman of Washington, executive secretary of the National Association of School Administrators, will speak. County schools will suspend that day.

A transportation workshop for county bus drivers will be held at the Crestview School either Oct. 25 or Oct. 26.

McBride reported the fall attendance at county schools is 5,751. There are 70 in kindergarten, down four from 1960; 4,291 in elementary schools, up 150, and 1,390 in high schools, up 125.

Atty. Donald Elliott, president, will attend a meeting of the Northeast Ohio School Boards Association Friday at Kent, and Mrs. Elizabeth Strabley will attend the Ohio School Boards Association meeting at Columbus Nov. 14-16.

Next meeting is Oct. 16.

Reds Act To Halt East Berliners' Escape To West

BERLIN (AP) — Communist authorities dispatched trucks, men and armored cars today to clear out border apartment houses where East Berliners have been leaping from windows or sliding down ropes from buildings into West Berlin.

Nine successful jumps were reported Tuesday night.

Along several miles of the 25-mile border between East and West Berlin, houses on one side of the street belong to the East and the street to the West. The Communists have bricked up ground floor doors and windows, but upper stories are mostly open.

Episcopalians Near Test On Merger Plan

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

DETROIT (AP)—A crucial test neared today on a monumental proposal for uniting four major Christian denominations into a single church "truly catholic, truly reformed and truly evangelical."

The House of Bishops at the triennial General Convention of the Episcopal Church set a full day of sessions for action on the matter.

"We're in for considerable debate on it," said Bishop Henry I. Louttit, of Orlando, Fla., chairman of the House's Committee for Dispatch of Business.

Before the church-governing conclave is a recommendation by its unity commission to approve merger negotiations with the United Presbyterians, Methodists and the United Church of Christ. Altogether, they have nearly 20 million members.

Moves also were afoot to include the Polish National Catholic Church.

Whether the historic plan actually gets under way hinges heavily on action by the Episcopal Church, which clings to ancient catholic concepts not found in the other strictly Protestant bodies.

Anglo-Catholic "high church" forces have mounted a full-scale assault on the plan, saying it would mean "sacrifice of essential principle," concerning the church's sacraments and historic succession.

Many top Episcopal leaders, including the presiding bishop, the Rt. Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, have urged launching of the merger negotiations, expressing hope the difficulties could be overcome.

The United Presbyterian Church initiated the proposal officially last spring, at the suggestion of its chief officer, the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake.

His plan also called for including any other churches besides the four that were willing to enter the broad-scale reunion effort.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I prevent the usual splintering of the bottom side of a board when boring a hole through it?

A. As soon as you see the point of your drill appear on the reverse side of your board, withdraw the bit — then turn the board over and finish the hole from the other side.

Q. Is it all right to paint matting and window shades?

A. This usually works out very well. The secret of success in this project is to apply two or three very thin coats of paint, rather than a single heavy one.

Q. How can I remove the stickiness from my hands after I've been handling pitch-filled green wood or freshly - cut branches?

A. You can clean your hands very easily by wetting them and applying some baking soda.

Acting House Speaker Says No Postal Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said Tuesday there will be no postal rate increase bill in this session of Congress.

Postal rates will not come up for House action until next year, McCormack told newsmen.

He said President Kennedy had been informed at a White House meeting yesterday morning that there is no chance for the increase Kennedy had requested to reduce the postal deficit.

Pleasant And Unpleasant

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—All the angry words today about the stage being set for another raid on the value of the dollar may confuse as many persons as it enlightens.

Inflation wears many guises. It may be a pleasant rise in wage scales for labor—in other words, an unpleasant hike in costs for the boss. It may be a pleasant increase in prices and dollar profits for those who have something to sell, be it goods or services—that is, a jolt to those who have to pay more out of their weekly earnings—a cruel blow to those trying to get by on fixed incomes, such as pensions.

Or inflation may be what the orthodox economist sees—a pumping up of the supply of money until it loses part, maybe all, of its purchasing value.

The classic example in this century is Germany after World War I. The government printed more and more paper currency, until finally it took a billion or more of paper marks to get what one metal mark did before the war. Savings disappeared, no one wanted money, only tangible goods. Germany's financial structure collapsed.

After World War II the United States had classic inflation, but in a milder form. There was too much money chasing too few goods—the popular definition.

There was too much money because the supply of paper money and bank credit had been swelled during the war so that the government could buy the military hardware it needed and pay other costs. This swollen supply was in the hands of the banks, of business, of consumers.

There were too few goods because during the war consumer goods production was held down. At the end of the war there was a great backlog of demand for scarce consumer goods of all types; lots of money with which to bid for them; and therefore a big rise in prices because consumers were willing to pay high to get what producers could offer.

By the time of the 1949 recession it took $172 to buy what $100 would have before the war.

The Korean War, and the easy money policy that helped finance it, sent the prices on another, if milder, whirl. By the time of the 1954 recession it took $192 to buy what $100 would before World War I.

Since then the supply of money and credit has been increased now and then in periods of government deficit financing. But the other factor—too few goods—has rarely been a problem. There have been fewer and fewer shortages, and now there's a potential capacity to produce too many goods.

In late years, therefore, two other explanations for the rise in the cost of living have been advanced.

One is the cost-push theory. Put simply, this is: Wages have gone on rising each year under union pressure. Added to this greater labor cost are all the other factors: Higher transportation, distribution, repair, servicing charges. These steadily rising costs have pushed prices higher.

This has been offset to a debatable degree by a rise in productivity, which means the use of machinese and automatic controls to get more goods from fewer man hours. Labor insists that productivity has risen as fast as or faster than operating costs. Management contends it's the other way around.

Another explanation for the rise in the cost of living is the price-pull theory, sometimes called administered prices. The charge is that industry has hiked prices deliberately and by agreement among competitors by keeping production in check. The aim has been higher profits from which more dividends can be paid and more funds put into expansion.

These are the three charges being argued with increasing heat today: Government monetary inflation through over-spending and artificially easy money; greedy wage demands by labor; greedy pricing policies by business.

CG Inspects Oil Pollution

A Coast Guard investigator made an inspection of the river-front areas in East Liverpool and Wellsville Tuesday, following through on a request from Rep. Wayne L. Hays for an on-the-spot check to find the source of oil pollution that has plagued the district intermittently for most of the summer.

The lieutenant, stationed with the Pittsburgh detachment, first toured the River Rd. area with Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi as a guide. Then he went to Wellsville to make a similar inspection. The officer said he also intended to talk with members of the Wellsville Boat Club, which filed complaints and damage claims for alleged oil scum on boats and club property.

Chief Radeschi said at the time of the inspection about noon yesterday there was no sign of any pollution in the river off East Liverpool.

The officer suggested in the future when pollution is found in the river a sample should be secured and sent to the Coast Guard station in Pittsburgh, the chief said. In that way, the nature of the foreign material can be determined through chemical analysis, aiding in locating the source, Chief Radeschi related.

Vice Adm. J. A. Hirshfield of the Coast Guard in Washington promised Rep. Hays last week the agency would make an investigation of the pollution and submit a report, sending a copy to the congressman.

The admiral also suggested that Rep. Hays notify the Army Engineers Corps of the pollution because many of the administrative details relating to navigable inland waters are under its jurisdiction.

The first sever case of river pollution was noted here about July 1. It was reported to be an oil scum.

Peace Corps Tests Set At Steubenville

An examination for persons interested in joining the Peace Corps will be held at Steubenville Oct. 7, in the third-round of tests scheduled throughout the nation.

The examinations will begin at 8:30 a. m. in the Post Office at Steubenville and will last six hours with an hour out for lunch. There will be two tests — one for men and women interested in positions of secondary school or college teachers and the other for everyone else desiring to serve in the corps, the Washington headquarters said.

Applicants may report to the person in charge of the Civil Service Commission testing center on the morning of the day of the exam. The tests also will be held at Pittsburgh, on the first floor of the Victory Building at 9th St. and Liberty Ave.

Jury May Study Auto Theft Case

LISBON — A car theft case against Howard Cusick, 17, of Cleveland, formerly of Lisbon R.D. 2, has been referred to Prosecutor G. William Brokaw by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin following examination of the defendant at Woodside Receiving Hospital in Youngstown.

The youth is accused of stealing an auto in Cleveland in mid-August and driving it to the Lisbon area, where it overturned on the Old Steubenville Rd., south of the village. Then the youth returned to the village afoot and smashed a pane of glass in the front door of the Courthouse, where he was taken into custody the police and the State Highway Patrol.

At a preliminary hearing in Juvenile Court shortly afterward, Cusick was referred to Woodside Hospital for examination. With receipt of a report from the hospital Monday, Judge Tobin referred the case to the prosecutor. Cusick's $2,000 bond was continued. If the case is presented to the Grand Jury, it will be at the next term of court. Authorities said Cusick now is on probation in a Cuyahoga County auto larceny case.

Detour Is Arranged

Because of freeway construction, lower Lisbon St. will be closed to traffic within a few days and travel to and from Pleasant Heights will be detoured by way of former Chestnut St. and W. 9th St., Safety-Service Director Robert Owen told Council Tuesday night.

The director made the disclosure after Councilman Robert Laughlin asked installation of a temporary light on W. 9th St. at the point where Chestnut St. formerly intersected. He said the pavement is covered with earth and sometimes flooded with water after a rain, but there is no street light to make the hazard easily discernible to motorists.

THE DIRECTOR replied that the complaint "will be taken care of in a few days" in connection with the traffic re-routing. The former Chestnut St. right-of-way, now a smooth stretch of earth but minus pavement, will be used as the link between W. 8th St. and W. 9th St.

W. 9th St. joins Lisbon St. at a point near the street department barns, a few hundred yards upgrade from W. 8th St. Owen said the freeway contractors have promised to provide a suitable surface, "almost as smooth as a city street," for the temporary link between W. 8th and W. 9th Sts.

In another question related to the freeway construction, Harold Simms of May St. said residents of his neighborhood were promised by school authorities that a temporary walk would be provided for children going from May St. to Westgate School. But no walk has been provided, he complained.

Councilman John Melvin pointed out a meeting was held a few weeks ago between city, state and school officials to work out routes for West End youngsters to follow on their way to and from school.

"I thought all these situations had been taken care of, but since this one has not, I suggest the street department and the director investigate," he said.

THE STREET committee was asked to investigate a suggestion from Councilman Donald Smith to widen angle parking spots on the west side of Washington St. between E. 5th and E. 6th Sts.

Smith said he has received "many complaints" that the spaces are too narrow to maneuver a car easily or to enter or leave a parked auto. He suggested eliminating two parking spots and allocating the extra space to widen the remaining spots.

The street committee also was given a complaint from Laughlin that residents of W. 3rd St. have no place to park in front of their homes since the brick pavement has been torn up in preparation for installation of a new blacktop surface. W. 3rd St. will form a link between Route 30 and the east end of the freeway at Monroe St.

Laughlin also complained that ends of Market, Washington and Jackson Sts. are closed to traffic, although they never have been vacated formally by Council. He directed the complaint to Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, who said that "the streets never have been closed officially to my knowledge."

Mrs. John Garey of Hill Blvd. and Curry St., formerly of E. 6th St., appeared to reiterate a proposal that Council enact legislation requiring proper venting of gas space heaters and hot water tanks to guard against fatalities from noxious fumes.

She said she was a member of a committee which conferred with Council on the problem in early August. At that time, Council said it lacked funds to hire an inspector to enforce such a regulation, she said.

Mrs. Garey last night urged Council to enact legislation regardless of the availability of an inspector. In that way, a tenant in a house or apartment with improperly vented heaters could use the ordinance as a club to force the landlord to see that the conditions were corrected, she said.

Although there's no local law, firemen already have started inspecting buildings for improperly vented gas appliances and recommending changes, where needed, as a safety measure, Owen told Mrs. Garey.

Councilman Donald Hancock said Council feels a gas appliance ordinance should be part of a general regulation on building codes and zoning.

"We recognize the problem but it can't be taken care of overnight," he told Mrs. Garey.

OWEN TOLD Council he will work with a committee which is investigating a request to ban truck traffic from Grove Alley, just east of Walnut St. The committee was appointed after complaints were received at the Sept. 5 meeting that heavy trucks using the narrow alley have caused damage to several homes.

Councilman John Kelly said several parked autos have been tagged recently in Grove Alley. He thanked Owen for a fog line recently painted on Avondale St.

Owen remarked that a street department crew went to Boyce St. Monday morning to paint street lines, but the fog was so thick the men could not work because of danger from traffic. He also remarked he has observed motorists unwilling to pass another vehicle along the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." because of a solid white center line.

Passing is not prohibited, he said. In Ohio, only a solid yellow line denotes a no-passing stretch, he reminded.

Owen said he has been in touch with the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. on a complaint filed by Council two weeks ago that the crossing at W. 2nd and Jefferson St. has been closed for a year. Owen said he expects to get action soon.

"They've been letting it hang fire because nobody made an issue of it," he remarked.

The claims committee was given an $88 bill from the Standard Oil Co. service station on Dresden Ave. A city worker was putting air in the tire of a wheelbarrow when the wheel broke and a piece of the metal smashed a section of glass in the front of the station, the claim alleged.

Man Draws Prison Term

A Taylor County man was sentenced to concurrent terms of 1-to-10 years in state prison on each of four indictments charging forgery Monday in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland.

Judge Ralph E. Pryor sent George Breedlove, 61, of Grafton to Moundsville State Prison.

Breedlove was indicted last week by the September Grand Jury and admitted forgery of four checks in Weirton in August.

In other action, an Ellwood City man was placed on probation for five years and arraignment was deferred for a Weirton man until he receives a mental examination.

Mike Italia of Ellwood City was sentenced to terms of 1-to-5 years in prison on two indictments charging theft of money from J. William Davis.

Italia was placed on probation for five years after pleading guilty. Atty. Edwin Flowers filed a plea for probation.

The arraignment of Earl H. Caldwell, 28, of Weirton was deferred until he receives physical and mental examinations. Caldwell was indicted on a charge of felonious and malicious stabbing of Rachel Mintdrop June 24. Caldwell remains in County Jail.

Curtis Lee Young, 18, of Weirton was placed on a year's probation on an indictment charging breaking and entering. He was indicted in January. He will be arraigned later on a second indictment.

Chester Workers Set To Air Fund Drive

Tax Rejected At Weirton

WEIRTON — City voters Tuesday flatly rejected by a 4-1 majority a proposed service fee ordinance in a referendum.

The hotly - contested ordinance was proposed to shore up by $276,000 the city's annual budget of $760,000.

The proposal was rejected by a vote of 7,581 against to 2,019 for.

If approved, the city would have assessed every person over 21 a $5 fee, and would have imposed a property tax of twenty-one-hundredths of one per cent.

The "Citizens of Weirton" organization circulated petitions requiring the referendum and then proceeded to stage a campaign opposing enactment of the package capitation-property tax measure.

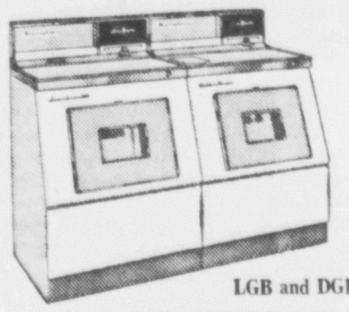

Council was supported by an organization of "Friends of Weirton" that staged a vigorous campaign for enactment of the ordinance on the basis of civic urgency.

Council is reported now considering adoption of a utility tax of 4 per cent on electrical companies and 3 per cent on gas companies in the city.

There was an extra heavy turnout of voters, with 9,600 of the city's 14,990 registered voters going to the polls.

Maris Faces Near Impossible Task With 1 Game To Go

Held To Single As Yanks Split, Clinch Flag Tie

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roger Maris was held to an infield single Tuesday night as the New York Yankees clinched at least a tie for the American League pennant by splitting a doubleheader with Baltimore.

Maris must hit two home runs tonight to officially tie Babe Ruth's home run record.

If he doesn't, he'll have eight more regularly scheduled games in which to tie or surpass the Bambino's 60-homer record of 1927, but will have to take the asterisk along with any record under the edict handed down by Commissioner Ford Frick.

That's the prospect facing Maris, who has 58 homers after failing to connect in nine tries against the Orioles' sharp pitchers, as he prepares to take his final official shots against right-hander Milt Pappas (12-8) if Hurricane Esther doesn't intervene.

The honor of clinching the tie for the Yankees' 26th pennant, their 11th in 13 years and the first under rookie manager Ralph Houk, went to left-hander Bud Daley who beat the Orioles 3-1 in the nightcap with a five-hitter.

Steve Barber won the opener for the Birds 1-0 with a four-hit job for his eighth shutout, tops in the majors. Maris walked in the first, then failed to get a hit in three other at-bats.

In the second game, Maris fouled out in the first, got an infield single in the third, grounded out in the fourth, hit a long foul in the seventh before flying out to center and struck out in the ninth for a 3-for-36 performance at Baltimore this season.

Bill Skowron took up the homer slack for the Yankees, cracking his 27th, with one on in the fourth, for a 3-1 New York lead that stood up and reduced their magic number to one over the second-place Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers, who play an afternoon game against Los Angeles today, maintained a mathematical chance to tie for the pennant by beating the Angels 6-2 Tuesday.

Cleveland and Kansas City split the A's winning the opener 6-0 and the Indians taking the nightcap 6-2. Chicago whipped Boston 5-1 and Minnesota defeated Washington 3-1.

Skowron's homer, with Elston Howard on base against Baltimore starter Skinny Brown (10-6), gave Daley his 12th win against 17 defeats. The lone Baltimore run came on Ron Hansen's homer leading off the third.

In the opener, Barber (17-11) had the Yankees completely in control while Baltimore's first inning run stood up and made Whitey Ford (24-4) the loser. The Orioles scored when Brooks Robinson singled, reached second as the ball got by Hec Lopez and scored on Jerry Adair's double.

The Tigers scored four in the first inning on singles by Billy Bruton and Norm Cash, doubles by Al Kaline and Rocky Colavito plus two wild pitches by Ken McBride (12-14) and an error. That was enough for Don Mossi (15-7), although he was tagged for homers by Eddie Yost and Steve Bilko in a four-hit pitching performance.

Reds' Magic Number Hits 5

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

They're playing taps for the Dodgers in Los Angeles while Cincinnati's rambunctious Reds ride their pennant-bound express to their first National League flag in 21 years.

The Reds, a patchwork outfit that includes a host of youngsters and a batch of castoffs, ballooned their lead to five games over the Dodgers Tuesday night by walloping the Pittsburgh Pirates 10-1 for their seventh victory in the last eight games.

The triumph, coupled with Los Angeles' second straight loss to the seventh-place Chicago Cubs, 7-3, reduced the Reds' magic number to five. Any combination of five Cincinnati victories or Dodger defeats will give the Reds their first pennant since 1940.

CUBS PITCHER Bob Anderson is congratulated by Ed Bouchee after he hit a two-run homer against the Dodgers Tuesday at Los Angeles. The Cubs 7-3 victory over Los Angeles put the Dodgers five games behind the league-leading Cincinnati Reds. (UPI Telephoto)

It was a typical story for the Reds as trade acquisition Gene Freese smacked two homers, including a key three-run shot in a seven-run fourth-inning rally, and 24-year-old Jim O'Toole won his sixth in a row bringing his pitching record to 17-9.

San Francisco and Milwaukee players hammered four homers each before Ed Bailey's ninth-inning single drove in the winning run for the Giants' 11-10 victory. St. Louis blanked Philadelphia 3-0 as Curt Simmons five-hit his former teammates.

O'Toole stopped the Pirates on seven hits, allowing their only run in the fifth on Hal Smith's single, a double by Bill Mazeroski and an infield out. The Reds laced Pittsburgh starter Bob Friend (14-18) for seven runs in the fourth. Freese's solo shot in the seventh, his 26th homer, ended the scoring for the Reds, who pounded Friend and three successors for 15 hits.

Bob Anderson (7-9), who hadn't completed a game in 10 previous starts, went the route for the Cubs and knocked in the winning runs with a two-run homer in the fourth.

Bailey's single settled a homer battle. Willie Mays, who smashed a grand slam, Orlando Cepeda, Jim Davenport and Bailey connected for the Giants. Joe Adcock Roy McMillan, Ed Mathews and Frank Bolling homered for the Braves. Reliever Stu Miller (14-4) won it with the loss charged to Carl Willey (5-12). Warren Spahn was sent to the showers in the second inning without victory No. 20.

County Grid Officials Will Meet Tonight

The Columbiana County Football Officials Association will meet tonight at 7 in Room 204 at East Liverpool High School.

HARRY CRAFT gets a big kiss from his wife Tuesday night in Houston after he was named manager of Houston's entry in the National League. Craft is currently manager of the minor league Houston Buffs and he is shown with his wife just outside the Buff dugout before an American Association playoff game with Louisville. Colt general manager, Paul Richards, made the announcement. (UPI Telephoto)

Craft Named Manager Of Houston Club

HOUSTON (AP) — Harry Craft, Houston's last minor league baseball manager, will lead the city into the major leagues.

Craft, 46, signed a two-year contract Tuesday as field manager of the Houston Colts, a 1962 National League entry.

Terms of the contract were not announced.

Craft was summoned from the "brain trust" of Chicago Cubs coaches in mid-season to manage the American Association Houston Buffs.

He managed the Kansas City Athletics from the middle of 1957 until the end of the 1959 season, finishing seventh each year.

The Buffs were in fifth place in the association when Craft arrived July 16. They won 32 of their last 54 games to squeeze into fourth place and the league playoffs.

Craft started his major league career in 1937 with the Cincinnati Reds and completed his playing days in 1948.

Buffalo Evens Series With Rochester In IL

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The Buffalo Bisons, all even with Rochester after snapping the Red Wings' five-game playoff winning streak, move into Rochester tonight for the third game of the International League playoff final.

Buffalo squared the series at one game apiece Tuesday night, winning 9-2. The Bisons clobbered four Red Wing pitchers for 12 hits, including two home runs by Don Micher.

Mets Are Ready To Join Majors

CHICAGO (AP) — The fact-finding committee has all but completed its job for the New York Mets who hope their debut in the National League next season will be nothing short of successful.

Rogers Hornsby, the Mets' chief scout in the Chicago area, has gone about his job as diligently as he did when he was winning batting championships and earning his way into baseball's Hall of Fame.

Hornsby has scouted both National League American League teams and feels the Mets will come up with a team better than the 1961 American League entries of Washington and Los Angeles.

"Those two teams did real well," says Hornsby. "A lot of people figured they'd be lucky to win 100 games between them. They fooled all those people and we hope to do even better.

"I don't know for sure," said Hornsby, "but I have a pretty good idea of the players we'll get a chance to draft.

"I can't reveal any names but when I turn in my reports I indicate which players will be a bigger help to us in the Polo Grounds. That's where we'll start playing our games."

The Mets have scouts like Hornsby in nearly all the major league areas. Their reports are being submitted to General Manager George Weiss in New York.

From these reports, the Mets will decide which players are worth taking once the other clubs in the league reveal what players they are willing to let go.

Former Potter Leads BG

Potts, Ex-WVU Gridder, Back To Haunt Marshall

By DICK LEONARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

HUNTINGTON (AP) — A former West Virginia University football player is coming back to haunt Marshall University in its Saturday night game here with Bowling Green.

He's former WVU frosh quarterback Jim Potts of East Liverpool, Ohio, now a regular signal-caller for Bowling Green. Potts dropped out of WVU after suffering a shoulder injury and transferred to BG.

As Bowling Green's regular quarterback last year, the 195-pounder completed 44 of 71 passes for 62 per cent. He threw the winning touchdown pass in last year's 14-7 victory over Marshall while completing 8 of 12 tosses for 109 yards.

Potts, now a senior at Bowling Green, is considered the key to the Falcons' 1961 season which opens Saturday night here. Marshall opened the campaign last Saturday with a 33-6 loss to VMI.

This Fairfield Stadium clash will be the first Mid - American Conference game for both teams.

"We'll get beat by Marshall," he predicted. "They already have one game under their belts."

"Yeah, that's true," countered Marshall Coach Charlie Snyder. "But they got a chance to scout us and that means a lot."

"We caught them napping last year. But that won't happen this time."

FIELD AND STREAM

By R. L. LIDE

Within the last 10 years, opening morning of squirrel season was a looked forward to event.

Many hunters "hit the sack" as soon as the sun went down and set the alarm to rise and shine at 4 a. m.

Some lunch counters were packed with hunters getting their coffee, hot cakes or ham and eggs, all in high spirits and eager to get into the woods before daybreak, then sit quietly and concealed waiting for the first limb to shake, revealing the movements of the bushy tails, and go home with the limit by the time the sun was high in the sky.

Times have certainly changed within the last few years. If the coffee shops in this locality, depended on the hunter trade they would soon be out of business.

SO MANY people used to enjoy fried squirrel, squirrel stew or baked in the oven. Old-timers like myself used to skin the squirrels in a way that fewer hairs had to be picked. And preparing the squirrel for cooking was an art within itself.

Even the top portion of the head was cleaned and the brains in the upper half of the skull were included in the stew, something that might be repulsive by present-day tenderfoots.

Last Friday morning when the squirrel season opened I cannot help but believe there were far more squirrels in the woods than hunters.

I passed woods after woods where I know a few squirrels exist and not one hunter's car was seen. In former years there were so many hunters that several cars were parked along the roadway at any patch of woods that existed. And with that kind of hunting pressure, I was actually cautious about entering the woods not knowing when one of these "movement" shooters might take a pot at me.

One hunter I approached about 9 a. m. was walking down the road near Dungannon. I asked him how he made out and he told me he hadn't found a place to hunt yet as his favorite woods had been destroyed by strip mining, something he didn't know until he walked back in. Others said their favorite squirrel woods had been cut over by the sawmills.

THAT SEEMS to be the answer to squirrel hunting 1961, practically no place to hunt. So many of the spots with sizable white oaks and other big timber are heavily posted with "No Hunting" signs that mean exactly what is spelled out.

A good population of local hunters took off for the southern Ohio hills, where they know some farmer who has woods and squirrels, while others hit Shawnee Forest, or other state - owned lands where squirrels exist.

From what I can gather this is one reason why the hunting pressure has dropped in Columbiana County to an all-time low. I intend to check with some of the biggest hunting license agencies in this county and see if there is any decline in the normal sale of licenses.

Anymore, hunting is like fishing, the nimrods will drive a couple of hundred miles where they think hunting or fishing is better and think nothing of it.

Has 4 Or 5 Shots Left

Roger Homerless In Nine Trips As 'Jinx' Holds Up

By JOE REICHLER

The crew-cut slugging star of the New York Yankees has just one game—four or five at bats—in which to slam the three home runs he still needs to eclipse Babe Ruth's home run record of 60 in a season.

The 27-year-old right fielder's bat was almost completely muffled Tuesday night as the Yankees assured themselves of at least a tie for the American League pennant with a doubleheader split against Baltimore. New York won the second game 3-1 after Steve Barber of the Orioles had outpitched Whitey Ford 1-0 in the opener.

Maris, with 58 homers in the bank, came to bat nine times. The closest he came to hitting a home run was a long drive into the right field bleachers — foul by some 20 feet—in the seventh inning of the nightcap. His only safety was an infield single in his sixth time at bat. In his other tries, he walked, fouled out twice, grounded out twice, flied out twice and struck out.

"Well, I've got to be a Houdini now to do it in 154 games," Maris said.

"I had a bad night," he admitted, "and when I'm bad, I'm really lousy. I've got nobody to blame but myself. I was overanxious. I had some good pitches to hit at but I also swung at some bad ones. Those pitchers (Steve Barber, Skinny Brown and Hoyt Wilhelm) had me swinging at their pitch. I should have waited them out a little more and forced them to come in with my pitch, but I was too anxious."

Commissioner Ford Frick has decreed that if Ruth's hallowed homer mark is equalled or broken, it must be done in 154 decisions. That was the number of games which constituted a season in 1927, when the Babe set his record. The current American League seasons runs 162 games.

"As far as Mr. Frick is concerned," Maris told reporters Tuesday night, "I've got only one more game. But physically, as far as my body is concerned, I've got nine more to play."

A crowd of 31,317, unheeding warning signals sent ahead by Hurricane Esther, came out to see whether Maris could break the Memorial Stadium jinx which has held him homerless in six previous games. The turbulent lady, true to her gender, was late but there was enough wind blowing in from right field to make Roger's job tougher. Roger, a left-hander hitter, was able to hit only two balls out of the infield all night.

Coliseum May See Last Ball Game Tonight

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barring a National League playoff series here— and the only thing less likely to be held here is the Florida State Fair — this will be the Coliseum's last night as a major league baseball park.

The Dodgers, fading from the 1961 National League picture along with their vast stadium, play their final home game tonight against the Chicago Cubs, who beat them 7-3 Tuesday night. The loss dropped the Dodgers five games behind league-leading Cincinnati.

The Coliseum, largest park in the majors, is hardly as rich in baseball history as the Dodgers' previous home in Brooklyn. But, in four seasons, it has had a few moments that will not be forgotten.

The Coliseum also is the home of one of the greatest curiosities in baseball history—the left-field screen. In four seasons, 741 home runs have been hit at the Coliseum, and something like 80 or 85 per cent of them have gone to left field, sailing over or near the screen.

The home run records expected to be set here never materialized. But, because a 275-foot fly ball could drive in as many as four runs, the screen did invest each game with an extra element of suspense.

Perhaps one of the most exciting games was the final playoff of 1959, when the Dodgers took the National League pennant in a 12-inning thriller.

Earlier in the same season, on May 7, a crowd of 93,103 watched the Dodgers and Yankees play a benefit game for Roy Campanella, the paralyzed Dodger catcher. It was the largest turnout in U.S. baseball history.

The most curious baseball innovation introduced here, besides the screen, was the bugle call. Dozens of fans started bringing horns to the park. When the Dodgers came to bat, they blew cavalry calls and the crowd yelled: "Charge!"

Tuesday night, however, a different call was intoned by a musician in the left-field stands. In the top of the fifth inning, while the Dodgers were changing pitchers, the man with the horn played "Taps."

Perhaps he feels the same way about the Coliseum as Dodger Manager Walt Alston, who recently remarked:

Spahn Fails Again In Bid For 20th Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Southpaw ace Warren Spahn, blasted in his last two starts, wants another shot, as soon as possible, at his 20th victory.

He had allowed just one homer in 77 innings when he took the mound against the Giants here Tuesday, but left before a batter was out in the fourth inning, trailing 7-2 on four San Francisco home runs.

The 40-year-old left-hander seeking his 12th season of 20 victories, had won 10 straight games and has a 19-12 record before last Friday. Then he lasted only into the second inning at Los Angeles before leaving with his 13th defeat.

Here Tuesday, the Braves went ahead 9-7 before losing 11-10, so no decision went on Spahn's record.

It was windless in Candlestick Park when Spahn pitched and he commented, "That ball really hops out of here when there's no wind. But don't make any excuses for me, please."

Eight homers in the game were the most ever hit out of usually blustery Candlestick since it opened at the start of the 1960 season.

Etcheverry Seen Cards' Hope In Tilt With Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry, veteran quarterback, is the big hope of the St. Louis Cardinals and could be a problem to the Cleveland Browns in the latter's home opener Sunday.

Etcheverry, new to the National Football League, survived his first test last Sunday against the usually sturdy defense of the New York Giants.

Despite a sore arm that kept him from throwing long passes, Etcheverry clicked on 10 of 23 passes for 97 yards and one touchdown.

The 5-foot-11, 185-pounder was a standout in Canadian pro circles. Etcheverry was a star quarterback with the Montreal Alouettes for nine seasons.

Etcheverry, 31, led the Skyline Conference in total offense in his junior and senior years at the University of Denver.

World Trot Record Broken At Delaware

Songin's 4 TD Flips Is Top Performance

DALLAS (AP) — Al Dorow of New York held onto his lead in American Football League passing last week but the sensation of the circuit was 37-year-old Butch Songin of Boston.

Songin came off the bench against Denver and whipped out four touchdown passes to lead the Patriots to a 45-17 victory. The four scoring tosses gave Songin a share of the one-game league record.

In all Songin hit 13 of 26 passes for 230 yards, allowing no interceptions, and jumped from nowhere to the No. 2 spot in passing behind Dorow.

Dorow has completed 39 of 70 passes for 464 yards and leads the passers under the six-point system that includes interceptions and touchdown passes in arriving at the efficiency points. He has 47 points to 40 for Songin.

Paul Lowe of San Diego moved into the lead in rushing with a 72-yard day against Oakland for a two-game total of 172 yards. First-week leader Jack Spikes of Dallas was idle and slipped to fourth. Lowe's mate, Bo Roberson, is second with 148 yards.

Tarkenton Hit In Pro Debut

Rookie Leads NFL Passers

A week ago Francis Tarkenton was just a guy showing a lot of promise with the brand new Minnesota Vikings. Today he leads the league in individual passing figures released by NFL headquarters.

Rookie Tarkenton threw four touchdown passes and scored six points himself Sunday in Minnesota's debut, a 37-13 victory over the Chicago Bears.

And the kid from Georgia proved he was a take-charge fellow in the process. Once during the game, old pro Hugh McElhenny said in huddle:

"I'm tired."

After the game, McElhenny said:

Tarkenton piled up 250 yards with his passing and wound up the NFL's first week of play with a completion percentage of 73.9, tops in the 14-team circuit. San Francisco's John Brodie wasn't far behind with a 72.7 percentage.

Another Ohio entry, Speedy Time, owned by the Byron Kuth Stables of Cleveland, drew the rail in the second division.

OSU Running Game Takes Over Spotlight

The ground offensive tactics don't mean Coach Woody Hayes is deserting an aerial attack. The reason is the Buck's top quarterback and passer, Bill Mrukowski, is hospitalized, recuperating from a seige of virus.

Mrukowski and halfback Ed Ulmer joined end Chuck Bryant in University Hospital Tuesday. All are trying to regain their strength after being hit by the virus.

Young Urges Efforts Be Pushed To Disarm

WASHINGTON (AP)—By limiting its nuclear tests to underground explosions, while the Soviets are testing with blasts in the atmosphere, the United States is showing far more concern for its world neighbors, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, says.

Young called for continued efforts toward disarmament. He added that public resumption of nuclear tests by the Soviet government is forcing the United States to play "a deadly game of Russian roulette."

Rep. Feighan Raps Russia As UN Member

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia should not be allowed to retain membership in the United Nations while "working overtime on a global basis to destroy its very purposes," Rep. Michael E. Feighan, D-Ohio, says.

Calling for U.S. leadership in reorganizing the U.N. in the wake of the death of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, Feighan declared Russia must be forced to conform to the letter and spirit of the U.N. charter.

Danger Of Radioactivity Seen As Exaggerated

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A frequent prediction about nuclear war is that radioactivity would poison the earth and all forms of life.

"This is certainly not true," say Dr. Edward Teller, one of the world's most prominent nuclear physicists.

"The danger of radioactivity has been grossly exaggerated.

"We must do everything possible to avoid war. But if, despite that, war does come, unreasonable fear of radioactivity could lead to panic and to widespread, needless loss of life.

"For example, popular writings have even suggested that radiation sickness can be transmitted from persons to person, like a contagious disease.

"If there were a war, this means a person who had been exposed to radiation might be denied admission to a shelter from fear of him.

"Instead, the humane thing would be to try to save his life. His contaminated clothing should be removed, and treatment started for radiation sickness. Care should be taken to dispose safely of his radioactive body wastes. But that victim could not really harm others in the shelter."

Radiation is the new—and to most people mysterious—element in nuclear weapons.

More insidiously, the bomb releases a cloud of radioactivity which is carried away by winds, then falls to earth. It forms a heavy pattern on the ground near the explosion, then rapidly decreases in intensity.

But for years, radioactivity can rain down around the earth in the form of long-lasting radioactive atoms, such as strontium-90.

This fallout generated a violent political and scientific controversy as to the danger only from tests, and the moral question of spreading contamination in order to test weapons.

Everyone agrees humans have always lived in a constant small sea of radiation from natural sources such as cosmic rays and radioactive rocks.

At this point, even the scientists split.

Some hold the added radioactivity means hundreds to thousands of babies will be born deformed, or stillborn, and that elements such as strontium-90 will cause or are causing more human cancer.

Other scientists including Dr. Teller insist there has been no damage yet, or that the added risk is to tiny to measure. The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission takes this official view.

"The present amounts of radioactivity are so small that animal experiments show no effects," Dr. Teller says.

"We are scared about very small amounts, such as the strontium-90 found in milk. But we could take 100 times more, and still consume it safely.

"If it were 1,000 times more, we would drink the milk or eat vegetables, if we were hungry, even though it might give us a slightly greater chance, say, of getting cancer later in life.

"But if it were 10,000 times more, then we should consider carefully how the intake of radioactivity can be reduced."

All-out war would vastly increase the radioactive fallout.

But Dr. Teller says the lethal and damaging genetic effects — should this happen—have been exaggerated also.

"And we are just beginning to learn how to combat the effects of radiation, to remove it from food or water, or remove radioactivity from the body, and to devise antidotes," he notes.

Radioactive atoms on the ground might be plowed under, he said. Or research may find means of breeding crops which selectively removed radioactivity (and were themselves thrown away on harvest) or crops which take up little of the dangerous types of atoms.

"The point is that overdrawn fear of radioactivity could paralyze us, and lead to foolish action if the tragdey of war came upon us," Dr. Teller contends.

Lack of adequate civil defense in the United States, he suggested, constitutes in effect an invitation to attack, and he added: "We should start right now, without further delay."

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Waistline Needed For New Fall Styles

"S for shape" is the fashion decree for fall. The new lines, variously termed "the oblique" "the zigzag" and "the spiral" are all designed to create — shape. To meet the designers halfway, milady will need to slim excess padding off the waist and midsection.

Ida Jean Kain

The slim waist is always fashion's darling for when extra calories settle at the equator, other curves are crowded out. It's easy to see that a widening at the waist squares off the short figure and gives a heavy - set look to the large - frame girl. It even makes a botch of the near-normal weight's figure.

Slimming this middle measurement can be a fast process if exercise is directed to the right muscles. This resistance exercise restores tone to muscles at sides of waist. . .

Movement: Pull up strongly with the lower abdominal muscles and hold hips tucked under. Slowly pull away from the door frame and bend to ther side. Keep it up until a strong pull is felt along the waistline region.

Come back to position and repeat three times. Change sides and bend to the other side. Later the exercise can be repeated a dozen times on each side with a pause for relaxing between each half dozen counts.

The loss of tone in the waistline extends from the abdominal girdle muscles. To put the snap back into the bias muscles and streamline the frontline as well as the waist, try this exercise. Since it involves a twisting movement, however, it should not be attempted by those who have anything wrong with the lower back.

Movement: Keep knees together and twist slowly and strongly at the waist, lower thighs to floor on one side, then on the other. This exercise is not difficult for anyone with a normally strong back and can be continued for 10 counts.

Movement: Flex the straight leg to chest and swing arms up and back on floor overhead and add a strong stretch through the middle of the figure. Return to position and perform with the same leg 12 counts; rest, and repeat with other leg. Keeping one leg flexed with sole of foot on floor eliminates strain.

You can keep your figure young if you refuse to let the waist slip its moorings.

Receive Pay Hike

CINCINNATI (AP)—More than 700 Hamilton County employes have received raises of 10 cents an hour. The raises, retroactive to Sept. 7, were granted Tuesday by the county commissioners.

69 Safe In Crash

DUBLIN (AP) — A chartered airliner carrying 69 Irish pilgrims home from Lourdes, France, overshot Dublin airport Tuesday night in a heavy rain storm. Pilgrims and the four crewmen got out of the plane, shaken but unhurt. The plane was badly damaged.
